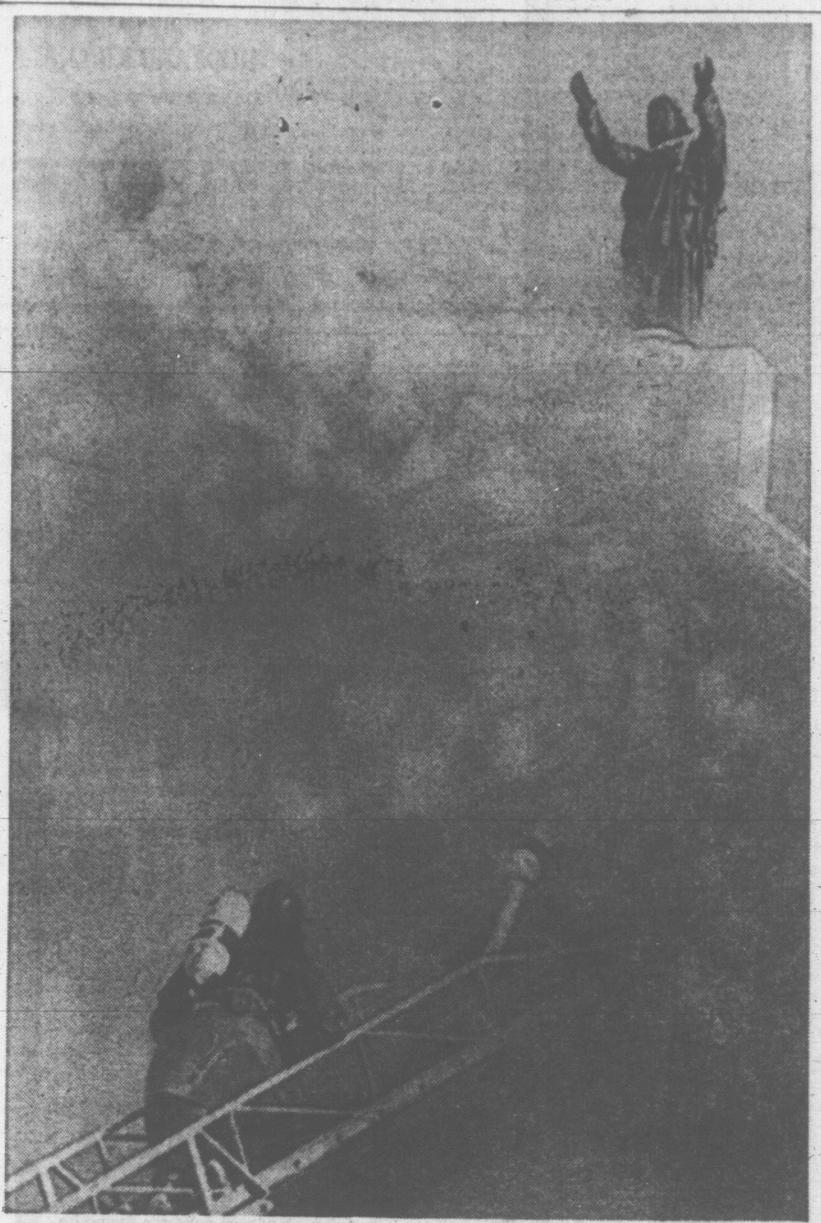
Italy Moves for Study On China Seat in UN



SACRED HEART CHURCH in Edmonton was destroyed by fire Thursday. Firemen battling the blaze used the statue atop the church to guide jets of water through the dense smoke in an attempt to save part of the building. Small boy is being questioned by police in regard to blaze.

CHEERS, SHOUTS, SILENCE

House Storm Erupts When Dief Walks In

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker returned to the Commons today and received as warm a welcome from members of other parties as from his own.

A few Liberal back-bench members didn't join in with Prime Minister Pearson and other ministers in loud desk-thumping.

But then neither did some Conservatives, including Davie Fulton (Kamloops), Douglas Harkness (Calgary North) and Richard A. Bell (Carleton).

Mr. Diefenbaker acknowledged the applause, made a pointed reference to those Conservatives who didn't join in and then within seconds was locked in a heated exchange with External Affairs Minister Martin.

It was the Opposition leader's first day back at his Commons seat since the Conservative annual meeting which voted to hold a leadership convention before the end of next year.

After the applause, the Opposition Leader with a smile looked at the government benches and termed the welcome an "indication of unification."

Then, looking directly at the three front-bench Conservatives who had sat silently, referred to "three or four who adopted the attitude of sitting on their hands."

Mr. Diefenbaker then charged Mr. Martin with denying to Parliament information about a Canadian initiative aimed at seating Communist China at the United Nations.

The external affairs minister said news reports about the initiative were "speculative" and policy would be announced when decided.

At one point Mr. Martin's desk-mate, Prime Minister Pearson, touched his arm, apparently wanting him to sit down before he said any more. Then Mr. Martin, fumbling for words, put the Commons into laughter by referring to Mr. Diefenbaker as the prime minister.

Recovering, the external affairs minister said he had hoped Mr. Diefenbaker would have followed the "sporting qualities" shown by the Liberal applause.

Mr. Diefenbaker said 'the China issue involved the future of mankind and was not a matter of sport.

Ky Tries Once More To Stabilize Cabinet

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky today reshuffled his cabinet, created a new ministry of culture and split South Viet Nam's key economy ministry into separate portfolios for commerce and industry.

Reports of friction persisted after a stormy meeting of top leaders Thursday night and further cabinet changes were thought likely.

In the cabinet reshuffle, aimed at ending the six-week-old dispute in his regime, Ky named three new ministers.

BREAK IN STRIKE?

Union Offers To Negotiate

MONTREAL (CP)—A possible break in the five-day Air Canada strike came today when the 5,200-member International Association of Machinists sent a telegram to the big airline offering to resume bargaining.

The telegram to Air Canada President Gordon McGregor asked the airline to advise union officials if it is willing "to resume genuine bargaining" in negotiations that have been stalemated since before the strike began Monday.

Mr. McGregor was not immediately available for comment.

In Ottawa, Mike Rygus, Canadian head of the machinists, said the union's 12-man negotiating team has been ordered back to Montreal to be on hand for possible acceptance of renewed talks by the airline.

Mike Pitchford, co-chairman of the union negotiating team, said here the telegram had been sent to Mr. McGregor because "we thought something was needed to break the deadlock. We thought we would make a last try."

The offer from the striking machinists followed their rejection Thursday of an offer from Mr. McGregor to resume negotiations in a bid to end the walkout which has grounded all 86 of Air Canada's planes.

Mr. McGregor made it clear, however, that the airline could not go beyond its agreement to accept the proposals of mediator Richard Geddes. Mr. Geddes suggested a wage increase of 18 per cent over a two-year period. This was turned down by the union after Air Canada had accepted the proposal "with extreme reluctance."

Machinists earnings were between a basic $1.58 and a top wage of $3.17 an hour before the start of the strike, which threw another 4,000 Air Canada employees out of work.

COMMENTS ON STAND

Mr. Rygus, Canadian vice-president of the union, said in Ottawa after Mr. McGregor's new bid to end the strike that the union is not prepared to resume negotiations with the airline "on pre-determined terms."

Called by an Air Canada official who offered to resume contract negotiations on the basis of the company's last offer, Mr. Rygus said "a strike has never been settled by a bargaining session based solely on the management offer."

PM May Appoint Mediator

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of a government-appointed mediator to look into the strike tying up Air Canada is "under active consideration," Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons today.

He was replying to New Democratic Leader Douglas who asked whether the government felt it was time for this step in the dispute between the International Association of Machinists and the airline.

Mr. Douglas said the latest word from Air Canada was that it would not consider anything beyond the wage offer suggested by a private mediator in the dispute.

Michael Starr (PC—Ontario) said the government should consider some effort to get the parties back to the negotiating table because as long as they remained apart "nothing can be done."

Mr. Pearson said the government realized this and that was why consideration was being given to a mediator who might get the two parties together to discuss the wage dispute further.

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) asked whether non-scheduled carriers who might take up some of the passenger traffic grounded by the strike were holding off from any flights because of the possibility their aircraft might not be serviced.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said he would check with the air transport board on this situation.

Mainland, City Flights Operating

Regular daily flights between Victoria International Airport and Vancouver were put into operation today by B.C. Airlines.

The flights replace those normally run by strike-bound Air Canada.

An 11-passenger Grumman Mallard amphibian will run six flights daily in each direction.

In announcing the schedule, an airlines spokesman said authority had been received from the Air Transport Board and a commitment from its employees that workers on strike, members of the International Association of Machinists, will not picket the operation.

Flight times are:

Leave Pat Bay: 9 a.m., 10:45, 12:15, 2 p.m., 5 and 6:30.

Leave Vancouver: 8:15 a.m., 10, 11:30, 1:15, 3:15 and 5.45.

Extra flights can be laid on if necessary. Tickets are obtainable at both air terminals.

MISSILES BOOST ATOM FORCE

China Can Hit U.S. Bases

PEKING (Reuters)—An English-language newssheet published here today said that China's nuclear missile was capable of hitting nearby United States forces and bases.

The first indication of the range of the missile used last month in China's fourth nuclear test came in a letter from China edited by American journalist Anna Louise Strong.

Miss Strong is generally believed to have closer contact with China's top leaders than any other foreigner.

In the latest issue of her newsletter she recalled that China's first test of a missile-borne nuclear bomb came during President Johnson's Asian tour and Manila conference "which were clearly designed to organize an Asian and Pacific alliance against China."

The article said "the bomb-missile notified Johnson that even if the Pentagon boasts that its stockpile can obliterate in minutes all that China has built in 17 years, it must now expect retaliation on its 7th Fleet and any nearby United States forces and bases."

Ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet patrol waters off the coasts of China and Southeast Asia.

10,000 Flee Italy Flooding

ROME (UPI) — Pounding rains and howling gales sent the Adriatic surging over the Po River Delta today, submerging thousands of acres of village-studded farmland in the wake of the worst flood disaster in Italian history.

The storm was so fierce it halted work of emergency crews trying to plug shattered delta seawalls.

Thousands of army troops and civilians, who evacuated an estimated 10,000 delta residents from their homes in the past 24 hours, retreated from the threatened region themselves. They left behind only a skeleton force of watchmen to sound an alarm if worse breaks occurred.

Johnson Home On Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got a go-ahead from his doctors today to check out of hospital Saturday and fly to his Texas ranch to recuperate.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the surgeons who operated on Johnson two days ago "are very satisfied with the president's recuperative progress."

53 SHIPS HIT

Dock Strike Continues

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking longshore foremen today rejected federal Labor Minister Nicholson's request that they remove pickets and return to work on the British Columbia waterfront.

The Ogden Point picket line established by the foremen's local, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union was 100 per cent effective Thursday.

Not a single longshoreman went through, ILWU local president Stan Ball said today.

The line was still in effect at press time but other men employed in the docks continue to be passed through.

The strike which began at all major B.C. ports Thursday morning has idled all longshoremen and tied up 53 deep-sea ships.

Mr. Ball explained that the current contract between the ILWU and the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association contains a clause which says the union shall not be required to cross any picket lines.

The question of whether the foremen's strike is legal does not concern the union, said Mr. Ball.

"Whether any picket line which is established is legal or illegal is not up to us to decide," said Mr. Ball.

The foremen are a local (514) within the union but are exempted from the current union agreement.

STRIKE 'ILLEGAL'

Management says the foremen are not certified as a bargaining unit and therefore the strike is illegal.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister John Nicholson Thursday night asked the longshoremen's union to stop picketing.

In a wire to the ILW, the federal minister said:

"I would urge your earliest consideration of your position and your advice that picketing has ceased and work will be resumed at ports in B.C."

Position of U.S. Seen Main Issue

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Italy proposed today that the United Nations General Assembly set up a special committee "to ascertain the real intentions of Peking" with regard to United Nations membership.

Italy said "the committee in question should be restricted in size and composed of persons of great eminence and long international experience."

Senator Attilio Piccioni, head of a special Italian delegation to the UN General Assembly, said his country's proposal is "calculated to speed up" the search for a suitable way to break the long UN deadlock over the seating of Communist China.

The committee should be instructed "to study the factual situation in China and draw the appropriate conclusions" for presentation to the fall 1967 session of the assembly.

"The issue here is the relationship between the world's biggest country and the United Nations," Piccioni said. "Extra-ordinary measures are justified."

It was obvious that UN member countries differ in their interpretations of the intentions of the Peking government.

"Peking's statements over the last decade can be interpreted in a variety of ways. We have been holding discussions here at the United Nations without any reliable data to evaluate the intentions of the Peking government.

There never has been any direct communication between Peking and the UN or any of its organs on this question.

IGNORES PLAN

Piccioni did not mention the possibility of seeking a solution based on the concept of seating Communist China without expelling the Chinese Nationalists—the so-called two-Chinas plan. This, however, has received wide discussion in private talks by Canada, Italy and others.

Following Italy in the debate, Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming of Nationalist China said his government "categorically rejects" the seating of "the so-called two Chinas" in the United Nations.

Cambodia, opening the debate, denounced efforts by Canada and Italy to find a method of seating both Chinas.

Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath told the General Assembly that "the two-Chinas theory timidly advanced recently cannot for a moment be considered seriously because there can be only one China, just as there can be only one Canada and only one Italy."

The Cambodian delegate said Formosa, the present seat of the Nationalist Chinese government, is historically a province of China.

"It is simply a question of asking who really represents the 700,000,000 people of China, one-quarter of the world's population," he added.

SPONSOR IN UN

Cambodia and Albania, commonly regarded as Peking's UN spokesman, are co-sponsoring, together with eight other countries, a motion to "restore the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China" in the UN.

There also is a U.S. motion before the assembly asking that the admission of Communist China, to which the United States remains firmly opposed, be declared an important question. This would mean that a two-thirds majority in the 121-member assembly would be required for approval.

The Cambodian ambassador described the behind-the-scenes discussions by Canada and Italy as "an immoral manoeuvre designed to legalize the intervention by the United States in the affairs of the Chinese people."

He said U.S. policy towards China is one of threats and provocation.

Trigger-Happy Lens Spoils Moon Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter II made its first try today at photographing lunar terrain where astronauts may land — but the pictures may have been double exposures.

The U.S. jet propulsion laboratory here said telemetry from the spacecraft indicates that the shutter clicked twice as many times as it should have in a 16-frame sequence.

The photographs, expected to show surface details as small as three feet across, would have been the first capable of pinpointing potential sites for a planned manned moon landing by U.S. space voyagers later in this decade.

A laboratory spokesman said it is possible that something is wrong with telemetry, and the shutter functioned properly. But if telemetry is correct, double exposures were likely.

AWAIT ANALYSIS

What actually happened won't be known until picture transmissions to a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, are analysed.

Orbiter's camera run was over a dry plain called the Sea of Tranquility.

There were to be two pictures on each of the 16 frames, one each from a high resolution lens and a low resolution lens.

The U.S. space agency had planned to release prints of one or more photos at Madrid several hours after the transmissions, with more released here tonight.

TIMES TO CARRY SERIES ON ADVENTURE

Early Voyages His Inspiration

JOHN, PAT MANNING

Inspired by the early voyages of captains Cook and Vancouver, a Victorian has set out on a Centennial Cruise from England to the Inner Harbor.

John Manning and his wife Pat, sailing the 30-foot ship — Powindah — have embarked on a 12,000-mile cruise which will take them through Europe's inland waterways to the Mediterranean, across the Atlantic to the West Indies, through the Panama Canal to the Galapagos Islands, Tahiti, Bora-Bora, Honolulu and then to Victoria.

A former Times reporter, John is no stranger to those who enjoy adventure articles. He hitch-hiked around the world eight years ago and wrote a column about it for the Times.

Upon his return he gave a series of lectures sponsored by this newspaper, on his travels and experiences.

John and Pat will be sharing their year-long adventure with Times readers and, starting Saturday, will tell of the dreams and travels leading up to the Centennial Cruise.

'MAGIC FORMULA DOESN'T EXIST'

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told the Commons Thursday that his recent travels behind the Iron Curtain convinced him there is "no magic formula" for the ending of the war in Viet Nam.

He was also convinced that the two Communist powers in Poland and Russia seek a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

The Polish and Soviet governments, he found, are as anxious as the Canadians and Italians about the possible proliferation of nuclear weapons in the world. The U.S.S.R. government leaders had assured him they were anxious to arrive at a non-proliferation treaty.

The minister reported to the Commons on his tour which took him to Poland and into Russia with a two-day stopover in Rome on his way back to Canada. He was abroad 12 days and flew 12,200 miles.

DETAILED TALKS

Mr. Martin said the talks he had with the Polish and Russian governments on Viet Nam were more detailed than on any other subject raised during their meetings. Ending hostilities in Viet Nam was of as much interest to the Communist government leaders as it is to Canada, he said.

But he put forward Canadian views in detail and on the basis of Canada's intimate knowledge of the United States and its policies and because of Canada's friendship for the U.S. He was able to explain why "certain over-simplified suggestions which have been put forward from time to time for ending the war were not the most realistic way of moving towards a settlement." He believed he had made this clear despite the views a country might hold on the merits of the arguments.

He said he referrred to the proposal for a unilateral decision to stop the bombing of North Viet Nam unconditionally and for good, without any indication as to what the other side might do in return to start towards de-escalation of the conflict or toward negotiations.

He said he put forward in "considerable detail" to the Soviet and Polish leaders Canadian views on the possible future rule of the Viet Nam commission and certain suggestions as to steps which might be taken to lead away from a military to a political settlement. Canada's views were listened to "most carefully."

Postmen Criticize Lack of CLC Help

MONTREAL(CP)—Postal workers in Montreal threatened to switch union affiliation Thursday night because of what they described as the lack of support from the central union body during the recent postal contract negotiations.

"We really got a bum deal and the Canadian Labour Congress was not there to help us," Mârcel Perreault, a vice-president of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, told more than 2,000 members.

The members openly expressed dissatisfaction at their national negotiating committee and in the new contract which averted a proposed strike.

At the same meeting William Houle, president of the 2,300-member Montreal branch, called for the amalgamation of the two postal unions in the country into one to build "a stronger common front in future negotiations with the government."

He too voiced anger about the postal wage settlement but he advised against any "spontaneous strike."

Meanwhile Vancouver postal workers overwhelmingly endorsed the action of the national leaders in signing the contract. Leaders of the two postal union branches urged the 1,300 Vancouver members to forget any dissatisfaction with the nationally-negotiated agreement.

A statement that Regina letter carriers were unhappy with the settlement was criticized Thursday by T. R. Walker, persident of the Regina local of the letter carriers union.

Fred Budinski, former national vice-president of the union, said the executive had sold the members "down the river," but Mr. Walker said that opinion did not represent the general feeling of letter carriers in Regina.

City Considers Expropriation For Carpark Site

Victoria city council will consider expropriating land on Johnson Street to clear the way for another downtown parking building.

The decision was made Thursday by the city's finance committee after members were informed that negotiations to purchase the property are not going well.

A fourth city-owned parking building has been on the books for some time.

Power Balance at Stake In Cariboo Byelection

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Mika

Premier Bennett has more compelling reasons than the obvious ones for being anxious to see Attorney-General Robert Bonner keep the Cariboo seat among the government benches.

The byelection will decide more than one seat. It will determine the balance of power within the Socred caucus and even the internal equilibrium of the cabinet.

A defeat will have major consequences on government policy thorughout the life of the 28th legislature and even could—stretched to the utmost possibility—threaten Mr. Bennett with a forced phase-out perhaps less messy but just as telling as the one undergone this week by John Diefenbaker.

It was a poignant coincidence that the premier beamed a direct appeal to the rural Cariboo voters from the Socred convention platform in downtown Vancouver some days ago. It revealed the fundamental principle of Mr. Bennett's power in such simple geo-political terms that most persons did not even notice its significance.

Grit Machine

First, the premier claimed a Liberal machine defeated Mr. Bonner in Vancouver on the parochial grounds that he favored the interior over his own city.

Then, shouting into the microphones to stress his words, he wondered "if they are going to use that argument in the Cariboo?

"Because he did not go along with a narrow Vancouver point of view, but had the broad provincial view, I give thanks today that he's going to represent an interior riding."

That is precisely the message that brought him to power in 1952 when the Socreds barely defeated the old-line parties which finally had undermined themselves with the rural riding majority after years of following the traditional rule of B.C. politics.

Tht rule was: the rural ridings are so diverse in geography and needs that you can play one off against the other but never ignore Vancouver because it is a close-knit community with a solid block of seats foresightedly sent to the government side.

Mr. Bennett, a maverick who was distrusted and detested by the Vancouver power elite, realized that every government seat won in Vancouver was a hostage to that city from the administration—unless it could be easily balanced by government strength in the hinterland.

The cardinal factor in each of his election campaigns since then has been the effort to offset Vancouver's importance to his majority—using rural antipathy as his slingshot against this Goliath. Sometimes he's been successful and sometimes not and a relationship can be traced between this factor and the premier's attitude to that city, which has run the gamut now through fawning patronage to arrogant disdain.

Premier Bennett came close to paying the price last September for his past three years' arrogance toward Vancouver when the Socreds only took six out of the 12 city seats in the redistributed House.

That returned some leverage to the Vancouverites within his own party because in the next session he would lose majority control of the House without them. They could make it a 28-27 vote against the government, an uncomfortable situation but not hopeless because surely he could buy the loyalty of at least one.

Power Block

But, if Mr. Bonner loses Nov. 28, then one of those precious "country counters" goes and the government's contingent of Vancouver MLAs becomes a resurgent power block, holding the alternatives of a 33-22 win or 26-29 defeat over Mr. Bennett's head in the legislature.

Worse still, one of the remaining Vancouver ministers is close to becoming heir apparent. He is Education Minister Leslie Peterson, whose star has risen rapidly in the past year.

He not only has taken over as the cabinet spokesman in Vancouver (and therefore distributor of government favors there) but is next in line for the attorney-general's post — one of the traditional springboards to power in B.C.'s political history.

If Mr. Bonner is defeated, the Vancouver Socreds' bargaining power automatically increases and Mr. Peterson's ability to exert tremendous pressure within the cabinet does so too.

Would he, with perhaps a premiership to lose, be content to let the premier ignore his Vancouver constituents again?

Or would he use his newfound pressure to squeeze Mr. Bennett into line or — and this is the ultimate stretch of logic — squeeze him out as the real power behind the cabinet?

(It would be less messy than the Diefenbacle only because it would be done behind closed caucus doors and not on a convention floor.)

Only Questions

But these are only questions, not inevitable developments, and it may be that the premier's surprise decision — announced ever as he made his appeal for a Cariboo victory — to elevate all three women Socreds to the cabinet is a hedge to box Mr. Peterson in.

As ministers without portfolio, they could be fired instantly without difficulty so their loyalty to the premier would be certain in any hidden power struggle.

At the same time, they could dilute Mr. Peterson's relative influence in the executive council and — perhaps most important — one of them is his own running mate. Mrs. Grace McCarthy, who is popular and brilliant in her own right, could keep Mr. Peterson in check within his own constituency organization.

Anyway, it's a fascinating theory and it would explain the mystery that dumbfounded even insiders at the Socred convention — why did he decide to appoint all three women members to the cabinet without a department among them to keep them busy?

'NATO Stops Invasion By Soviet'

PARIS (Reuters) — Canadian parliamentarian Jean-Eudes Dube, unanimous choice as next president of the 15-country NATO parliamentarians conference, said today that if the Atlantic Alliance broke up, a military invasion by the Soviet Union would quickly follow.

Dube, Liberal MP for Restigouche - Madawaska, New Brunswick, said a Soviet threat still exists.

"It is no longer really military but takes the form of a relentless policy and a diplomatic fight backed up by the presence of a huge military force . . . ," he told a French luncheon club.

"It should be added that if the Atlantic Alliance were to break up, a military invasion would not be slow in following the diplomatic fight."

OFFICIAL SHOT FOR ACCIDENT

SEOUL (AP)—A North Korean stationmaster was executed by firing squad after 300 persons died in the country's worst-ever railway disaster, said reports reaching here today.

The disaster happened inside a tunnel on the electrified northeastern Korean railway line when a speeding train hit a high-voltage power cable.

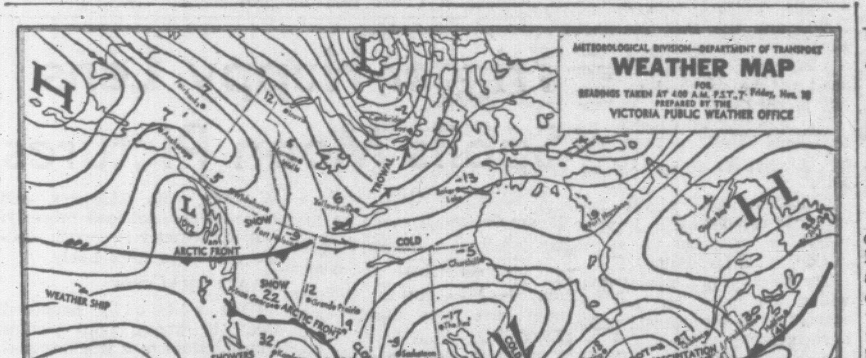
The rail crash happened last March, but was only revealed when a North Korean railway worker defected recently, newspapers here said.

Peace Steps Outlined

MANILA (CP) — A South Vietnamese Buddhist leader, Thich Nhat Hanh, said in an interview published today an end to the bombing of Viet Nam and withdrawal of U.S. troops "to a positoin of self-defence" were necessary steps before a stabilized government could be formed in South Viet Nam.

General Resigns

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—Gen. Kong Le has resigned as commander of the 8,000-man neutralist army in Laos, Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma announced today.



WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — Cold Arctic air still dominates the central and northern regions of the province while mild Pacific air continues to flow up the coast and into the southern Interior. The major low-pressure area which has governed the weather over the past few days now lies west of the Oregon coast and will remain stationary in this area. As a result cloud and showers will occur along the coast and snowflurries in the central and northern Interior.

SENATE ALSO GIVES NOD

Battered Supply Bill Finally Passes House

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Unlucky number 13 brought good fortune to the Liberal government Thursday.

The opposition parties, midway through the 13th day of debate on a $372,000,000 interim money supply bill, halted debate and gave third and final reading to the measure.

The Senate quickly gave its approval and late in the evening the bill was given royal assent along with another measure setting up a livestock feed board to control movement of prairie feed grain to Eastern Canada and British Columbia.

Before the Commons gave consent to the interim supply bill, Revenue Minister Benson went part way to meet opposition demands for an investigation of Prime Minister Pearson's surprise discovery last week of enough money to head off a mounting crisis.

He said the Commons public accounts committee may study whether the wording of departmental estimates requires amendments to protect Parliament's rights to scrutinize government spending and, if it wants, starve a government out of office.

REJECTS DEMANDS

But he rejected demands that the committee study the legality of the manoeuvre on the grounds that this would involve questioning the ability of justice department legal officers who had given an opinion on the law.

The government would take full responsibility for the legal aspects of the transaction, he added.

Traditionally, an interim supply debate, because it can go on for weeks, permits an opposition to push a government to the wall.

But last week, with a civil service payroll deadline approaching, Mr. Pearson announced the discovery by computers of unspent money resting in various departments.

Although most opposition MPs think the action was probably legal, they have questioned its propriety, fearing it might erode the legislative body's power to bring an unruly government to heel.

Revenue Minister Benson has tabled all the documents relating to the transaction, but the opposition still wants to study whether the statutes should be altered.

All MPs Want Is Camp's Head To Heal Split

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — From the standpoint of a reported majority of Conservative MPs, an essential to reuniting the Progressive Conservative party seems to be Dalton Camp's head.

The prospects of them getting it are slim. Mr. Camp, re-elected president of the Progressive Conservative Association, left town without taking up the MPs' indirect hints to him that they were prepared to receive him and his resignation Thursday.

Meanwhile, Joel Aldred, acting with Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's knowledge, held two meetings with Mr. Camp designed to get him to appear before the MPs to try to work out a way of healing the sharp split in the party.

A spokesman for Mr. Diefenbaker said the Conservative leader had no advance knowledge of the meetings although he discussed them with Mr. Aldred after they were held.

The prominent Toronto broadcaster, a friend of both the national leader and the national president, said Mr. Camp told him he wants first to consult individual MPs before making up his mind whether to meet all Conservative MPs as a group.

STARTS MEETINGS

Mr. Aldred said he initiated the meetings because someone had to act quickly to heal the breach stemming from the association's annual meeting which voted for a leadership convention next year.

"The possible creation of other forces, which would be sectional at best, would not be in the national interest," Mr. Aldred said in apparent reference to the MPs remaining unreconciled to the president and association executive.

Gordon Churchill, veteran MP and former Diefenbaker cabinet minister, circulated a loyalty pledge among MPs and senators which, he said, was signed by more than 70, including some 60 MPs.

Mr. Churchill said the onus is on Mr. Camp "to take whatever steps he deems necessary to reunify the party he has been so active in destroying."

"If Mr. Camp requests a meeting with the elected members, at least 70 of them will request his immediate resignation."

He declined to say anything more, except that he hadn't spoken to Mr. Camp himself for more than 18 months.

PEACEMAKERS MARCH

A steady procession of Conservatives filed through the offices of various MPs Thursday seeking to heal the breach opened by Mr. Camp's re-election and the annual meeting's vote for a leadership convention.

Mr. Camp had said his first duty would be to try to see Mr. Diefenbaker, give the national leader whatever advice he might request and listen to whatever Mr. Diefenbaker had to say.

He declined to say whether he had approached Mr. Diefenbaker, although there were rumors that he had — and had been refused a meeting.

Meanwhile, George Chatterton, pro-Diefenbaker MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, repeated his allegation of Wednesday that 60 of the 67 British Columbia delegates-at-large to the Ottawa convention were named illegally.

He said in an interview that the constitution of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative Association requires that such delegates be apointed by the provincial executive.

He said that 60 delegates were personally named by Malcolm Wickson, a member of the executive from Vancouver. He said that Stuart Fleming, B.C. Conservative president, had nothing to do with the "packing" of the delegation.

New Fronts U.S. War Plan Says Pravda

MOSCOW (CP)—The United States is trying to create a number of new fronts in South Viet Nam, Pravda said today.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper's Hanoi correspondent said the new fronts included Kuti region, north of Saigon, Zone S, northwest of Saigon and the Kontum Plateau and around Pleiku.

Reporting that the Americans had suffered "very heavy" losses in these areas, the correspondent said:

"The sudden appearance of about 50,000 troops as reinforcements in Quang Chi province on the Viet Nam and Laos frontiers (without counting South Vietnamese auxiliaries) follows a new U.S. high command plan to extend the Indochinese war and form a powerful barrier cutting off the Viet Nam and Laos territories from the sea to the Mekong."

Getting the Word

MR. DIEFENBAKER EMERGES from the Progressive Conservative annual meeting still leader—but leader of only half the Tory party. As such he is reduced to an impotent role in Canadian politics, and for the time being the Conservative Party is too. A Canadian voter asked to vote for the Tory party in an election today would have to ask: which Tory party?

There is every indication, of course, that the aging leader still commands a very sincere and emotional support from many members of the organization. But the strength of this support is now a measure of the weakness of the party as a whole, for the revolt of the young guard against the old has gone too far under Mr. Dalton Camp's leadership to permit any retreat. The split is complete.

The Conservative organization, as a national entity, is committed to a review of the leadership within a year, and despite expressions of regard and gratitude for the present leader there can be no other interpretation of the events of the past few days than that Mr. Diefenbaker has in effect been given a choice of resigning or shortly being voted out.

Perhaps the most prevalent feeling among Canadians at large in viewing the present situation is one of pity—and no sadder or less welcome attitude toward the 71-year-old leader could be imagined. To a man who lives, and has lived, for power and adulation, pity must be the cruellest arrow with which outrageous fortune could wound him.

The man whose political life was for so many long years endured in opposition, who grasped the supreme office of his country for a brief period only to lose it amid criticism — and perhaps the bitter inner knowledge—of personal failure to rise to the occasion, has now been passed by. He, like his era, is being overtaken by a new generation of politicians and voters. The winds of change are brutal and chill, and they are blowing in only one direction.

For a while the grey head will toss, the orotund speech will flow the lip-curling sarcasm and the platform sentimentality will pour out. But the old magic will be gone, the fire will only flicker, the audience will be embarrassed or resentful, as its loyalties determine. One hopes that he will go voluntarily, for the good of both his party and the country; that he will go with dignity and honor, as befits his position and his life. But that he will go.

Reeve Bryant's Proposals

THE DOUBLE - BARRELLED suggestion by Esquimalt's Reeve Bryant asks that Greater Victoria Water Board be brought under regional board jurisdiction and that Esquimalt acquire the right to buy water at wholesale and retail it by means of the distribution system Esquimalt would repurchase from the city. It raises two immediate questions.

On the first point, Mr. Ron Upward, chief water commissioner, asks why a board already regional in composition, which has served its customers well for four decades should be replaced by another of similar regional character.

City Manager Dennis Young points out that if Esquimalt repurchased the distribution system within its boundaries, the cost would have to be met by raising the water rates to Esquimalt consumers, and the latter would have to pay the higher rates "for twenty years or more." This might prove to be too heavy a burden.

The suggestion that the newly constituted regional authority should take over the functions of the existing water board has some attractions. It would provide a somewhat broader base for its operations, and the latter ultimately will have to include the territories lying adjacent to the Greater Victoria municipalities. And the new function would add strength to the concept of the regional authority, until now concerned with relatively minor tasks such as acquiring parklands and studying sewer problems.

On the other hand, the water commission has operated excellently over the past years, both in providing for immediate needs and in planning for the future. Unquestioned benefits would have to be proved in order to warrant a change.

Reeve Bryant has a case for control by his municipality of the retail distribution of its water, but he will have to satisfy himself that potential earnings from retail sales would justify the higher charges automatically required to finance the purchase. If the price were low enough, Esquimalt could buy itself a useful revenue source. If the price were high, Esquimalt would have to consider the usefulness of an acquisition which, while it might yield funds to the municipal coffer, could do so only by making Esquimalt residents pay substantially more than they are required to pay now.

Back to the People

THE SOUTH VIET NAM Constituent Assembly is not moving ahead very quickly with its task of drawing up a constitution for the country but the delay may prove to be useful in the long run. In addition to holding up the work while it attempts to force the Ky government to give up its near-veto power over the constitution, the assembly has also decided it needs to know more about how the people of South Viet Nam feel about the future of their country.

There is growing support in the assembly for a proposal by Mr. Dinh Thanh Chau, the young lawyer who heads the drafting committee, that at least a month be spent in studying "the true condition of Viet Nam." He believes that "we must understand the needs of the country before we can draw up an appropriate constitution." Dr. Dang Van Sung, an influential Saigon publisher and assembly member, has added that if the assembly begins to debate the war and the economy it will attract more public attention and interest to its task.

How the ruling junta will react to the situation is an interesting question. Many observers believe that Marshal Ky and his fellow government members would be happier if the assembly merely drafted a nice "model" constitution and let it go at that. The assembly could then be dissolved and the implementation of the constitution left to the government's discretion. In fact that was the brief which was handed to the assembly in the first place.

If the assembly does get around to a searching debate on the whole Viet Nam situation it would be embarrassing for the Ky regime to halt it, since it is a "blue ribbon" assembly elected from government-screened lists of candidates. But at the same time it might be even more embarrassing to the regime to allow the assembly to make too searching an examination of what the Viet Nam people really want.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

That's Where the Money Came From

BY courtesy of Mr. Benson, president of the treasury board, we have now seen the parliamentary equivalent of the Indian rope trick. At one moment the government was caught in a financial crisis, partly of its own making; in the event, it had miraculously escaped before the eyes of unbelieving observers. The immediate consequences are obvious. The civil servants can pay their bills; Parliament can move ahead with other business and the spectre of a winter election has vanished with Mr. Benson's rope. There is no longer any point in tedious and repetitive speeches by Opposition members desperately seeking to deny supply.

Western

But the less obvious consequences are not so welcome. They could have been avoided if the government had been willing to consider the various compromise proposals put forward earlier, some by Conservatives and some by the NDP.

Difficulty Misunderstood

The nature of the government's difficulty has perhaps been widely misunderstood. It was not a case of any general shortage of money. For about half the departments, a full year's supply had already been granted and for these there was no problem whatever. But in respect to the others, the ministers did not have sufficient funds authorized by Parliament for the various purposes.

In this situation the opposition attempted to use the power of the purse to force the government to agree that Mr. Hellyer's unification should go to the defence committee for study before the House was asked to approve the principle on second reading.

This was within the rules but Mr. Benson, drawing a distinction between supply votes and interim supply, claims that it was an abuse. He concedes that the Liberals in 1962-63 also waged a prolonged struggle on interim supply but feels that it was a wrong procedure on which he looks back unhappily.

One of the difficulties with this argument is that Mr. Pearson will have none of it. He said on Thursday night: "We all recognize that the denial of supply by a majority or, if they can arrange it, by a minority of the House to a government is an established means in our parliamentary history by which the House can assure that ministries remain responsible to the House. I have no complaint about that."

Matters of Judgment

The prime minister further recognized the constitutional propriety of using interim supply for such a purpose although he said that this was a sanction to be used only in an emergency situation or when the government was taking a clearly unconstitutional course. But, of course, these are matters of judgment on which it is not to be expected that governments and oppositions will agree. Basically Mr. Pearson does not challenge the right of the Conservatives to attempt this method of securing redress of their grievance; he simply says that their analysis is wrong.

What precisely has Mr. Benson done? First, he has checked carefully to ascertain how much is left in each vote. Here there is room for misunderstanding. It is often said that a government is seeking, say, one month's or three month's supply. This does not mean that Parliament authorizes payments for any specific month or quarter. The actual vote is a fraction (such as one, two or three twelfths) of the total year's estimate. Now that our budgets run to $8 billion, this is a rough calculation and it may often happen that the government ends up with a few millions in hand.

Unfortunately for ministers, some unexpended votes lapse and, in any event, a government cannot take sums authorized for agriculture and use them to meet public works bills. Mr. Benson, therefore, with the aid of his computers, has itemized his various shortfalls and met them by borrowing $2,160,000 from finance vote 15 (contingencies).

The minister has cleared this with his lawyers and it will be interesting to see whether their advice conforms with the ultimate verdict of the auditor-general. Parliament naturally provides for contingencies but one wonders if it ever contemplated a contingency involving an across-the-board temporary loan to a dozen departments and various agencies facing shortages because of the inaction of Parliament. There is something about this procedure which is reminiscent of the Conservative use of rebates allegedly permitted by the Financial Administration Act, at the time of the austerity crisis. This was subjected to very scathing and proper criticism by Liberals now on the treasury benches.

New Weapon

If the government can get out of one scrape in this fashion, it can do the same thing, presumably, in future difficulties. Indeed, it would appear that the Opposition has now lost the sanction of interim supply. Those political scientists who have warned that, in the age of big government, the legislature is steadily losing its control over the executive have perhaps given inadequate attention to the significance of the computer. This is a weapon of government. Only the president of the treasury board can know, at any time, what the detailed situation is. Lacking computers and inside information, an opposition can never know whether the government is vulnerable or whether it suffers from a mere inconvenience; in which case it will doubtless allow the critics to use up their own limited time before escaping from their clutches by means of its Indian rope.

Extremely Clever

The government, in this case, has been extremely clever; perhaps a bit too clever. It is the beneficiary of new rules, which were worked out in long negotiations with an opposition naturally reluctant to relinquish its long-held rights. These rules are provisional. Before very long the government will have to approach the Opposition to secure agreement for their extension. But an Opposition which feels it has been tricked may be in no very co-operative mood. If the ultimate consequence is an even less workable parliament, the Liberals may be less elated than they are at present about last Thursday's miraculous deliverance.

Letters to the Editor

Mayor A. W. Toone

No longer will our chosen mayor
Preside at City Hall;
This quiet, conscientious man,
A proven loss to all!

This gentle man who found his place
Within our time and age;
Who saw himself for many years
Upon our civic stage.

Now sadness reigns and sympathy,
'Tis in the air and heart;
For one who served so very well,
Yea, played such useful part!

Ex Parte Injunctions

It was surprising to see members of the Inter-Church Committee on the Church and Industry publicizing their support of the current union campaign against ex parte injunctions in labor disputes.

Do these men realize that ex parte injunctions are only granted by the courts where the law is being violated, or at least where the court believes that such may be the case. In such circumstances the courts are entitled to issue a temporary restraining order without prior notice to the party breaking the law. This simply attempts to restore the status quo to the same conditions as prevailed before the unlawful act was committed.

To delay the temporary restraining order until the offending party can be brought into court would be simply to delay the right to protection from a wrongful act, and to deny a speedy remedy where damage is being suffered.

Ex parte injunctions are strictly temporary orders, issued for two days, or at the most four, after which both parties are entitled to be heard in court. They apply not only to labor disputes, but may apply to any situation where civil rights are being violated. The important point is that there must be a violation. Our trade union friends should remember that there will never be an injunction against picketing, if the picketing is legal and peaceful.—G. H. Wheaton.

What French Interests?

I wonder whether M. Marguin, the author of an article, "The French Are Not Behaving Like Spoiled Little Children," in your Saturday, 12th, edition could enlighten me as to how American policy on Viet Nam is opposed to French interests? What are these interests?—Pamela Jones, 1572 Richardson.

Looking Back

From The Times of Nov. 18, 1906:

Port Townsend — The passenger steamer Dix, running between Seattle and Port Blakely was run down by the steam schooner Jeannie at 7:20 p.m. yesterday in mid-channel of the Sound.

The Dix was taking the usual weekend crowd back to the Sound.

Forty to fifty passengers were said to have drowned. If this is so, it is one of the worst marine disasters in local history.

The Dix apparently tried to cross the Jeannie's bows.

Canada On Two Chinas

By WILLIAM R. FRYE
From United Nations, N.Y.

A SERIOUS split is developing within the Western bloc, it has been earned here, over behind-the-scenes Canadian efforts to seat both Red China and Nationalist China in the UN. The United States, New Zealand, Australia and Japan have been pressing Canada to drop the scheme, qualified sources report. They fear its presentation could wash away the diplomatic dikes and permit Red China to replace the Nationalists.

Frye

Canada, however, fed up with years of stone-walling, is resolved to go ahead with the plan, informants say. They expect Canadian Foreign Minister Paul Martin to present it publicly on Monday.

The split divides the United States state department, according to UN sources, with United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg taking Canada's side and pressing for a new initiative. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Joseph J. Sisco, under-secretary for international organizations affairs, have, however, over-ruled Goldberg, insisting on a firm stand for one China (Formosa).

The flap involves disagreement over psychology, tactics and the probable result of a stand-pat position like the ones taken in previous years.

Canadian circles doubt that it is safe to stand pat. Although Red China is not likely to displace Formosa this year, they believe, it could happen.

"It depends on what information you feed into the computer," Canadian delegate George Ignatieff says.

Vote-Swapping Danger

Ignatieff declines to expand on this comment. Other sources say he means the vote-swapping process which invariably surrounds key UN disputes could get out of control in this case, leaving the United States without its confidently anticipated majority.

Some key African votes could be lost, for example, if the United States and Britain do not take what the Africans consider a sufficiently tough stand against the white-supremacy regime of Ian Smith in Rhodesia. Several Africans imply they will support Formosa only if Washington and London "come across" with a crackdown on Smith. The Anglo-American countermanoeuvre on this is to try to delay a Rhodesia showdown until after the China vote has been taken.

This is, however, a precarious kind of "security" for the Americans, Canadians are understood to be arguing. No one can prevent the Africans from stringing out the Chinese representation debate for longer than the Nov. 18-28 period budgeted for it.

Moreover, Canadians feel the right psychological moment for a two-China move is not when it is a last resort — that is, not when Formosa is about to be kicked out — but when, though support for Formosa is eroding, there is still a reasonably good chance to block her ouster.

It is at such a time, Canadians argue, that the advocates of two Chinas would have maximum bargaining power. Peking's champions would have to choose between half a loaf (two Chinas) and none (retention of Formosa).

The United States, Japan, Australia and New Zealand, disagree. They argue (a) that there is, and will continue to be, a safe majority this year to preserve Nationalist China's position, and hence there is no need to make use of a fall-back position; (b) that announcement of a willingness to compromise could produce defections among countries which might otherwise support the United States.

The American strategy depends heavily, it is pointed out, on winning a preliminary vote determining that Chinese representation is an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority. Any display of weakness or indecision on the over-all issue could erode support on this preliminary vote, Washington fears.

Majority Issue

Moreover, some countries which consider two Chinas logical and desirable may fear they will be unable to round up a two-thirds majority on its behalf. They thus may not want the China question ruled "important" this year if there is to be a chance to vote on two Chinas.

Last year the vote on the preliminary issue was 56-49 for ruling it an "important" question. There were 11 abstentions. A shift of four "yes" votes to "no" would reverse the result.

The 1965 vote on seating Red China and ousting Nationalist China was a tie: 47-47, with 20 abstentions. It therefore lost.

If a simple majority were to be considered adequate to determine the result, a single defection would seat Peking. This is what Washington says it fears might happen as a result of the proposed Canadian initiative. But Ottawa believes the Chinese representation issue has been stuck on dead centre for much too long, and that stone-walling is the greater danger.

With Soviet-Chinese relations at an all-time low, there may never be a better chance of persuading Russia to acquiesce in permanent retention of Nationalist China, Canadians have been saying. The way to keep Formosa indefinitely is to seat both Chinas, they argue.

In recent years, Russia has gone through the motions of advocating Peking's admission, but has not displayed any enthusiasm. Martin came back this week from a visit to the Soviet Union and other European countries. Qualified sources say he planned to discuss two Chinas, among other things, with Soviet leaders.

Japanese 'Bomb' Debate Starting

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

TOKYO — The rumblings of a debate among the Japanese over whether their country should acquire nuclear arms is slowly spreading from a small circle of intellectuals and politicians to various sectors of the public.

Last weekend, a group of Tokyo University students published the results of a survey they had taken and held an all-afternoon panel discussion on the issue. The results of both were inconclusive, but that the survey and discussion were undertaken at all are facts that illustrate the trend here.

Until two years ago, surveys and discussions of Japanese nuclear arms were unthinkable, so opposed to the idea were nearly all Japanese. To bring up the subject would have been like telling obscene jokes at a Sunday school picnic.

Since then, however, the Japanese have been groping their way toward a fuller consideration of their own nuclear capacity. In October, 1964, the Olympic Games set loose a surge of postwar national pride and confidence. This, in turn, led to the beginning of a re-examination of Japan's own defence, including the question of nuclear arms.

At the same time, the Communist Chinese detonated their first atomic device. The Chinese have since set off three more, each of which has given impetus to the discussion. The reconsideration most likely would have begun anyway, close observers of the problem here say, but the Chinese activity has spurred it on.

Young Organist

The students' survey confirmed that the great majority of Japanese young people are against Japan's having nuclear arms. But a surprising 10 per cent of the students who replied said they were in favor. This is considerably more than the maximum 5 per cent that a specialist in Japan's defence problem estimates.

Another survey published last year that received little notice here showed that perhaps 20 per cent of all Japanese would approve of their country acquiring nuclear arms.

Japan has the technology and economic base to build a nuclear tipped medium-range missile in 18 months to two years, according to several well-informed technical sources here.

But Kyoto Industrial university Prof. Kei Wakaizumi, perhaps the most thoughtful of Japan's students of defence questions, wrote in a recent article that it is "inconceivable" that Japan's national policy of not arming itself with nuclear weapons and not allowing them to be brought into Japan by the United States would change in the foreseeable future.

Chaplains 'Muzzled'

WASHINGTON — The military chaplaincy is a "muzzled ministry" in which "the desire for promotion often outweighs devotion to duty," says a former navy chaplain.

The charges are made in an article for the Christian Century, a religious weekly, by Rev. Norman MacFarlane, now a Baptist pastor in Springfield, Vt. The 37-year-old minister, who left the navy last June after six years of active duty, stated that:

Navy enlisted men are sometimes discouraged from attending church if it conflicts with their duties.

Although a stern moral code is preached to enlisted men, "flagrant sexual misconduct" among senior officers is overlooked.

Chaplains are frequently given a multitude of flunky chores "not even remotely related to the ministry."

The navy chaplain corps is administered by "a feckless hierarchy which is more political than religious."

The pastor said his attempts to curb adultery and other misconduct among high-ranking officers were given the official "cold shoulder."

In a controlled chain reaction neutron splits nucleus of uranium atom releasing two or three more neutrons which split other atoms. Each time atom is split some heat is produced.

The main component of a nuclear power station is the reactor which produces the heat to make steam which turns the electricity-producing turbines. A coal-fired steam generating plant works the same way, except that the heat is produced by burning coal. In a hydro-electric plant, falling water turns the turbines. The nuclear power station pictured in the illustration is a simplified version of the Douglas Point, Ont., plant now under construction.

Canadian Nuclear Power Boom Is Starting to Pick Up Speed

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA — Just a little more than 20 years ago the world was startled by news of the development of the atomic bomb.

Today attention still is focussed on the military applications of nuclear power although nuclear energy has been harnessed in a number of ways for peaceful use.

Throughout the world development of nuclear power plants will depend to a great extent on natural resources available in individual regions.

In Canada, cheap supplies of other fuels — coal and gas — in the Maritimes and the West probably will restrict nuclear power development in the next decade to Ontario and Quebec. This situation could change suddenly if second-generation plants now on the drawing board can achieve major cost reductions.

But even the plants operating now can compete with other electric power sources and they have several advantages.

Use of uranium fuel eliminates the smoke problem of coal-burning plants or the fear of power shortages in drought years from hydro plants. Also, the plants can be built close to the region needing the power, eliminating costly transmission lines now required for some distant hydro installations.

A 20,000-kilowatt nuclear power plant near Rolphton, Ont., 110 miles northwest of Ottawa, went into operation in 1962.

Canada's first major nuclear power station — at Douglas Point on Lake Huron — will start producing power early next year — supplying 200,000 kilowatts from its $81,500,000 plant.

Power in 1971

In 1971, the giant, 1,000,000-kilowatt plant now under construction at Pickering, Ont., on Lake Ontario 20 miles east of Toronto, will start producing power dividends.

Quebec is committed to one station near Trois-Rivieres that will produce 250,000 kilowatts.

This project will use a different type of heat transfer process from the reactor to the steam turbines and no firm date has been set for operation. However, AECL officials are confident it will be in operation by 1974 at the latest.

The nuclear power boom in Canada is only starting but Britain's first nuclear plant opened in 1956 and France, the United States, Japan, Russia, India and Pakistan already have plants operating or under construction.

Canada's early entry into the nuclear energy field more than 21 years ago at Chalk River, Ont., placed the country among the leaders in nuclear technology and as a result opened the doors to lucrative export markets for nuclear power stations.

Canada already is building stations in India and Pakistan and is negotiating for another in Finland.

Need Uranium

Even if these countries do not purchase all their power plants from Canada, they may have to rely on Canadian uranium to produce the power. Britain recently signed a contract for between 8,000 and 11,500 tons of uranium oxide to be delivered during the 1970s, a sale worth more than $100,000,000.

France and Japan will need even larger amounts of uranium, as will Britain, as new nuclear reactors come into operation.

In the United States, private power companies have been rushing into the nuclear field. In the first nine months of 1966 private firms either started construction on or announced plans to construct enough nuclear power plants to provide 15,000,000 kilowatts. That's seven times the currently-installed nuclear generating capacity of the U.S., and enough power to serve 15,000,000 people.

Nuclear power plants are not really that much different from conventional hydro or fossil-fuel-fired coal or oil stations. The object of all three is to turn a giant turbine which provides the electric power.

In hydro installations, falling water is used to power the turbines; in fossil-fuel-stations the fuel is burned to provide heat, turning water into steam for the job. In a nuclear station, the nuclear reactor provides the heat to produce the steam.

Heavy water is expensive and in Canada has provided the basis for a new industry in Cape Breton. Two giant plants, one almost completed and another in the planning stages, will separate the one gallon of heavy water that occurs naturally in every 7,000 gallons of natural water.

Canadian scientists are gambling that future reductions in the cost of heavy water will provide cheaper power than other types of nuclear reactors, which use a specially-enriched form of uranium to create a greater number of neutrons to achieve the same result.

Scientists at AECL's new establishment at Whiteshell, Man., now are studying use of wax-like organic compounds that eventually may be used to transfer the heat from the reactor more efficiently — at greater temperatures and without absorbing as many neutrons as natural water will at Quebec.

Scientists and engineers also are trying to develop modified designs to lower the cost of smaller nuclear power plants to make them practical for use in isloated regions — Canada's North, in particular. They are making steady progress but still are a few years away from the dream of unlimited power to develop the Arctic.

Psychologist Studies 'Projection' of Mind

By ROB WOOD

RALEIGH, N.C. — A North Carolina State University psychologist is convinced the minds of many individuals can leave their bodies and drift away, uninhibited by physical barriers or distance.

The phenomenon is called astral (out-of-body) projection. Dr. E. E. Bernard, who is doing research on the phenomenon, said it is "like lying on a sofa, getting up and seeing your body still lying on the couch."

The mind, he said in an interview, may remain in the same room or be projected thousands of miles. Separation of mind and body may last from a few seconds to a few hours.

"These experiences definitely are not hallucinations," he said.

Dr. Bernard, 36, said he had uncovered one case where an individual experienced astral projection while sitting at a desk. The mind was projected to a distant city the person had never visited, he said. After the experience, the individual described in detail a street, an office building and the persons he saw.

Dr. Bernard said he investigated and found the street, the building and the people.

Dr. Bernard said his research is not aimed at proving or disproving astral projection because "I am convinced it is a legitimate phenomenon. In fact, I have experienced astral projection."

His first step is to collect data from persons who claim to have experienced out-of-body projection. Dr. Bernard claims he has uncovered several cases of individuals who have experienced astral projection once or twice and others he called "old pros" who "can turn this on and off and control the destination of their minds."

'Afraid, Worried'

Those who experience out-of-body projection once or twice, Dr. Bernard said, "are afraid and worried."

"One individual thought death had called and this person was watching what he thought to be his own dead body. It was not.

"Many others are worried they are losing their minds and refuse to tell anyone in fear they will be committed."

He emphasizes that evidence he has gathered indicates that mind projection causes no harm to the individual.

Dr. Bernard is attempting to determine what types of personalities claim to have experienced astral projection, whether those who have experienced the phenomenon can learn to control the destination of their minds and whether others can be taught how to project their minds.

"I believe," he said, "that man has the ability to perform this phenomenon. If he can be taught to project and to control, the prospects are staggering."

India Finds Mental Ills On Increase

By RAM SUNDAR

BOMBAY — An alarming increase in mental illness is worrying the Indian ministry of health.

A survey in the Rajasthan area of central India has shown that between 1955 and 1965 cases of mental ill-health more than doubled. Officials say the position in some other areas may be even worse.

An article in the Bombay Times of India said the number of mentally handicapped people in the country now totals 13,000,000, mostly children and adolescents.

Medical experts and social workers think this is mainly the result of rapid industrialization which has injected new strains and stresses into the life of the average Indian.

"Industrialization is inevitable and definitely beneficial, but we should know how to regulate it," said Nalini S. Mehta, a social welfare worker specializing in mental therapy.

Other factors contributing to mental ill-health in India are the breakup of the traditional joint family system, chronic food shortages, rising prices and unemployment.

Experts say the 3,000-year-old joint farm system, under which three or even four generations lived in big country houses, provided an element of stability not possible in modern conditions.

Election Expense Committee Highly Critical of the BBG

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

Fisher

Crowe

An exceptionally good bonus in the recent report of the committee on election expenses is the 60-page study titled Political Broadcasting in Canada. Anyone interpreting this study has the choice of fixing on the difficulties of political broadcasting or quiet but devastating criticism of the Board of Broadcast Governors. We'll try to do both.

The committee concluded that it was ". . . satisfied that the increasing use of broadcasting media constitutes the greatest contributing factor for rising costs of campaigning. The committee also accepts the view that these media operate in the public domain, and should be used for the public benefit . . . barring the imposition of controls, the cost to the parties of conducting national campaigns throught the broadcasting media, especially television, will continue to rise."

The committee made three major recommendations in the broadcasting field. The first is that a total of six hours prime time be allocated among the duly registered national parties on each network, on every network affiliate, and on each independent radio and TV station. The allocation would be worked out, as in the past, through negotiations between the CBC and the parties. Once the allocation formula is set it would apply to all networks and stations.

The second recommendation on allocation provides for an appeal to the BBG by a party which feels it has been unfairly dealth with. The third recommendation recognizes that the broadcasters should not bear all the cost of election broadcasting, even if they are in the public domain. Therefore, as a condition of licence, the broadcasters shall be expected to provide half the time without compensation. For the other half they will bill the Registrar of Election and Political Finance.

A crucial aim of the committee is a four-week limit to campaigning. This shortening sustains their argument that no broadcasting, including spots or plugs by groups and organizations outside the parties (say, trade unions or friends of Paul Martin), should be permitted.

* * *

If these recommendations become law they should protect the listener and viewer from the boredom of repetition and over-exposure of politicians, take away any inordinate advantage a party with either immense funds or many pals in the broadcasting media may have, and put out an anchor against the steady drift towards huge spending on TV and radio. Those of us who have heard the political saturation of neighboring American radio and TV stations this past month know how far the waste, boredom, and expense can go.

Three other recommendations are less important but they will clear up touchy points, if enacted. These would: (a) allow political parties to appeal for funds over the air; (b) prohibit the use of U.S. TV and radio stations; and (c) provide that no municipal or provincial election would black out media use at any time during a federal campaign.

Now for the committee and the Board of Broadcast Governors. For reasons which hinge on both an anti-CBC bias of the press and private broadcasters and a deliberate colorlessness in its leadership and operations, the BBG has escaped much criticism although the inertia and low tension of the board as an administrative agency is a standing joke around Ottawa. The condition and abilities of the BBG are still importanat because the white paper on broadcasting indicates it shall still have a role. Further, it's milquetoast chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart, seems to have revoked his intention to retire and seems ready for further service.

An American economist has pointed out that administrative agencies and tribunals appointed by governments usually become tools of the enterprises in their field within a decade of their establishment. It seemed to happen with the BBG in about six months.

For example, the same report says, "on paper, the powers of the new board are similar to those of its predecessors . . . but relatively little of its extensive power is used."

Later it adds, "the attitude appears to be one not of actively distributing and assigning time as would be the case in Europe, but rather the more passive American Federal Communications Commission approach of attempting to provide equitable access and equitable opportunity . . ."

Later the document says, "it is clear the board has been given extensive powers to demand information concerning all aspects of a broadcaster's activities. Nevertheless, an examination of the extent to which the power is exercised and of the access to information, reveals glaring weaknesses. Little of the power is exercised with regard to political broadcasting . . . the public agency responsible for controlling Canada's mixed system is chary of providing such information which it apparently regards as a matter of privilege of little public concern."

* * *

Later it says, "the BBG thus finds itself attempting to regulate a creative and powerful force about which it gathers very little information."

Last week in Toronto Dr. Stewart, BBG chairman, let it be known the BBG was thinking of beginning a study of the multiple ownership of broadcasting stations and the inter-relationship with newspaper ownership. This interest may reflect a recognition that the Prime Minister and some of his political followers such as Hamilton MP, John Munro, have expressed a concern about the developing concentrations of ownership.

The committee had some apt quotes from the late Canadian scholar Harold Innis. "Technological advance in communication implies a narrowing of the range from which material is distributed and a widening of the range of reception . . . instability of public opinion which follows the introduction of new inventions in communication designed to reach large numbers of people is exploited by those in control of the inventions."

Fewer and fewer people or groupings are in control. But after the committee's opinions of the BBG who would take seriously a study supervised by Dr. Stewart?.

JAMESON
. . . only his hair is red

CROFTON CARPENTER SEEKS PRESIDENCY

Red? . . . Pulp Union 'Isn't Even Pink'

By DON DINGWALL

CROFTON — The only thing RED about Frank Jameson is his hair.

The man who makes this claim about himself is the Crofton local candidate for president of the Pulp and Paper Workers' of Canada.

Mr. Jameson dismisses the Communist charges aimed against executive members of his four-year-old union.

●

He says: "Neither is there any indication my opponent, Orville Bratten, Vancouver, is even pink."

Which of them will be president will be decided by ballots cast during first week of December.

It is an unpaid post.

The Canadian union's only paid officer is the first vice-president who also doubles as organizer.

●

Mr. Jameson says he is running as president because he is "heart and soul" in the Canadian movement. A carpenter at Crofton, he was a charter member of the union's No. 2 local formed there.

Mr. Jameson belives unions like his own are helping create a better public image of the movement.

"People like Jimmy Hoffa left us lookong like second-class citizens in many people's eyes."

Mr. Jameson patted his own union on the back for a "scrupulously fair and above board battle for certification at Harmac mill."

Its rejection by the Labor Relations Board was unjust, he says. The union is debating with its lawyers the possibility of an appeal to the Supreme Court.

If not, the Canadian union will re-apply for certification in May.

●

This is part of a running battle with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Mr. Jameson says the international has only 37 members out of the 950 men at Harmac.

He claims 800 are voluntarily paying dues to the Canadian union.

The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada is organized at Crofton, Castlegar, Woodfibre, Prince Rupert and Vancouver with a total membership of 2,000.

●

Mr. Jameson said: "The international is still in the majority but I feel we can make gains at Port Mellon, Elk Falls, Prince George and Kamloops next year.

"We need the public behind us and this is what we are striving after. We have the people of Nanaimo on our side in our struggle at Harmac."

Mr. Jameson said the Canadian union keeps itself democratic with every member voting for all elected offices, and all officers subject to immediate recall by the membership.

The time might come, he said, with continued growth, when the union president would have to go full-time.

Meanwhile the ideal is that he be just another "working Joe."

●

Frank Jameson is one.

His family came to Ladysmith from Alberta when he was a toddler. Up to the outbreak of the Second World War he was in business with his father.

Frank served in the navy and after coming home showed his community spirit by acting as voluntary fire chief in the town for 11 years.

Meeting Planned On School Crisis

LADYSMITH — A special meeting will be called within the next week to decide the future of the district's schools.

Jack Tukham, chairman of the Ladysmith Ratepayers' Association, said today he wants to find out what reaction could be expected if another school referendum is called.

A $1 million referendum was defeated last year by Chemainus residents who objected to the fact all senior secondary schooling would be centred in Ladysmith.

The school occupational program would be based in Chemainus.

Said Mr. Tukham: "We want people to realize the consequences if a second referendum is defeated.

"If the building program does not keep up with the increasing school population, classes will have to go on shifts and the district could lose some of its best teachers.

"This could be building up to a serious situation and we want the electorate to know what is going on."

Meanwhile, the school board has recently circulated a letter to ratepayer and parent groups explaining that the government will only share the additional cost of one senior secondary school.

'Hands Off' Fire Vote

SALTAIR — North Cowichan council decided Thursday against sending a representative to a meeting here Saturday which will vote on the question of fire protection.

Coun. John Cannon said this morning: "The general purposes committee agreed not to send anyone so as not to affect the vote one way or the other.

"If the meeting votes in favor of fire protection the municipality will negotiate with them."

Chemainus volunteer fire department has already signified its willingness to extend its jurisdiction to include the unorganized area of Saltair.

TEEN TOWN PLAN IN TROUBLE

Building Needs $10,000 Work

DUNCAN—Teen Town is running into snags trying to buy a downtown building for a recreation hall.

Cn. Gerry Smith of North Cowichan said Thursday two real estate firms told him the building chosen by Teen Town is in such poor condition it would require $10,000 spent on it.

He said before obtaining this knowledge he was prepared to ask council to make Teen Town and associated organizations a grant of $1,000 toward the purchase.

Mr. Smith said: "I'm not against giving them money but we should think twice about a deal like this one."

Council tabled the Teen Town request for assistance pending a report on the state of the building.

Teen Towners are working on a 30-day option to find the $6,700 down payment on the former Frozen Food Center on Station Street.

After an inter-group meeting Thursday evening, Jim Quaife, adult adviser to Teen Town, said: "We will contact a reputable contractor to study the building inside and out and make us a report.

"This report will be made public and copies sent to both the municipal and city councils."

Mr. Quaife said if the building is bought it will be held in trust by representatives of Teen Town, Duncan Old-Age Pensioners' Association, Duncan Drama Club, and Duncan Music Club.

Grow Pot Plants Just for the Fun

By HILDA BEASTALL

An experiment which any window gardener might wish to try is the growing of date stones into small palms.

Hilda

An uncooked stone is planted in a pot of sandy soil and kept constantly moist and warm. It may take from one to three months to germinate, and develops slowly. The date is a member of the Phoenix genus, which gives us many highly decorative palms.

Avocado plants grown from the one large seed of the fruit are fairly common.

There is really no hope that these will bear fruit in this latitude since they are spreading trees attaining 30 to 50 feet in height. Also the commercial fruits are grown on budded stock, not seedling plants.

However, the leaves are a handsome deep green and the plants are interesting for two or three years in a pot.

The sprouting of citrus fruit seeds has, I suppose, been tried by everyone. Most people are bitterly disappointed at the lack of flowers and fruit, though occasionally a little pot grown tree will produce the powerfully scented blossoms associated with the citrus groves of the south.

Commercial citrus trees are all grafted stock, and require just as careful handling to obtain good fruit as do our apple and pear trees of the north.

Sometimes among root ginger (not the candied kind) one finds a piece which is obviously not quite so dry as the others.

Put into a small pot of quite sandy soil, this root may with luck begin to grow, producing an interesting foliage plant.

I have seen this occur on two occasions. The plants are Zingibar officinale, grown in many tropical countries for the root ginger export trade, and used for flower beds in the warmest parts of the southern U.S.A.

A similar plant in appearance is also known as the Gingerplant. This however, is Cardamom ammomum grown for its seed, familiar to many as cardamom.

Any of the plants mentioned are worth growing for a few years as pot plants and make excellent subjects to engage the attention of school children.

Don't Help Wooly Aphid This Yule

Don't make it a Merry Christmas for the balsam wooly aphid, the B.C. forest service pleaded today.

It urged all persons who cut their own Yule trees to stay away from one of the favorites — balsam fir.

The wooly aphid already has infested large areas of the province's balsam forests and foresters fear that the insect could be spread further through infected trees used for Christmas festivities.

So if you have an eye on a symetrical young fir, with masses of dark foliage, smooth grey bark and flat needles, with notches at the tips, in two ranks along the twigs — woodsman, spare that Christmas tree.

Officials warn the aphid can survive the winter on a cut tree and go to work in its new surroundings in the spring.

A province-wide ban on transportation of the balsam fir went into effect last spring. The aphid threat has "made it imperative there be strict enforcement of the regulation making it unlawful to cut trees of any species from Crown land without first obtaining a permit," the forest service added.

Hotels Asked To Back Non-Smoker

Victoria hotels will be asked to give non-smoking guests a 10 per cent discount on their bill.

"We believe this is justified," Robert Ludwig, secretary-treasurer of the Non-Smokers Association of Canada, said here Thursday.

"Non-smokers don't set fire to mattresses, property or people. In this way they contribute substantially to safety and economy."

Mr. Ludwig added that his association will ask hotels across Canada and the United States to offer the 10 per cent discount.

"It is significant that 65 hotel fires in Vancouver last year were caused by burning mattresses. I'm sure many other cities could show similar examples."

Mr. Ludwig said at least two hotels in Florida had made the 10 per cent discount to non-smokers.

"We shall promote the idea in as many places as possible."

Mr. Ludwig is the author of a book entitled Quit Smoking Gracefully which, he says, will be published soon. He founded the Non-Smokers' Association in Vancouver four years ago.

ADULT FINED $200

Teen-Age Girls Admit Drinking at Party

Two girls — one 13 and the other 15 — admitted in court Thursday drinking at a Saanich house party last month which had to be broken up by police.

The man renting the house at 569 Kelvin, Harry Jacklin, was fined the maximum $200 when convicted of allowing a minor to consume liquor.

It was the fourth court case arising from the party attended by nearly 50 milling and shouting youths Oct. 15.

Three boys who harassed police and a police dog have been fined $50 for causing a disturbance and one of them was also sentenced to three months in jail for assaulting a police officer.

In Thursday's trial, Jacklin's brother Jim, jointly charged with him, had his case dismissed after evidence indicated he was a boarder at the house. Also living in the house at the time of the party were Harry Jacklin's son, 18, and daughter, 17.

'PRIVATE PARTY'

"It was supposed to be a private birthday party for one or two people," the 15-year-old girl told the court.

Then quite a few teen-agers arrived, bringing their own liquor.

"I don't think anybody over 20 was there."

"It was just an ordinary party, drinking and dancing," said an 18-year-old boy called as a witness.

Sgt. William Stephenson and Constable Jim White described the litter of beer bottles over the lawn and porch of the house when they were called there by neighbors objecting to the noise.

All of the 20 to 25 youths in the living room alone appeared drunk or partly so, said the sergeant.

Jacklin said his house filled with youths and adults over the evening.

"I didn't know a single one of them. I figured if I started any trouble, all hell would break loose. The house would be wrecked."

He said he was rebuffed by a husky young man when he attempted to stop the record player and break the party up.

Someone took a count of the crowd at 10 o'clock, he said. There were 47 people in the house then.

Drinking by youngsters at the house took place with Jacklin's "knowledge, connivance, carelessness and wilful blindness," said Magistrate Ostler.

He described the accused's explanation that he was afraid to call the police as "patently absurd."

The maximum fine of $200 was "only fairly adequate." The whole affair was a public disgrace and such parties are a "very disturbing social phenomenon," he said.

Ambulance Gets First Patient

Victoria's new ambulance made its first emergency run at 4:04 p.m. Wednesday, a little over six hours after going into service.

The $11,000 red vehicle carried a man hurt in a fall to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The emergency unit, operated by two-man crews out of the fire department headquarters on Yates Street, replaces two ancient police vehicles which doubled in brass as paddy wagons.

Capable of carrying two stretcher cases or several sit-up patients, its crews are graduates of industrial first aid training programs.

Students Stricken

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—About 100 University of Windsor students suffered mild attacks of food poisoning Wednesday night and the university cafeteria was closed down Thursday as board of health inspectors began investigations to determine the cause.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOV. 18, 1966—PAGE 9

Arthur Mayse

It has always fascinated me to watch professionals at work, and on Wednesday night, CBC earned my reluctant appreciation by taking us to a Vienna sound studio where men and women of this stamp were recording Wagnerian opera.

There were no costumes; in fact the session, if not precisely a shirt-sleeve affair, was about as informal as opera ever permits itself to become.

These were musicians and singers at work. Between takes they rehearsed, and in the breaks they relaxed, and talked shop, and enjoyed a zany gag.

Presented thus, they ceased to be foggy heroes enmeshed in the Twilight of the Gods and could be seen as people engaged in a task which by natural talent and developed skills, they were splendidly equipped to perform.

Witness conductor Georg Solti — shorn of wing collar and tails, ratty sweatshirt clinging to his ribs — tying himself into contortionist knots as he strove to bring the horns to a point of perfection that would satisfy his ear.

Take basic talent, add training, finish off with the dog-work of constant practice, and you have people like these: your true professionals.

★

There are those who insist on keeping the term "professional" within narrow and jealously-guarded limits. I prefer a much wider definition, and award the label to any man who does his job with style and finesse, and rather better than anyone else in sight could accomplish it.

It has been my fortune to observe many professionals in action. A few stand out even among their peers.

One was a reporter who, before his paper clipped his wings by making him an editor, covered city hall.

His name was John Graham, and of all good newsmen I've known, none turned out copy so clean of error.

Twenty-buck hat turned down fore and aft against the endless Vancouver rain, he would check in from his beat at the heel of the day.

Then, without visible pause, and with a din of keys that sounded like a stick being drawn rapidly along a picket fence, he would gun out his afternoon's take.

The finished product—six or more news stories, each a masterpiece of concise reporting—went into the city editor's basket letter-perfect.

Johnny Graham, if you care to accept my definition, was a professional. He had style, he had class, he was the best of the best in his line.

★

Others within my experience who rate the title are some doctors, including the cold precisionist who used to play the horses with me; a few judges and lawyers; and a high-rigger by the name of Olsen whose eerie skill was matched to an explosive temperament.

Add also a short-order cook with a master touch. His name was Harry, and his specialty was the hamburger. Harry did not merely make hamburgers, he created them.

His buns were unfailingly larger and fresher than any other joint offered. His lettuce was crisp, his slice of tomato neither too ripe nor too green, and his onions just a hint on the raw side. The meat he used was ground round of surpassing quality and flavor. He also made his own relish and mixed his own mustard.

Where Harry is titivating hasty palates these days, I cannot say. But no man better deserves a professional rating.

Somewhere, while I write these words, a guy in a hard hat is playing a tune on an ore truck's multiple gears as he pilots it down a breakneck sidehill. Somewhere else, a discerning and patient teacher is returning a problem kid by slow degrees to the human race.

There are others too many to mention. Some get paid by the hour, others by fee. Wherever they are, whatever they do, their performance is marked by an extra something, a special polish.

These are the professionals . . . and how I admire them!

THE WORLD IS HER BEAT . . . IT CAN BE NIGHTMARE

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova doesn't look the part but she is a pilgrim.

A pilgrim with a mission that involves all her time and energy, the resources of a worldwide organization, and nearly a million dollars a year.

Her mission is to feed, clothe and help the world's starving and miserable. She pursues it with a determination that is hardly concealed by a charming exterior.

●

And though it may seem like a lost cause, so far Dr. Lotta is succeeding.

Tiny and red-haired, she arrived in town Thursday armed with masses of printed information about the organization she directs, the Unitarian Service Committee, for the Times Share with Asian Children Fund, and a burning desire to put her message across to Victorians.

She also brought a bubbling delight to be back in Victoria, a city she adores.

●

"If ever I retire — and I think I will die in the job," she said this morning, "I would like to live in B.C."

And in Victoria especially: "Even the taxis here . . ." she said with a smile in her quiet accented English, learned from her native Czehoslovakian.

"All over the world I am in such a rush. But when I come to Victoria the taxi driver even stops to make me comfortable."

●

Victoria is the most western point of the cross-Canada trip she makes every year before Christmas to help raise support for her beloved project.

A gruelling schedule and a two-page itinerary are all part of it, but thousands of miles from her Ottawa headquarters, she is still full of bounce and enthusiasm.

The only time her face lengthens and the bright smile fades is when she talks about the children, her children, hungry or homeless in Madras, India, or Mokpo, Korea.

Wherever she goes, "I just see these outstretched hands everywhere."

And Dr. Lotta's one nightmare is that she will have nothing to put in the hands.

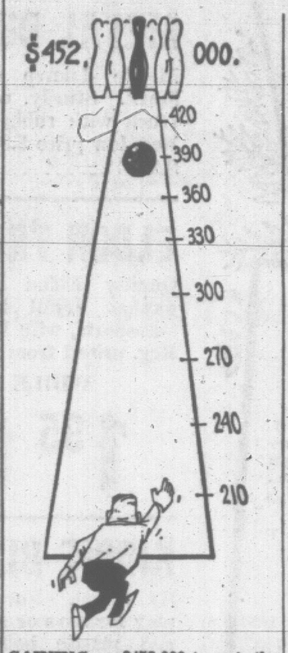
Before addressing a group of Victorians today at St. John Ambulance hall to start the Times Share With Asian Children Fund, she told of one Indian village she visited where the midwife is her great friend.

●

The woman told her villagers who had just received USC help, not to merely thank the kind doctor from across the sea.

"Dr. Lotta doesn't want thanks. She wants action."

FIRST TASK of USC director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova (at right) on arrival was to examine clothing donations collected by Victoria USC work group at headquarters, 1840 Blanshard. Good used clothing with proceeds of Times Share With Asian Children Fund will be sent overseas for distribution to needy through USC. Also checking garments are local organizers Mrs. Hazel Woodward (left), B.C. Women's Institute president, and Mrs. Jeanne Clark, local work group chairman. (Times photo.)



GAINING on $452,000 target, the United Appeal bowler was just $32,000 short of his goal at noon. Donations in the past 24 hours were boosted by a gift of $6,506 from Hudson's Bay Company employees. Total stands now at $420,300, which is 93 per cent of the objective.

Pool Vote Needs 60% In Favor

Colwood area residents go to the polls Saturday to say "yes" or "no" to building of an Olympic-style swimming pool.

The $220,000 pool is planned as a centennial project for Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, Glen Lake and Happy Valley.

A 60 per cent majority is required if the pool is to become a reality. It would be situated on the site of the former Colwood race track.

Some 25 metres long and 44-feet wide, the indoor pool is designed as the first step in building of a complex which would house a skating rink, curling rink, senior citizens' centre, bowling alley, rifle range and games court.

The pool would be housed in a 110-feet square wood and block building. The building would include an entrance foyer, office and meeting room, permanent spectator accommodation for 150 plus and bleacher seats for school swim meets.

1.3 MILLS

If built, it will add about 1.3 mills to the 1968 mill rate. Both federal and provincial governments will apply the centennial grants towards the pool's cost.

Operating costs are estimated at no more than .5 of a mill per year.

Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. at the following elementary schools: Colwood, Glen Lake, Langford and Metchosin.

Youth Robbed Of $2.25 At Knife-Point

A 12-year-old boy told city police Thursday night he had been robbed at knife-point of $2.25.

Jerry Emerick, 1140 Queens Avenue, said a youth threatened him with a knife while he was walking in the 1000 block North Park.

He described his assailant as wearing a polka dot shirt and white hat with a black kerchief over his face.

The robber was cross-eyed, the boy told police. He fled in a late model white car.

William Hall, 65, of 924 Hillside, told police Thursday evening he had been robbed of $19 by a man he met at a downtown beverage room. He said he was struck and the money taken in the parking lot behind the beverage room.

Student Fatally Injured

Motorbike Hits Bus After School Game

An Esquimalt high school senior on his way home from a basketball game was fatally injured on Thursday night when his small motorbike collided with a bus.

Dead is William Terry Bailey, eldest in the family of seven of Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Bailey, 938 Lyall St. He would have been 18 Saturday.

Police said the boy suffered head injuries in the accident at Tillicum and the Trans-Canada Highway at about 5:30 p.m. He died five hours later at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Grade 12 student at Esquimalt High School was southbound on Tillicum on his small motorbike and the bus, driven by Henry Olsen, 1212 Judge Place, turning left to the Trans-Canada Highway after travelling north on Tillicum.

FOURTH DEATH

It was the fourth fatality on Saanich roads this year and third accident with injuries at the intersection in the past week.

Young Bailey was headed home after playing in a senior basketball game at Mount View High School. He also played hockey and baseball for his high school and appeared headed for a career in accountancy, his principal said. He was described as a quiet and likeable student.

Surviving him besides his parents are four younger brothers and two sisters, David, 16; Jim, 15; Norman, 12; Eileen, 10; Jean, 8, and Gordon, 7. Mr. Bailey is a salesman.

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre said this morning he would wait until he had the results of a post-morten examination this afternoon and further discussion with the Saanich police before determining whether he will call an inquest.

Medal Office Open Late For Pioneers

Pioneers wishing to obtain Centennial Medals have until 5 p.m. Saturday to do so.

The Centennial office, No. 14, Centennial Square, will open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to enable staffers to process last-minute applications.

A "pioneer" is defined as one who was either born in Canada or was a resident of Canada prior to Jan. 1, 1892, and is now a resident of British Columbia.

Proof of residence in this country prior to 1892 must be presented with the application.

To date only 600 applications have been received, "a disappointing number," according to Centennial officials, who feel there must be many hundreds more who meet the qualifications.

The silver-finished medals with ribbons of muted navy blue will be presented at a special ceremony during the 1967 celebration year.

TWO MORE SHOWINGS PLANNED FOR 'MURDER IN CATHEDRAL'

Capacity audiences at every performance since the opening last Friday have forced the producers of Murder in the Cathedral to extend the run of the play.

Two extra performances will be given in Christ Church Cathedral Monday and Tuesday nights starting at 8. Doors will open at 7:15.

The unique and moving drama by one of this century's few great poet-playwrights tells the story of the murder of Archbishop Thomas Becket in Canterbury Cathedral.

Admission is free and there will be no advance tickets for the two extra performances. A collection is taken at conclusion of the play.

SWEDISH MISSION COMING FOR TALKS

Eight members of a 21-man Swedish mission touring Canada were expected to arrive here late today for brief talks with six cabinet ministers.

Itinerary planning was upset by the Air Canada machinists' strike, but the party was understood to have arranged for a charter flight into the inner harbor from Vancouver.

$3,050 Profit On Five Deals By Saanich 'Club'

A gross profit of $3,050 was made by a group of Saanich assesment department employees in five land deals in the last three years.

This was disclosed today when a public inquiry into the matter, requested by Saanich, started hearings.

First witness was Saanich assessor and lands commissioner Jack Lindsay, who was questioned for 75 minutes by inquiry counsel John C. Cowan before a recess.

Forty persons turned up to hear the inquiry including several members of council.

Mr. Lindsay said he has been municipal assessor since 1957 and lands commissioner since 1959.

The decision to form an investment club was made in August, 1963.

"I don't think any one person instigated it. It was something that grew over discussion. It was probably discussed over a period of years."

Asked why the club, later incorporated as Royal Oak Estates Limited, was formed, he replied:

"There are many such clubs in town. I think the idea was to contribute a few dollars per month and buy a piece of property to see if we could show a profit by buying and selling it."

The first property bought was a lot on Karen Crescent for $1,650. It was sold for $2,500 a few months later.

Mr. Lindsay said $1,650 was all that could be afforded for a property at that time. The money was put up by Michael Allen and repaid in instalments.

He said no records were checked for the appraisal and this was not taken into consideration. He did admit, however, that there would be such a record for this lot.

GENERAL BOOST

Asked about the increase in value, Mr. Lindsay said there was a "general increase in land values."

The second property on Hillcrest in Gordon Head was bought for $2,150 and placed in the name of a Mrs. Simpson, identified only as a sister of one of the investment group.

"Why her name?" asked Mr. Cowan.

"There was quite a bit of razzing for the first two persons buying and it was decided possibly this was our own business and put in Mrs. Simpson's name for that reason."

Mr. Lindsay said the property was advertised in the newspaper. As in other cases, a "for sale" sign was later put on the property and it sold for $2,500 10 months later.

A property on Teakwood, bought from a contractor for $2,500 in October, 1964, was sold the following January to private persons for $2,850.

After this, it was decided to incorporate Royal Oak Estates Limited.

"At this time we decided that this property in individual names was a sloppy way to do business.

"We had made a few dollars in three transactions and thought we should incorporate ourselves as a company. It was a little more formal than previously."

At this point, official records from the registrar of companies office were introduced listing the names of shareholders in the company who were also employed in the Saanich assessment department and the objects of the company, which included dealing in real property.

A lot on Leyns was bought in February, 1965, for $3,300 and sold in June for $3,700. A property on Fowler was bought in July for $1,500 and sold for $2,600 last September.

Mr. Lindsay, under questioning, also admitted carrying out appraisals for private properties in his own time.

"And you receive a fee?"

"For some of them."

"Is this a common practice?"

ACCEPTED

"I think it is accepted throughout the province. There are some who do it."

"Do you think anything is wrong?"

"No, it was done on my own time."

He replied that some mining shares were bought and later disposed. The group "lost a bit of money" on them.

Lawyer for Mr. Lindsay, Dermod Owen-Flood, asked him if he had ever used information gained in the course of official duties for private advantage.

"No," replied Mr. Lindsay.

Municipal engineer Neville Life testified that no strategic information would have been available to municipal employees on any of the five properties.

Student Offers To Face Accuser

Police and school authorities today are taking steps to stop the harassment of a Chinese storekeeper by a small group of students from Victoria Senior Secondary School.

Duncan Lorimer, school principal, said he has the name of a youth who allegedly kicked the storekeeper's wife a few weeks ago.

He said the youth has denied the accusation and has offered to confront his accuser.

Mr. Lorimer said the matter is being investigated further and action will be taken if it is justified.

Lim Quan complained to the Times Thursday that his store at Stanley and Begbie is the scene of hooliganism during the school lunch-hour every day.

He said students have broken bottles outside the door, stolen ice cream and confectionery, used profanity and given him "phoney" money.

'NO MORE TROUBLE'

Mr. Quan said this morning that "I want no more trouble. I want no more publicity. I want all that to be in the past. I hope the principal will get after these boys causing the trouble."

But he said he will continue to close his store during the lunch-hour and open up only for regular adult customers.

CONFIRMED

A former owner of the store, Ronald Galliford, confirmed Mr. Quan's complaints.

He said that one reason he sold out was "the trouble these kids caused at the lunch hour. I didn't want to put up with it any more. They made themselves such a general nuisance that my regular customers didn't want to come in."

And Mrs. L. Westendale, who with her husband operates a store at 1198 Yates, said she too will continue to close during the school's lunch-hour.

She started to close at noon last December because of "a dozen or so of the rough element who came down here from the school and used this place as a smoker."

DESTROYED IMAGE

Mr. Lorimer said Thursday's report in the Times about the hooliganism "destroyed the image we are trying to build up for the school."

He said most of the trouble appears to be caused by one youth and "there is no doubt about it, he is one of ours."

But, he added, at most only about 12 students out of the 1,380 at Victoria senior secondary school are involved.

Mr. Lorimer said that if anyone has complaints about student behavior they should immediately contact him.

"We will take action against any culprits. We don't want the school to get a bad name."

Deputy Police Chief Ray Maitland said this morning the first indication police had of trouble was the story in the Times.

"Now that it has been brought to our attention we will take appropriate action."

Police patrolling of the area appeared to be increased this morning. One policeman checked a Times photographer who parked near Mr. Quan's store.

FIRST RALLY FOR PATROLS SATURDAY

The first school patrol rally ever held in Victoria will take place Saturday morning at the Royal Theatre.

About 1,300 students are expected to attend. The program will feature a demonstration by a school patrol, a short cartoon and a movie.

In addition, the gathering will be addressed by A. J. Longmore, assistant school superintendent; Stan Britt, president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club which sponsors the patrols, and a civic official.

Theatre doors will be open at 9:20 and the program will start 10 minutes later.

FARMERS' PLAN

Buy Licences, Get Insurance

The provincial government should provide a "free" auto insurance policy with each set of licence plates it sells, B.C. farmers told the cabinet Thursday.

The plan could be financed by an increase in the present 14-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax, an eight-man delegation from the B.C. Farm Advisory Board said in its annual meeting with the ministers.

The board represents the 130 farmers institutes throughout B.C. established at the turn of the century.

AUTOMATIC

Brian Hoole, 5675 Oldfield, spokesman for the delegation told reporters the board feels that a four-cent increase in the tax would finance the plan so that no motorist would have to pay premiums and all would be covered automatically.

"You would be insured the minute you paid for your licence plates," he said.

The board's brief said farmers are concerned with "rising auto insurance costs and the existence of uninsured drivers.

"We propose that the B.C. government provide universal auto insurance financed by a gasoline tax."

NO CHANGE

The delegation also asked the government "to resist any attempt to change the present milk price formula."

Mr. Hoole said farmers anticipate an effort by dairies to head off increases in the price they will have to pay farmers for milk next year under the present formula. Agriculture Minister Frank Richter has promised he would stand by the formula.

TO PROCESSORS

Vancouver Island milk producers now receiving $5.94 for a 10-gallon can of milk are to be paid $7 next May under the formula.

Mr. Hoole said a recent increase of four cents a quart in the retail price of milk all went to the processors—"The poor producers didn't get a cent"—and it was expected that dairies would try to prevent the wholesale price increase as a result.

The board said it wanted more work by the highways department, weed spraying along the 729-mile length of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and new expropriation laws.

PRICE PROBE

The delegation sought a government investigation of fertilizer prices, abolition of school taxes on farm land and government importation of new types of farm machinery from overseas for demonstration here.

In addition to the complaints, the board patted the cabinet on the back, praising the B.C. Medical Plan, special compensation grants to tree-fruit growers hit by frost and the decision to "use the Stellako River . . . for log driving."

Mr. Hoole said this year's 1½-hour meeting with cabinet was "one of the most co-operative" in the board's history.

Ask The Times

Q. How is India's Premier Indira Ghandi related to the late Mahatma Ghandi? P.M.

A. No relation. Mrs. Ghandi, a daughter of the late Jawaharal Nehru, is married to lawyer named Feroze Ghandi.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Nuclear Expert Wins Top Honor

OTTAWA (CP)—The highest achievement award the government can make to a public servant has been won by Dr. Wilfrid Bennett Lewis, a nuclear scientist and senior vice-president (science) of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd.

In making the announcement Thursday, Prime Minister Pearson said Dr. Lewis was the first winner of the outstanding achievement award introduced by the government to honor "exceptional accomplishment" in the national interest.

The award will be presented to Dr. Lewis by Governor-General Vanier in a ceremony at Government House next month. It consists of a citation in the form of an illuminated address signed by the Governor-General and the prime minister, and an honorarium of $5,000.

Dr. Lewis, a 58-year-old bachelor, was born in Castle Carrock, Cumberland, England, and worked in nuclear research at the Cavendish laboratory in England between 1930 and 1939.

From 1939 to 1946, when he came to Canada, he was on loan to the British air ministry for radar work.

Canada's nuclear program was in the process of transition from wartime to peacetime purposes when Dr. Lewis joined the National Research Council as director of the division of atomic energy research in 1946.

When the Crown company, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., was formed in 1952, Dr. Lewis was appointed vice-president, research and development.

Dr. Lewis is the author of numberous scientific publications. He lives at Deep River, Ont. with his mother and a sister.

Details Near On Giant Dam

B.C. Hydro will give contractors their first peek Monday at the preliminary requirements for what is expected to become the largest single construction contract ever issued in Canada.

The preliminary information documents concern the storage dam contract for the Mica Dam Columbia River Treaty project.

Actual documents on which contractors will bid will be issued in April and the tenders will be opened some time later.

Construction of the 2 million kilowatt powerhouse for Mica will be put to tender separately at a later date.

The Mica Dam will be one of the highest earthfill structures in the world at 645 feet above the Columbia River when it is completed by 1973 and it will employ up to 4,000 construction workers at the peak period.

Car Sales Still Slump

Car and truck sales last month continued a general decline but motorbikes began pulling out of a slight slump, the Motor Vehicles Branch indicated today.

It is reported that licenses were issued for 7,392 new passenger cars and 1,379 new commercial vehicles during October compared with 8,245 and 1,455 respectively a year ago.

Most of these would be the recently released 1967 models.

The October figures brought the first 10 months' total to 61,395 new car sales, about 5 per cent below the 64,239 chalked up during the corresponding period last year.

The sales drop was entirely in domestic cars and was partly offset by an increase in sale of imported makes. Domestic models for the first 10 months accounted for 42,705 sales, a reduuction of 3,788 while imports rose from 17,110 to 18,129.

Commercial vehicles sold to the end of October totalled 12,611, reflecting a slight increase in both domestic and import categories over the same period last year when the total reached 11,997.

Motorbike sales for the first 10 months fell off from last year's record pace, 3,761 to 4,903.

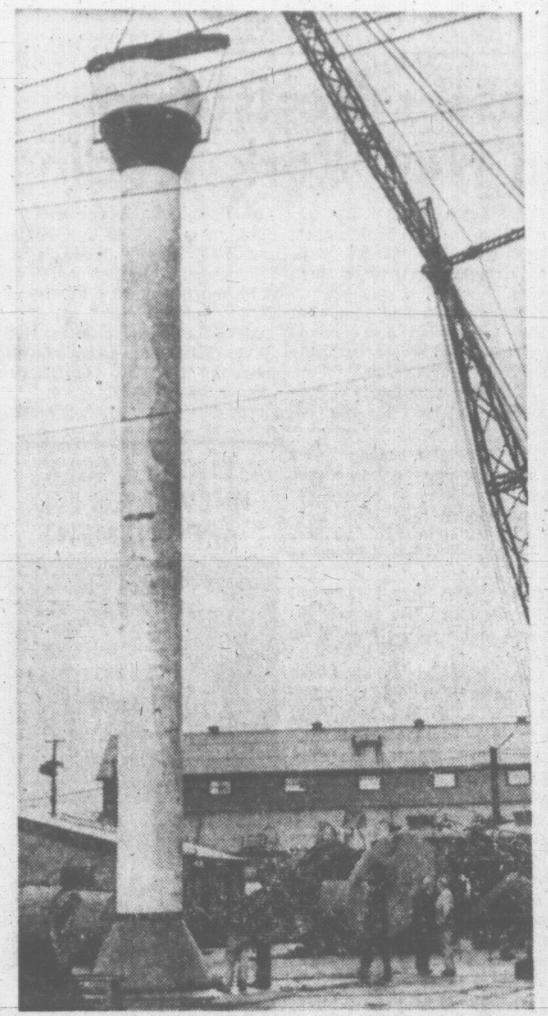
But during the month of October, they showed an upsurge when 209 new plates were issued compared with 179 12 months ago.

Driver Pays Fine, Loses Licence

Robert Timms, 1098½ Esquimalt Road, was fined $400 Thursday when he pleaded guilty in central court to impaired driving.

Police said Timms' car straddled the centre line as he drove along Tillicum early Thursday and later travelled down the wrong side of the road and past a stop sign.

Timms also had his driving licence suspended.



GOING UP — for a while, anyway. Fiberglas lighthouse is erected by DOT workmen at the yard behind Johnson Street bridge. Meters will be attached to measure tensile strength of structure.

There's A . . . WHAT? At Johnson Bridge

By TERRY IZZARD

Ship sailing up the Inner Harbor under Johnson Street bridge have a surprise in store for them.

There, miles away from the nearest rocks, is a lighthouse.

Admittedly the light isn't flashing atop the 60-foot tower.

In fact it won't flash until next summer when the specially-designed fiberglas lighthouse is moved to Lennard Island off Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast.

But for the next month or two it will remain where it is, in the Department of Transport yard, while tests are carried out.

STORM TEST

Only the second of its kind in Canada, the lighthouse will be "bugged" to see if it can stand up to the rough treatment it will receive druing Pacific storms.

The first such tower erected off the east coast, failed to stand up to the punishment meted out by the Atlantic. Both were built in Edmonton.

Said DOT's Victoria marine agent, Larry Slaught: "This is a revolutionary design and consequently needs testing.

"All being well, it will be flown to Lennard Island when the weather improved next summer or spring."

Advantage of the $8,000 structure is that it can be picked up by helicopter and deposited straight on a pre-laid concrete base.

If it proves acceptable it will replace the present wooden lighthouse which is beginning to crumble.

Inside the tower are stairs running up to the light.

Lennard Island is manned by three full-time operators.

Woman Jailed For Shouting

Daphne Davenport of 536 Johnson was jailed for five days Thursday when she pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

Police said they found her shouting and swearing on Johnson Street just after midnight. She admitted she had been drinking.

"No one's perfect," she told Magistrate Ostler in central court.

The magistrate agreed but added: "You're just a little bit too imperfect when you've been drinking and you make a nuisance of yourself."

ROSE BOWL FLOAT JOB FOR CANADA

British Columbia will not send a float to Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 2, to join the annual Tournament of Roses parade for protocol reasons.

L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, today denied a report the province would repeat its participation this year for the first time.

"It is my understanding that the National Centennial Committee and Expo 67 would combine to send a float to the tournament parade next January," he said.

Mr. Wallace said Premier Bennett and the B.C. float participated in the parade last January because "this year was our centennial. However, for next year we felt that it should be a Canadian float in view of the Confederation centennial."

100 Civilians Killed

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The North Viet Nam news agency said Thursday that more than 100 civilians were killed Nov. 4 when U.S. aircraft bombed an area close to a hospital in the provincial capital of Ca Mau, South Viet Nam. It quoted the Viet Cong Liberation press agency as saying that the victims included numerous members of the South Vietnamese government in Ca Mau.

Ottawa Bargain Rights Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) wants federal employees to have two systems of collective bargaining.

He was among several members of the Senate-Commons public service committee who suggested Thursday the committee should give consideration to including some features of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act in the proposed public service bargaining bill.

Mr. Knowles wanted either the proposed bill amended, or major revision made to the industrial act to include federal employees who preferred it to the proposed bill.

The act now excludes government employees but covers all industries under federal jurisdiction. It is administered by the Canada labor relations board.

George Davidson, secretary of the treasury board, which will assume the management role under the proposed system of collective bargaining, said the minister of labor would have to occupy a dual role if Mr. Knowles' suggestion was adopted.

The minister now reports to Parliament for the labor relations board, and as a member of the cabinet, would be involved in decisions affecting public service employment.

"I come down for two systems of collective bargaining," said Mr. Knowles. Although most civil servants seemed satisfied with the compulsory arbitration proposal — there is also a strike option for non-strategic employees — those that preferred the industrial act should be allowed to bargain under it.

The committee is continuing study of the 116-clause proposed bill, along with bills that would amend the Civil Service Act and Financial Administration Act as they affect government employment.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — November soybean futures prices rallied sharply today just before expiration of trading in the contract and closed with gains ranging from 3 to 3½ cents.

Final action in the contract was erratic with longs and shorts evening up contracts. Deferred soybean contracts also were higher with shorts uneasy over continued light receipts and small available stocks in Chicago.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading was dull in all classes today with prices recording minor fluctuations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

There was some activity in oilseeds where rallying at Chicago contributed to an upturn in rapeseed prices.

Flax was steady with hedging sales. Feed grains recorded light trade and prices were steady on a few domestic sales.

Rye moved in a narrow range and reflected the influence of the Chicago market.

Lakehead prices for IWA, Class Two and Domestic wheat were down ¼ cent.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Losses Registered In New York Trading

Fairly sharp loss was registered on the New York market today with key stocks down from fractions to two or three points.

Glamor stocks had somewhat wider losses, but some recovered from the severe battering they took Thursday.

Industrials continued to lose support on the Toronto exchange.

AT TORONTO among issues to show the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York. They included Inco down ⅞ to 88⅝, Stelco ½ to 19⅞, Distillers ⅝ to 33⅛ and Massey-Ferguson ¼ to 22.

Other losses went to Admiral Corp. off 4⅞ to 34⅛ on only 300 shares and Falconbridge ¾ to 85¼.

Western oils backed off. Dome was down ⅝ to 50⅝, Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¾ and Banff ⅛ to 14⅞.

AT NEW YORK, Fairchild Camera and Motorola, both big losers Thursday, dropped about 4 points more while Texas Instruments rebounded more than a point from its loss of 15¾ Thursday.

A three-point loss by Du Pont dragged at the averages as did losses of a point or so by Eastman Kodak and Kennecott.

A block of 143,000 shares of Tidewater Oil at 72⅞, up 4½, seemed to ensure it the rank of most active stock.

General Motors lost ⅞ at 70 on 14,800 shares.

AT MONTREAL stocks were lower today. Trading was light.

Dominion Textile lost 1⅜ points to 25 and Denison Mines was lower by 1¼ at 59. Interprovincial Pipe Line was off one point at 81 and Inco ex-dividend 1⅛ at 88¾. Brinco lost 15 cents at $4.20 and Imperial Tobacco ⅝ at 13⅛. Distillers-Seagrams, Loeb and Massey-Ferguson were all off ⅛. MacMillan-Bloedel and Steel of Canada each eased ⅜.

AT LONDON the market presented an uninspiring picture today with equities showing small price changes although gains were in the majority.

Gilts were dull, and dollar stocks also were easier in line with Wall Street trading.

International Nickel and Noranda shed 1½ points and most other Canadians were down about a point. Canadian Husky and Hollinger, however, were firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was dull after the nine-month figures from the operating companies were announced.

AT VANCOUVER there was scattered strength in the industrials in light trade before noon today.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 328,616 shares.

Western Broadcasting added .50 to a new high of $13, while A-1 Steel A was up .75 to $8.25.

MacKay Cormack B was up .10 to $1.60.

In other industrials trade Massey was off .37 to $21.75, and PC Terminals lost $1.75 to $23.25.

In the mines Cascade was up eight cents to $1.48 and Highland Bell was up .25 to $7.25. New Imperial put on a .05 to $1.70 and Silbak was up .10 to .29.

Among the losers Atlas lost .20 to $2.40 and Brenda was down .10 to $8.10. Highmont slipped .08 to $1.72.

Jump In Permits

New petroleum and natural gas permits issued by the mines and petroleum resources department last month totalled 375, a net increase of 20 over September.

There were three new leases for petroleum exploration acreage and none for natural gas.

One natural gas licence was issued, compared with two last month.

Western's Park Project Impresses Mines Minister

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Mines Minister Donald Brothers spent a day at Western Mines' Strathcona Park operation this week and returned to his office visibly impressed.

He and his deputy minister Ken Blakey were among the first to use the new access road to Myra Creek, where Western Mines is about to bring open pit, underground mining and ore treatment mills into production.

The break-in period for crusher and concentrator mills is to start this week, Mr. Brothers said, which would be just about in keeping with the company's previously announced schedule.

The $2 million highway connecting with the Upper Campbell Lake route from Campbell River is an "amazingly good road," the minister said.

It follows the east shore of Buttle Lake some 16 miles, with towering peaks above it and opposite, ending at the mine property not far from Myra Falls.

* * *

Mr. Brothers and Mr. Blakey inspected the entire operation, including the mine's new hydro generating plant using the waters of Tennent Lake, 1½ miles west and 2,100 feet higher than the Lynx Mine property being worked by Western.

The plant was ready to be turned on to power mill machinery this week.

One of the last major problems to be dealt with — disposal of fine tailings after metaliferous concentrates are extracted — still depends on the construction of a pipeline to Buttle Lake.

The mine has permission to dump tailings into the depths of the lake and construction of the pipeline is under way.

But Mr. Brothers said it is still expected that a tailings pond will be necessary to store waste temporarily and this will be located just below the mill area.

* * *

Great impact was made on the mines minister by the company's new dry, or change and washhouse used by the miners.

It contains first aid room, assembly hall, supervisor's offices, bright locker and shower rooms and it is "the most modern building of its kind I have ever seen," Mr. Brothers said.

The fact of the mine's existence in a provincial park, and that it will dispose of tailings in the lake has made Western Mines object of prolonged and severe criticism.

Even though the outward appearance of all buildings is attractively finished in rough cedar with paint and stain trim, none of the operation is visible from the isolated splendor of Buttle Lake.

* * *

Good long-term prospects are seen by Lornex Mining Corp. Ltd. for its Highland Valley property, rich in copper and molybdenum ores.

Geologist Dr. A. C. Skerl and president Egil H. Lorntzsen report estimated reserves of 430 million tons.

There is enough copper potential to support a smelter, they feel, estimating 70,000 tons of copper and 7 million pounds of molybdenum sulphide per year, having a value of $27 million in working profit, said Dr. Skerl.

Plans are to proceed with a 100-ton bulk sampling mill in the near future.

* * *

Vancouver Island's first significant molybdenum find at Sarita River, within three hours' drive of Victoria, has led to discussions with major mining interests.

Marshall Creek Copper secretary-treasurer Mike Warren said here he could elaborate no further at this time other than to say that discussion includes other Marshall Creek interests in the Yukon.

The company has about 110 claims 10 or 12 miles from Bamfield known as the Sarita River property. Assay results on 21 drill cores obtained during the summer are expected within two weeks.

At Alice Arm property the summer program of geological mapping, geochemical and prospecting work, led to staking of 18 new claims for a total of 80.

Higher Copper Prices Boost Noranda Profits

TORONTO (CP) — Noranda Mines Ltd. had net profit of $32,351,000, or $2.73 a share for the first nine months of 1966 compared with $25,807,000 or $2.18 a share in the similar period last year.

The company's operating revenue was $63,869,000 aganist $52,783,000.

In an interim report to shareholders the company said higher copper prices were mainly responsible for the increased earnings. An extra dividend of 15 cents a share has been declared, payable Dec. 15.

The company also noted that its Kennedy Lake iron mine has been closed because of a strike since July, but the Northwood pulp mill is expected to reach full production by the year end.

Banks Still Aim For Wider Range

OTTAWA (CP)—Any restriction on bank-loan interest rates will narrow the range of rates that can be offered prospective borrowers, the Commons committee on finance, trade and economics was told Thursday.

The committee was continuing its questioning of officials of the Canadian Bankers' Association on the government's bill to amend the Bank Act.

S. T. Paton, CBA president, told committee members the interest formula the revised act would allow means the chartered banks would be able to put in a range of rates—lower for those taking out well-secured loans and higher for loans where risks are higher.

But he said the range would be narrower than it should be because of the ceiling.

The current ceiling on bank interest rates is six per cent.

THIS IS CANADIAN FOOTBALL?

You bet it is. Fans at Montreal's Expo Stadium will see things in a different light when Hamilton and Ottawa clash Saturday in the Eastern Conference final. New stadium features a new type of aluminum goal post and a new type of lighting. Xenon lamps illuminate the field.

Rider Power Emphasized By West's All-Star Voters

WINNIPEG (CP) — That a good offence, made possible by the best set of blocking linemen in the Canadian Football League, was mainly responsible for Saskatchewan Roughriders winning the Western Conference championship is a belief that was borne out Thursday with the announcement of the selection of the WFC all-star team.

Riders, as befits champions, led all clubs with 11 players out of the 25 earning all-star status. Of the 10 Riders chosen, eight were on the offence team and they filled five of the seven line positions.

From end to end, the all-star offence line read almost like the Saskatchewan starting lineup as the Riders missed only one tackle and one end position .

Ted Urness, one of the three Riders who was a unanimous choice, was at centre and he was flanked by teammates Jim Worden, Clyde Brock, Jack Abendschan and Al Benecick.

RIGNEY AT TACKLE

Brock's tackle partner was Frank Rigney of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Terry Evenshen of Calgary was an end choice along with Worden.

Benecick and Abendschan, the guards who made Saskatchewan's running game click, didn't quite have it all to themselves. Abendschan and Tom Hinton of B.C. Lions tied in the voting for one of the guard positions and both became all-stars.

Hinton was one of the two B.C. Lions chosen. The other was defence-tackle Mike Cacic.

Riders also filled three of the five backfield positions. Fullback George Reed and flanker Hugh Campbell were unanimous choices and quarterback Ron Lancaster got the nod over Winnipeg's Ken Ploen.

The offence backfield spots went to halfbacks Dave Raimey of Winnipeg and Jim Thomas of Edmonton Eskimos. Both were unanimous selections.

THREE SPOTS

Calgary Stampeders, who made a great try for a playoff spot after injuries took away most of their offence, placed three players on the defence team.

Stampeders named middle-linebacker Wayne Harris, who was announced as the outstanding lineman in the CFL earlier this week, halfback Gerry Keeling and tackle Don Luzzi.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers produced their third, fourth and fifth all-stars when halfbacks Ernie Pitts and Ed Ulmer and corner-linebacker Phil Minnick were chosen to the defence team.

OFFENCE

Quarterback—Ron Lancaster, Saskatchewan.
Fullback—George Reed, Saskatchewan.
Halfbacks — Dave Raimey, Winnipeg, and Jim Thomas, Edmonton.
Flanker — Hugh Campbell, Saskatchewan.
Ends—Jim Worden, Saskatchewan and Terry Evanshen, Calgary.
Tackles—Frank Rigney, Winnipeg and Clyde Brock, Saskatchewan.
Guards — Al Benecick, Saskatchewan and Jack Abendschan, Saskatchewan and Tom Hinton, B.C. Lions (tied).
Centre—Ted Urness, Saskatchewan.

DEFENCE

Halfbacks—Ed Ulmer and Ernie Pitts, Winnipeg; Gerry Keeling, Calgary; Bill Redell, Edmonton and Bob Kosid Saskatchewan.
Middle-linebacker—Wayne Harris, Calgary.
Corner-linebackers—Wayne Shaw, Saskatchewan and Phil Minnick, Winnipeg.
Tackles—Mike Cacic, B.C. Lions and Don Luzzi, Calgary.
Ends—E. A. Sims, Edmonton and Garner Ekstran, Saskatchewan.

WITHDRAWS FROM GAMES

Sprint Star Fails To Pass Sex Check

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—One of Formosa's top gold medal hopes for the Asian Games, Yao Li-Li, 19, has withdrawn from her country's team, apparently after failing a sex check.

Her father said Miss Yao was found to have a "physiological defect."

Li-Li rocketed to fame recently with impressive performances in the pentathlon and 100-metre sprint.

The organizers of the games, to be held in Bangkok, Thailand, next month said that women athletes will have to undergo sex checks.

Hornets Rebound To Trim Dockers

Mount View Hornets rebounded from a first-game loss to Oak Bay and clipped Esquimalt Dockers 37-28 Thursday in an Inter-High School Basketball League game.

John Lane (16 points) and Doug McLeod (13) packed the biggest scoring punch for the Hornets. McLeod was particularly effective in baffling the Dockers before he fouled out in the third quarter.

For the Dockers, it was a familiar story as they went down to their third straight defeat. They couldn't combine accurate shooting with their strong defence.

Bob DeCosta again set the Esquimalt scoring pace with nine points and Jim Armstrong netted seven.

Esquimalt (28)—Bob DeCosta 9, Tom Hall 6, Bob Mackie, Terry Bailey 4, Jim Armstrong 7, Cec Ferguson 2, Kerry Fea, George Brown.

Mount View (37)—John Lane 16, Randy France, Barry Hobbis, Ken Meadows 6, Doug McLeod 13, Grant Treloar 2, Robert Holden, Dave North.

JUST GETTING THERE . . . . . . COULD BE FUN

'Mush Doggie! On to the Grey Cup!'

That should be some Grey Cup in Vancouver Nov. 26.

The competing teams and out-of-B.C. fans may even be there.

But don't count on it.

The national airline strike has thousands of potential Grey Cup customers considering whether they should (a) stay home, (b) warm up the dog teams (c) skate, (d) hitchhike.

Vancouver hotels, once saturated with reservations, reported Thursday they had received a tidal wave of cancellations.

Counteracting this was a surge in demand for accommodation from Saskatchewan fans. They haven't had a team in the Grey Cup game since 1951 and their hunger shows.

Herman Burkart, general chairman of the Grey Cup Festival committee, said Thursday he had received a request for rooms from 500 additional Saskatchewan fans.

How they will get to Vancouver is another matter.

A survey of transportation agencies in Regina indicated a large majority of Saskatchewan's 4,000 Grey Cup ticket holders will rely on automobiles to get to Vancouver. If that's correct they might have to station traffic policemen on the Rogers Pass.

Private airlines say no charter flights are possible. Why? No aircraft available.

Canadian National Railways has arranged a special train. But space was oversold Thursday. A second train may be organized. It depends on availability of running stock.

Canadian Pacific Railways is seeking to add extra cars to its transcontinental service, but no extra trains will be operated.

A Transair official said the deluge of phone calls for rides is "fantastic but we don't have extra equipment for charter flights."

Pacific Western Airlines "would like" to accommodate Saskatchewan zealots but their mechanics have warned that if a flight was made they would strike in support of Air Canada mechanics.

Greyhound bus officials say they could operate a number of special or charter runs. The trip would take about 30 hours.

Despite the vast shortage of wheels on land and in the air, fans weren't downcast. Philosophized one Reginian: "We'll use dog sleds to get there if we have to."

They may have to.

Death Cheated Again

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Indestructible Art Arfons, the old-pro of the drag racing set, has to rank as the luckiest and perhaps most courageous driver of all time.

Arfons, whose career in high speed racing has been filled with several flirtations with disaster, cheated death again Thursday when his jet-powered racer "Green Monster" was demolished in a spectacular rollover on western Utah's Bonneville Salt Flats.

Arfons was making another bid to regain the world land speed record when his racer went out of control at 589 miles per hour and bounced crazily over the gleaming white salt.

The 40-year-old Akron, Ohio, driver, out to crack the 600 mile per hour record held by Craig Breedlove of Los Angeles, suffered facial abrasions and cuts and bruises in the wild ride across the salt.

He was listed in satisfactory condition in a Salt Lake hospital and doctors said there was a good chance he would be released sometime today.

Doctors treating the steel-nerved Ohioan were amazed that his injuries were so minor. Once doctor quipped, "you must have been locked in a steel cage."

In effect, Arfons' cockpit resembled a steel cage and its sturdy construction, combined with the safety features such as crash helmet, seat and harness belts and asbestos suit, saved the driver's life.

The green, white and red "Green Monster" was a pile of junk but Arfons insisted he planned to return the wreckage to Ohio and salvage parts for building another racer.

Trio by Hilts Caps Gulls' Gala Opening

Fred Hilts could be on his way to becoming a hockey hero in San Deigo.

San Diego Gulls, forced to open their first Western Hockey League season with 13 games on the road while their plush, 13,600-seat International Sports Arena was being completed, finally got around to playing on home ice Thursday night.

They made it a highly successful affair before 11,692 fans by whipping Seattle Totems 4-1 for their third victory of the season.

Hilts made the opening a personal triumph by scoring twice as the Gulls took a 3-0 lead in the first period and notching a third tally in the final period for his first three-goal effort of the season.

Don Chiz counted for Seattle in the second period and veteran Len Haley fired the other San Diego goal.

STILL IN CELLAR

Among the largest WHL crowd of the campaign were WHL president Al Leader and representatives of the seven league clubs, at San Diego for a regular winter meeting.

Gulls are still solidly in the cellar, four points behind the Totems and Los Angeles Blades, who clash tonight in Los Angeles.

In another game tonight, Victoria Maple Leafs, smarting from a 5-2 loss to Vancouver Canucks Wednesday as they went through their fifth straight game without a victory at Memorial Arena, go after revenge against the Canucks at Vancouver.

HALME JOINS LEAFS

Leafs announced Thursday that Dave Halme, a 20-year-old Victoria goaltender, will be joining the club as a back-up man for rookie Al Smith.

Halme, who played last season in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League with Melville Millionaires, started this season with Three Rivers, Que.

Import regulations prevented Halme from staying with Three Rivers, currently second in the Quebec Junior League, and the promising youngster was ordered to report to Victoria.

Tonight's game is an important one for the Leafs. They still hold down the second spot but a loss will force them to share the runner-up berth with the Canucks.

MERGER PLAN REVIVED; OVERTIMES KEPT ALIVE

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Officials of the Western and American Hockey Leagues will meet in New York, November 28, to discuss merger.

Al Leader, president of the Western League, said in San Diego, Thursday, that the AHL had agreed to the meeting to go over details of a proposal to join the two organizations.

WHL representatives have also scheduled a session with leaders of the National Hockey League to discuss having a common player draft.

WHL officials voted Thursday to continue having sudden-death overtimes. The overtime question popped up when Leader cited recent reports that the league was considering dropping overtimes, which run a maximum of 10 minutes.

WALKOUT DID IT

Irate O'Malley To Trade Wills

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers are likely to trade base-stealing shortstop and captain Maury Wills because he jumped the team October 28 during its exhibition baseball tour of Japan, the Associated Press has learned.

Owner Walter O'Malley has said publicly only that the matter would be discussed when the National League team returns to Los Angeles. The team and O'Malley are due back Sunday.

However, sources close to the Dodgers say O'Malley is irked because Wills left the team in the face of O'Malley's denial of permission and because Wills relaxed and appeared in nightclubs in Honolulu instead of returning directly to Los Angeles to have his ailing right knee treated.

NEEDED REST

Wills since has returned to Los Angeles and is taking treatment. He said he felt he had to leave the team to rest and get treatment or his future with the ball team would be jeopardized.

Wills, 34, who earned an estimated $75,000 last year, had been the sparkplug for the Dodgers until his leg injury slowed him down last season. He set the record of stealing 104 bases in 1962. He swiped 94 in 1965 but last season he fell off to only 39 steals.

PERSONAL REBUKE

Loss of Wills did not diminish the Dodgers' drawing power in Japan, but O'Malley considered it a personal affront when Maury took off without permission.

The club president made a personal apology to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato for Wills' abrupt departure.

The wily Dodger owner is a staunch friend and a fearsome foe. To cross him is to invite dire consequences.

In Wills' case, O'Malley apparently is determined to deal him off despite the club desperately needing reinforcements.

Whether the Dodgers could obtain a first-line shortstop in exchange is moot, and there is no other shortstop in the Dodger organization who can handle the job adequately.

John Kennedy can field the position pretty well, but a .201 batting average hardly is a recommendation, and rookie Tommy Dean, a .225 hitter at Spokane and a .186 hitter at Albuquerque, isn't ready.

BRAIN SURGERY FAILS, BROOKLYN BOXER DIES

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Light-heavyweight boxer Greatest Crawford, who lapsed into a coma after being knocked out Wednesday night, died early today in hospital.

The Brooklyn, N.Y., fighter was knocked out in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-rounder with Marion Conner, a 26-year-old, 179-pounder from Canton.

Crawford, 26, was taken to hospital after efforts to revive him proved futile. He underwent surgery to remove a blood clot in his brain.

Crawford's death was believed to be the first ring fatality in an American professional bout this year. In 1965, two U.S. professional boxers died as a result of injuries suffered in fights.

Marching Saints Move Into Third

Victoria Chinooks will have to "shoot the gap" Saturday when they host Vancouver CYO in an Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League game at Central Junior High.

They will have to, that is, if they hope to get into a contending playoff position.

The Saints marched into third place Thursday at Vancouver, edging Simon Fraser University 66-63. Chinooks languish in seventh place, six points behind CYO.

Brent McLain was CYO's best bomber, stuffing in 23 points. Gary Field led SFU with 16.

Kerrisdale shot into first place, two points ahead of UBC Jayvees, by spanking YMCA 65-37.

The Chinooks-CYO struggle starts at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, preceded by a bantam boys' game at 7.

Eight Schools Contest Field Hockey Tourney

Four Greater Victoria teams and four up-Island squads will battle Saturday at Lansdowne Junior High School for the Vancouver Island high school girls' field hockey championship.

Clubs have been divided into two four-team sections and each club will play three games in a round-robin series to name semi-finalists. The tournament will decide the three schools which will represent the Island in the provincial tournament, Nov. 25 and 26, at the University of Victoria.

Saturday's play will be held on four pitches, starting at 10:30 a.m. and concluding with finals at 2 p.m.

Competing in Section I will be Oak Bay, Nanaimo, Qualicum and Mount Douglas. In Section II it will be defending champion Cowichan, Esquimalt, Courtenay and Mount View.

Draw follows:

10:30 a.m.—Oak Bay vs Mt. Douglas; Nanaimo vs Qualicum; Cowichan vs Courtenay; Esquimalt vs Mount View.
11:15 a.m.—Oak Bay vs Nanaimo; Mt. Douglas vs Qualicum; Cowichan vs Esquimalt; Courtenay vs Mount View.
12:00 noon—Oak Bay vs Qualicum; Nanaimo vs Mt. Douglas; Cowichan vs Mount View; Courtenay vs Esquimalt.
1:15 p.m.—Semi-finals.

Club Mark Falls In Archery Shoot

Ian Thain set a new indoor record for the Victoria Bowmen archery club this week. Thain included two perfect ends as he scored 275 out of a possible 300.

Next in line were Joe Tanner (255) and Fred Usher (252).

In the women's section, Betty Thain set the pace with 241, followed by Eileen Mair (235) and Jean Dunphy (206).

Servants Extend Unbeaten Streak

Nils Sjoberg scored four goals at Memorial Arena Thursday night to lead unbeaten Civil Service to a 6-3 victory over Victoria Press in a Stuffy McGinnis Hockey League game.

In other games, Ingraham Raiders nipped Peter Pollen Mustangs 2-1 and VMD played to a 2-2 tie with Drake Hotel.

OARSMEN COMPETE . . . . . . IN SEATTLE RACE

Uvic Athletes Busy

University of Victoria's growing sports program is bursting into blossom this weekend.

Nine Uvic athletic squads will be in action and four of them will be competing away from home.

Perhaps the most interest will be centred on the Viking oarsmen, who will be making their first competitive start since last summer. Coach Lorne Loomer is taking a crew to Seattle's Green Lake Saturday for a race against eights from Oregon State, University of Seattle, Burnaby and Seattle Tennis Club.

Training at Elk Lake four times a week at 6 a.m. and doing calisthenics on two other days for two months have been Uvic crew members Dave Crampton, Hamar Foster, Hans Garsch, John Neville, Craig Delahunt, Rory Morahan, Don Braden, Jim McRae and coxswain Ritch Wright.

Vikettes started play this afternoon in the Evergreen women's field hockey tournament at Ellensburg, Wash. Unbeated in the tourney for the last two years, Vikettes are being challenged by 21 other teams. The Uvic girls have two games carded Saturday and a single contest Sunday.

The hockey Vikings will be going against the University of B.C. Saturday at UBC after tonight's game in the Esquimalt Hockey League. The basketball Vikings will be in Vancouver tonight for a clash with Vancouver College.

Stay-at-home chores await Viking and Norsemen squads in Saturday rugby and Sunday soccer matches. The water polo Vikings have a Sunday game at the Crystal Garden against Victoria Y.

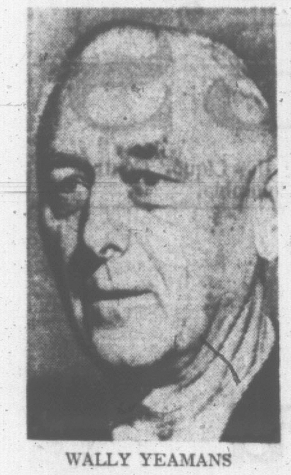
VIKING VIEWS

By MIKE WOODLEY

One of the most successful coaches on the Uvic campus, and certainly one of the most popular with his players, is Wally Yeamans.

He's the friendly and soft-spoken mentor of the Vikettes, the junior women's basketball squad. He's been around this city a long, long time and he's been connected with the sport of basketball during most of that time.

It all started for Wally back in the 1920's. In that era, the League of Nations opened in Geneva, Southern Ireland was granted Dominion status as the Irish Free State, and on this continent the 19th Amendment (Woman Suffrage) to the U.S. Constitution was ratified.



WALLY YEAMANS

Here in Victoria 46 years ago a young man launched a career that is still going strong.

The Victoria Daily Times sponsored a men's basketball team in those days and Yeamans was a member of that team. After his playing days Walter "fell" into coaching during the depression when the woman's basketball coach at the old JBAA gym in the Gorge failed to appear one day.

On that first team in the early 30's he had Maudie and Lucille Sparks, Isabelle Crawford, Lillian "Bud" Elston, and his wife, Charlotte. His favorite team was the Eaglettes of the late 40's and early 50's.

Just after the war his young daughter approached her dad with an idea. Said Pat, "If I can get enough of my Central Junior High School chums together to form a team, will you coach us?"

Pat raised the team, Wally gladly consented to coach, the Eagles were found as sponsors, and the girls were in business.

For six or seven years the tiny gym of Centennial United Church on Gorge Road was home to Wally's Eaglettes. Among their number, besides daughter Pat, Yeamans had such former local hoop stars as Helen Pettigrew Young, Shirley Knowlton Lewis, Ev Slater Donaldson, Barb Peterson, "Cash" Kennedy, Pat Mason Pries, Chris Boyd and Elaine Barry.

These girls were together so long they became attached to each other and even today they still take turns hosting a once a month get-together at their homes.

All Walter's teams of the past are his favorites but his first team, the Eaglettes, and this year's Vikettes rank just a little higher in his heart.

Of his feeling toward the University gals his enthusiastic wife Charlotte says, "they're his pride and joy, those University girls."

For seven of them, Lyn and Lee Hagglund, Irene Smith, Jean Robertson, Marg Maysmith, Gaynol Vosburgh, and Margie Oliver, it's their second year on the team.

* * *

These girls were just out of high school a year ago, but even so, they missed winning the Canadian title by only two points in the round robin National tournament at Uvic last spring.

They're going after that title again, this year with a tighter zone defence and with more accurate shooting. Vikettes have played two games so far in 1966, both against Rawlings.

Says coach Yeamans of his team, "We're tying up Mary (Coutts) a little better this year, and both Jean Robertson and Marg Oliver are shooting better from the outside which we didn't have last season."

Last Sunday they topped the seniors 32-31 as Jean and Marg dunked nine and six points respectively from beyond the key.

If Walter is proud of his girls the emotion is reciprocal. Vikettes are fortunate to have the experienced and patient Yeamans to guide them and they know it.

"He's just like a father to us," says a team spokesman, "he says the right thing, at the right time to us in such a way that he makes us want to give our best every time we're on the floor."

Any time a team has a player-coach atmosphere like this, a talented group of athletes, and a coach the calibre of Mr. Yeamans, it's chances of winning are indeed high.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Torrid three-game series of 644 has given youthful Gary Barker men's tenpin award in sixth week of annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition. Gary topped trundlers on southern Vancouver Island lanes by rolling games of 209, 205 and 230 in Sunday Commercial League at Mayfair Lanes. He is now eligible for Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs in May.

RECORD DEER TAKE ON ISLAND

Hunter Success High

Vancouver Island hunters downed a record number of deer during the Remembrance Day weekend, the fish and wildlife branch has announced.

More than 1,250 deer were in the possession of hunters checked by wildlife officials in seven localities during the three-day weekend.

Although the count of animals is partly attributed to an expanded game-check effort this season, it represents only a sample of the deer harvest over the weekend since many areas were not checked.

ABOVE AVERAGE

In the Campbell River section alone, more than 530 deer were tallied. Never before, says the wildlife branch report, have more than 250 deer been taken through an official checkpoint on Vancouver Island, even on holiday weekends.

More hunters than usual have been in the woods, but the hunter success ratio this year is well above the long-term average.

The excellent deer take this year, says the report, substantiates predictions of biologists that liberal deer seasons in recent years would not deplete the deer herds and would in fact stimulate greater productivity.

Weather conditions apparently resulted in fewer hunters than expected in the Sooke area but those who hit the trails in weekend wind and rain had good results.

Last Friday, 285 hunters were checked throught the Colwood checkpoint. They had 31 bucks, 18 does and 16 fawns for an excellent 22 per cent success ratio.

On Saturday, nine bucks, eight does and eight fawns were bagged by 240 riflemen. Only 123 hunters moved through the checkpoint Sunday and they brought with them 10 bucks, seven does and seven fawns.

NAGLE, CHARLES PREFER NEW ZEALAND

Aussie Aces Suspended

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—Ken Nagle of Sydney, playing under suspension by the Australian Professional Golf Association, fired a five-under par 68 and held second place Thursday after the opening round of the New Zealand open golf tournament.

Bob Charles, the left-hander from New Zealand who once was the British Open winner, was leading with a 67.

Nagle, a four-time winner of the New Zealand Open, and Len Thomas, from Perth, were suspended by the Australian group for participating in this year's tournament which is being held at the same time as the Coffs Harbour open in Australia.

Nagle said that his lawyers have assured him that the association's ban was illegal.

Thomas had a 75 in the opening round.

It is believed that the New Zealand Professional Golf Association will take no action that would prevent the Australians from participating in six sponsored tournaments in this country which follow the Open.

KNUDSON CLOSE

Boros in Charge

HOUSTON (CP) — The old rocking chair hasn't caught up to Julius Boros yet, but youthful George Knudson of Toronto might before the week is up.

Boros, 46, the two-time U.S. Open champion, returned to the golf circuit this week after a couple of months "of fishing and taking care of my seven kids."

Thursday, he shot a five-under-par 66 for the first-round lead in the $110,000 Houston champions international golf tournament.

Close on his heels, carrying the poise and putting perfection that earned him individual honors in the Canada Cup matches in Tokyo last week, came Knudson with 68.

The 29-year-old Winnipeg native was tied with five others for third place going into today's second round of the 72-hole tournament, one stroke behind Dick Crawford of Bella Vista, Ark.

KNUDSON'S HOT

Knudson tore up the par-36 front nine with a three-under, 33 and shot par 35 on the back nine.

Crawford, a two-time collegiate golf champion for the University of Houston, hasn't won since becoming a professional in 1962.

The four other 68 shooters were George Archer, Jack Rule Jr., Jacky Cupit and Earl Stewart.

The 69-group included Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus, battling down to the wire for the official money winnings title of the year, Gardner Dickinson Jr. and Bob Goalby.

Saanich Loop Opens Season At Brentwood

Youngsters in the Saanich Community Basketball League swing into a new season with tripleheaders tonight and Saturday.

Sidney, Cordova Bay, Saanichton and Brentwood have entered about 20 clubs in the various age divisions.

Action tonight will be Brentwood Community Hall. Saanichton and Brentwood pre-midget boys will clash at 7, midget girls clubs from Brentwood and Cordova Bay will meet at 7:45 and Sidney and Cordova Bay juvenile girls will meet at 8:30.

Saturday's games will be at Saanchton Agricultural Hall. Saanichton and Brentwood midget girls will play at 7, Saanichton and Cordova Bay midget boys clast at 7:45 and Saanchton bantam boys face Cordova Bay at 8:30.

Meteor has the longest wheelbase in its class... gives you a smoother, quieter ride at no additional cost.

It's the extra things we put into Meteor that make the difference.

Meteor has the longest wheelbase in its class. That's one of the reasons it's the smoothest, quietest riding car in the popular price field. There are other reasons. Independent, all-coil suspension lets Meteor's wheels step individually over road bumps. Improved, cushion-like rear suspension takes the 'jar' out of dips and hollows. Larger tires smooth the road. A revolutionary compliance-tuned frame, with strategically located torque boxes, flexes slightly to help absorb road shock and vibration. That's why Meteor gives you the most comfortable ride in its class. All at no extra cost.

That's Meteor. And that's the difference!

SURVEY APPLAUDED

Douglas Sees Tie With PCs

REGINA (CP) — The NDP has gained strength across Canada during recent months and the latest poll shows it is tied with Conservatives for 26 per cent of the popular vote, national leader T. C. Douglas said Thursday.

Mr. Douglas spoke by telephone hookup from Ottawa to nearly 300 delegates at the opening of the three-day Saskatchewan CCF convention.

Mr. Douglas said the figure compares with 18 per cent of the popular vote received by the party during the last federal election. Liberals have dropped to 38 from 40 per cent and the Conservatives to 26 from 33 per cent, he said.

WESTERN GAINS

Most of the recent NDP gains have been in the West, including British Columbia during its recent provincial election, but important increases in popularity have also been made in Ontario, he said.

Mr. Douglas urged delegates they must make personal contact with people if the provincial party is to win the next provincial election. The provincial party has three assets, a great leader in Woodrow Lloyd, an unblemished record and a dynamic program, the national NDP leader said.

LAW FOR RICH

Criticizing inflation measures taken by the federal government, Mr. Douglas said there is still one law for the rich and one for the poor.

He said large manufacturers, such as automobile and farm machinery producers, continue to show large profits while wages have not kept pace.

Canada's real problem is not inflation but inequitable distribution of income.

Mr. Douglas said during the last 15 years farm production has increased 60 per cent and the cost of what the farmer buys has increased 80 per cent but the price index of the products sold by a farmer has risen only 6 per cent.

CASH JUNGLE

"We live in an economic jungle where those with the biggest and greediest hands get the most."

Canadian people are dominated by large corporations and "we want a change from the jungle to a partnership."

Mr. Douglas was scheduled to attend the convention but had to cancel his plans because of the strike against Air Canada.

'I'LL RISE'

Dief's Quote Traced

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker quoted centuries-old poetry Wednesday when he visited the Conservative annual meeting and emphasized he wasn't giving up the struggle over the party leadership issue.

The 71-year-old Conservative leader quoted this couplet that he attributed to a Sir Richard Barton without further identification:

"I will lay me down and rest awhile
"And then arise again."

The English poet, John Dryden, had the following lines in his Johnnie Armstrong's Last Good Night, written in 1702:

"Fight on my merry men all,
"I am a little wounded but I am not slain;
"I will lay me down for to bleed a while,
"Then I'll rise and fight with you again."

RAIDED ENGLISH

Biographical reference works described Armstrong as a Scottish freebooter and head of a band of 150 men who raided deep into England from the Scottish border, collecting tribute from their victims. They never harmed a Scot.

When James V ascended the Scottish throne, Armstrong offered his services and those of his men. There are two legends about the outcome.

One is that Armstrong and his men were hanged, the other that they were killed in battle.

One of several versions of an anonymous poem entitled The Ballad of Sir Andrew Barton contains these lines:

"Fight on, my men, Sir Andrew says,
"A little I'm hurt but yet not slain.
"I'll but lie down and blood awhile
"Ane then I'll rise and fight again."

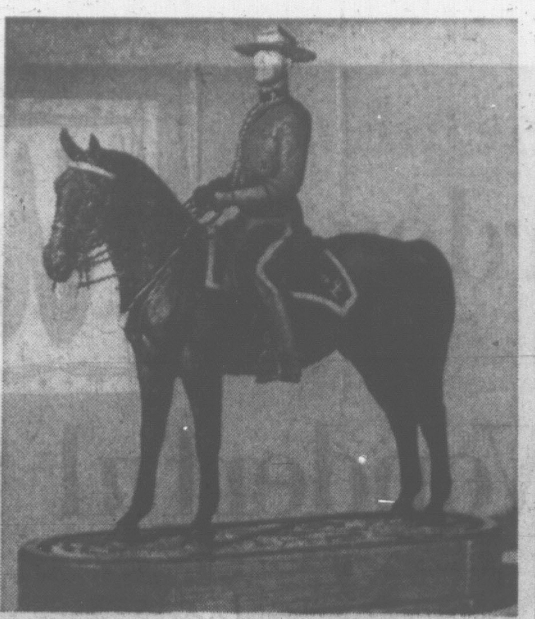
Biographical reference works say that Barton was in the Scottish naval services under James IV and one of his tasks was to clear Scottish waters of Flemish pirates. He is said to have demonstrated the success of his project by sending the king three barrels filled with heads of pirates.

Barton was killed Aug. 2, 1511, in a naval battle in The Downs off the coast of Kent by an English force headed by Sir Thomas Howard and Sir Edward Howard.

Legend has it that the couplet relates to the battle in which he was slain.

Guards Restricted

TOKYO (AP)—China has banned the movement of youthful militant Red Guards from Nov. 21 until next spring, Japanese reports from Peking said Thursday. The order was decreed by the Chinese Communist party leadership and the National People's Congress because the Red Guards were tying up vital means of transportation for China's third five-year plan.



BONE CHINA STATUETTE of RCMP constable, by British sculptress Doris Lindner, will be distributed in a limited edition of 500. One will go to Governor-General Georges Vanier to honor historic tradition of the Mounties in Canada's Centennial Year. Presentation of the statuettes to dignitaries will be a feature of Centennial Year ceremonies.

Tory Chief Wins One Vote Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives gave solid support Wednesday to John Diefenbaker in one of six policy resolutions approved before their convention bogged down in the leadership battle.

The resolution demands an amendment to the Judges Act preventing judges from "engaging in investigations of a political nature."

MUNSINGER CASE

It was a clear reference to the Munsinger inquiry conducted by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada, who criticized harshly Mr. Diefenbaker's handling of the 1960 security case.

The convention approved a motion urging federal grants to provinces and municipalities for study and planning of experimental "satellite cities" in metropolitan areas.

But delegates turned down similar grants for transportation systems linking big cities with satellites after Quebec representatives objected the idea infringed on provincial jurisdiction. Other motions proposed:

- A 12-mile exclusive fishing zone and catch insurance to protect fishermen.
- Incorporation of a Macdonald - Cartier Foundation to conduct political research and inform Conservative MPs on social problems and public opinion.
- Enlarging the powers and funds of Central Mortgage and Housing to increase research into urban renewal and planning.

Invented Gas Mask

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)— Dr. Cluny Macpherson, a First World War army physician who in 1916 emerged from a tank of poison gas with a mask that worked against German chemical warfare, died at his home Wednesday after a long illness. He was 87.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

Kierans Reform Parley Highlight

MONTREAL (CP) — Members of the Quebec Liberal party, thrown into intensive self-examination by defeat last June at the provincial polls, today start a three-day convention which will determine the organization's future direction.

Highlighting the meeting will be a contest for the presidency of the Quebec Liberal Federation between Eric Kierans of Montreal, who wants far-reaching reorganization, and Jean Tetreault of Plessisville, who insists that old political values should not be forgotten in any rush in reform.

Mr. Kierans, a prominent member of the former Liberal cabinet, wants a wider sharing of the party's management, and particularly of control over its electoral fund.

As leader of a three-man slate, his election campaign has roused sometimes bitter intra-party debates and fears that the Liberals might be destroying themselves via disunity.

Party Leader Jean Lesage—until last June Quebec's premier—has taken no open stand on the election issue but has a compromise plan to offer the convention which he hopes will reconcile the Kierans reform plans with the more traditionalist ideas about the organization's future.

1,300 EXPECTED

The convention is expected to draw 1,300 delegates.

The activities of the Kierans slate and the campaign for party reform aroused the ire of some non-Montreal Liberals.

Mr. Kierans, member of the legislature for the Montreal riding of Notre-Dame-de-Grace, denied that his reform ideas involved any disloyalty to Mr. Lesage.

Mr. Tetreault has denied any intention to take the party back to old ideas of power based on patronage.

"But during our six years of power, the rage against patronage became such that ministers shunned being seen in company with their constituents for fear of being accused by journalists of dealing in patronage."

Mr. Kierans says a new provincial election may come this spring, making immediate organizational reform urgent.

An English-speaking Liberal who speaks French fluently, he wants grassroots shakeups so that all Liberal supporters can feel they have a voice in the party.

This and other Kierans urgings of a more "democratic" party have won him support from such prominent ex-cabinet members as Rene Levesque and Pierre Laporte.

Denied Bail

SOUTHEND, England (Reuters)—Shipping agent Cecil Mulvena, charged under Britain's Official Secrets Act, was denied bail by a magistrate here today.

Police claimed the case involved matters of national security.

Mulvena is accused of obtaining a passport in another person's name which might be useful to an enemy, of illegal possession of this document, and of making an untrue statement to obtain it.

At the time of Mulvena's arrest, rumors swept London of a big security sweep—following master spy George Blake's escape from prison and the arrest in the United States of Sgt. Herbert Boeckenhaupt on spying charges.

"For Over Half a Century the Most Trusted Name in the Automobile Industry."

NEW MISS WORLD is India's Reita Faria, seen flanked by runnersup after being crowned Thursday night in London. Fontini Plumbi, left, Miss Greece, was third, and Yugoslavia's Nikica Marinovic, right, was second. (AP Wirephoto.)

New Beauty Queen 'Entered for Fun'

LONDON (AP)—A statuesque young Indian is taking the Miss World title to Asia for the first time but she says, "I don't really want it."

Reita Faria, five - foot - eight medical student from Bombay, also was doubtful today about what she will do with the £2,500 ($8,500) prize money.

"I can't think of anything to buy with it," said Reita, 23. "I have always wanted a Mercedes, but I could not take that kind of car back to India.

"My country needs a lot of money and it would be unfair of me. I want to get back right away to finish my studies and become a doctor. I entered the contest for fun. I never expected to win."

Reita, a shapely 35-24-35 with brown eyes and flashing teeth, carried off the top prize Thursday night.

Miss Dominion of Canada, 18-year-old Diane Coulter of Leamington, Ont., survived the first elimination but did not reach the finals. She had been one of the betting favorites.

Libel Suit Launched Over Book

MILAN, Italy (CP-AP)—A former chief of an Italian Navy fleet told a Milan court this week everything is "pure fiction" in British writer Montgomery Hyde's book—The Quiet Canadian—about Second World War espionage.

The book is the story of Canadian Sir William Stephenson's counter-intelligence operations as British security coordinator for the Western Hemisphere during the war.

Sir William, 70, an international financier now living in Bermuda, was born in Point Douglas, near Winnipeg.

Ernesto Giuriati was testifying during a hearing of a libel suit resulting from Hyde's book.

The book said the Italian Navy suffered its biggest defeat of the war because a British spy known as Cynthia obtained a secret Italian communications code from the Italian Navy attache in Washington, Admiral Alberto Lais.

It said the information helped the British fleet sink five Italian ships off Greece's Matapan Cape in March, 1941.

Cynthia, whose real name was Elizabeth Browse, died in 1963 and Lais in 1951.

Heirs of Lais sued Hyde, the Italian publishing house that printed the book in Italy and an Italian who wrote the introduction to the Italian edition.

"Everything written in The Quiet Canadian is pure fiction," Giuriati said.

He said Lais "lived and operated as an exemplary soldier throughout his career.

Iceland Wins Rare Works

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The Danish Supreme Court has ruled that a collection of historic Icelandic manuscripts held by the University of Copenhagen should be handed over to the Icelandic government.

The ruling brings to an end a long-standing dispute between the Danish government and the university and between the governments of the two countries.

The Danish parliament voted in 1961 to give the documents, then valued at 100,000,000 kroner (about $14,000,000) to Iceland but this was opposed by the university as expropriation. The dispute was then taken to the Supreme Court.

The parchment manuscripts, numbering about 1,600 and dating from the 10th to the 18th centuries, include the first written accounts of the ancient Icelandic sagas.

Other documents in the collection describe Norse voyages to America in the 10th and 11th centuries.

Weather Influenced By Car Exhausts?

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, a pioneer researcher in "seeding" clouds to produce precipitation, says air pollution from automobile exhausts may be changing the weather over much of the United States.

Schaefer, director of the Atmospheric Sciences Research Centre at the state university here, said this week lead particles from gasoline combine with iodine that enters the atmosphere from various widespread sources to produce rain or snow.

Just 20 years after he discovered that seeding clouds with dry ice could produce rainfall, Schaefer now suggests that the combination of particles from anti-knock compounds in gasoline and iodine "could exert a profound influence" on cloud systems.

Schaefer said, however, that it would take much more study to pin down the effect of auto exhausts on the weather.

He said his research also could result in a means of determining the amount of automobile-caused pollution in the atmosphere.

On his basic findings, Schaefer said it was possible to develop "a new method for seeding clouds wherever auto exhaust diffuses into the atmosphere." Only iodine would have to be added.

Honeymoon Trip to West Indies Follows Devlin-Watson Wedding

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Joseph George Norman Devlin left by plane for a honeymoon trip to Jamaica, Nassau and the Bahamas following their wedding Saturday evening, in All Saints' Church, View Royal.

The bride, the former Catherine (Cathie) Irene Watson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Watson, 1700 Midgard Avenue, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Devlin, 1314 Hillside Avenue.

Arrangements of white and salmon-toned carnations and chrysanthemums were at the altar of the church for the service at which Rev. John Vickers officiated. Mr. Watson gave his daughter in marriage and Frank Allen was organist.

Dainty lace circled the waistline and edged the sleeves of the bride's corded taffeta sheath gown. The bodice featured a scoop neckline and was fashioned with a full train sweeping back from the shoulders, outlined in similar lace. Her mantilla veil, which she designed herself, misted softly from a rose headpiece. Johanna Hill roses, white disbuds and fern formed her cascade bouquet.

Lace accents trimmed the empire waistlines of the salmon-colored gowns worn by matron of honor Mrs. William Duggan and junior bridesmaid Miss Valerie Bennett. Their floral headpieces were en tone and they carried cascade bouquets of salmon and white carnations.

The little flower girl, Colleen Snopek, was in a similar frock, fashioned with a full skirt. Her floral headpiece was en tone and she carried a small white basket of salmon chrysanthemums and carnations.

Best men were Ronald Tesolin and William Eng. Curtis and Terry Purden ushered the guests.

Red roses flanked the three-tier silver and white wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the Gorge Vale Golf Club. Edward Seedhouse proposed the toast to his niece.

The new Mrs. Devlin chose a navy blue coat to top the beige Italian knit sheath dress which she wore for travelling. Her hat was of winter white fur and her accessories were in blue tones. A red rose corsage completed the outfit.

Nation-Wide Observance

Pioneer Girls of the lower Vancouver Island area will join with thousands of others throughout Canada in marking National Pioneer Girls Week. Beginning this Sunday, the week will be started with a series of local church services and badge presentations (called encampments).

Also celebrating the week will be Pioneer Girls in the United States and other countries. Theme of the week is "Pioneer Girls—A Partnership."

Churches sponsoring Pioneer Girls clubs in this area are the Alliance Church, Quadra Bible Chapel, Parkdale Evangelical Free Church, Gosworth Road Community, Central Baptist, Langford Baptist, Bethel Baptist at Duncan and Sidney Bethel Baptist.

Pioneer Girls provide an active partnership with the Church, especially in the field of missions. The members become partners in prayer, friendship and service.

Clubwomen's News

Guest Speaker — The work done by Fr. Abraham in Kurseong, India, was discussed by Mrs. A. Fox when she spoke to the recent meeting of St. Andrew's Cathedral Council, Catholic Women's League. Mrs. Fox, a missionary worker, illustrated her address with slides. She urged CWL members to take a more active part in assisting with food and clothing supplies for the poor in India. Members voted to make a donation and to assist the Vanier Institute of the Family Foundation, a centennial project which supports a research institute studying problems of family life.

Plan Concert—Details for the next concert of the Victoria Musical Art Society were finalized when members of the society board met recently in the Deal Street home of president, Mrs. S. G. Watts. The concert will take place on Sunday, Nov. 20 in the McPherson Theatre and featured will be contralto Eleanor Duff, accompanied by Mrs. Roberto Wood, and dancers from the Wynne Shaw Dance Studio. Plans were also discussed for the carol tea, Dec. 10, to be held in the Empress Hotel ballroom. It was announced that Mrs. G. Pearcy's "Wee Folk" choir will sing Christmas hymns and carols. A social hour followed the meeting.

Sunday is going to be a "red letter" day for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Wilkinson, 530 McKenzie Avenue, who will be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. The couple was married in Vancouver on Nov. 20, 1916, and moved to Victoria shortly after. Mr. Wilkinson was with the Victoria City Police for more than 30 years, retiring in 1956. They have four children; Robert, who makes his home in California; John, Mrs. Betty Featherby and Mrs. W. (Fay) Swanson, all of Victoria. They also have eight grandchildren. To celebrate the occasion, Mrs. Swanson will hold "open house" for her parents on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. in her home at 4536 Viewmont Avenue, Royal Oak.

YM-YW Auxiliary Realizes $750

The sum of $750 was realized when the Ladies' Auxiliary to the YM-YWCA celebrated its 75th anniversary by holding an anniversary sale in the 'Y' building. Focal point of the refreshments was a special anniversary cake.

Guests were greeted by president Mrs. P. C. Meredith. The attractive prizes were dolls and a Christmas door wreath.

In charge of the stalls that offered home cooking, French Room clothing, candles, aprons, bridge table covers, wood carriers and white elephants were Mrs. G. Walton, Mrs. Harold Johnston, Mrs. G. Lott, Mrs. Alan Macfarlane, Mrs. John Wallace and Mrs. K. Gowan.

Mrs. H. Past was general convener and co-convener was Mrs. R. B. Hutchison.

FETE LORD MAYOR

The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Bellinger, Lord Mayor of London, and members of his party will cross from Vancouver on Sunday to attend a reception to be given by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes in Government House. After attending the special interdenominational service and Reading of the Proclamation ceremony in the Memorial Arena that evening, the Lord Mayor of London will be honored at a dinner in Government House.

Will Be Presented

The names of two more young women who will make their social debut at the annual ball of the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island, to be held at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday, December 7, were announced today. Major Ken Crabtree will sponsor Miss Kirsty Caroline Gladwell, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gladwell, 2830 Murray Drive. A graduate of Norfolk House, Miss Gladwell plans to become an education student at Simon Fraser University in January.

Also being presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes at the ball will be Miss Heather Margaret Henderson, the 18-year-old middle daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Vickers Henderson, 3131 Woodburn Avenue. Miss Henderson is a Grade XII student at Oak Bay Senior Secondary School. She will be sponsored by her father and her escort will be officer Cadet Terry Rogers.

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gammon, 2150 Cadboro Bay Road, are marking their golden wedding anniversary today. They were married in Gloucester, England, on Nov. 18, 1916, and came to Canada three years later, settling in Wilkie, Sask., where Mr. Gammon worked with the Canadian Pacific Railroad. They arrived in Victoria to make their home a month ago. This evening they will be honored at a dinner in the Princess Mary Restaurant, being joined by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gammon; their four grandchildren, Michael, Robert, Sally and Susan, and a few close friends.

Up-Island Guests

Travelling from Port Alberni to attend the recent wedding of Miss Linda Stirzaker and Mr. Martin Peter Ullman were Mr. and Mrs. P. Gulstene, Wanda and Dal; Miss Elaine Foxcroft, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hucul Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. Hucul Jr., Donna and Dan; Mr. and Mrs. H. Stirzaker, Miss C. Lee, Mr. D. Redlack, Miss B. Simmons and Mr. K. Smith. Also from out-of-town were Mrs. A. Racine, New Westminster; Miss B. Ullman, Edmonton; and Mr. and Mrs. Fairall of Courtenay.

Homecoming Dance

Two orchestras, those of Len Acres and The Coachmen, will play for dancing when students of the University of Victoria and their friends gather at the Crystal Garden on Saturday evening for the university's Homecoming Dance. Semi-formal and formal attire will be worn at the affair, which begins at 9 p.m. and ends at 1 a.m. Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

Out-of-Town

Travelling from out-of-town to attend the wedding of Miss Cathie Watson and Mr. George Devlin were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Duggan of Queen Charlotte Islands, Mr. Ronald Tesolin, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennett of Comox, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown of Prince George, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bese of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. D. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. C. Purden, Mr. T. Purden and Mr. and Mrs. John Fraser, all of Vancouver.

Surprise

Bride-elect Miss Kathy Benn, whose marriage takes place on Saturday evening, was feted with a surprise shower in the lunchroom of the Parliament Buildings. Co-hostesses of the affair were the Misses Sharon Thomson, Dana Piper and Kathy Grute. A corsage of pink carnations was presented to the honor guest. A decorated shower cake was highlight of the affair. Guests, the bride-elect's co-workers at the provincial department of health and welfare, included Mrs. B. Ashbridge, Mrs. W. Murphy, Mrs. D. Lowe, Mrs. R. Beckerley Mrs. R. Newman, Mrs. B. Cluff, Mrs. D. Goddard, Mrs. B. Chaplin, Mrs. E. Andrew, Mrs. E. DEAR ABBY . . .

Here's What Makes A Good Marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You are pretty good at getting right to the heart of things in very few words. Can you tell me why there is so much divorce today?

H.H.T.

DEAR H.H.T.: Most divorces result from the illusion that a "perfect" marriage is achievable, and anything less is a failure. Consequently, when each discovers the inevitable human imperfections in the other, he becomes disillusioned, resentful, and frustrated. Then two otherwise normal, intelligent people who, at one time "loved" each other enough to marry, become part-time strangers and sometimes enemies.

Married couples should realize that a successful marriage is like a successful business partnership. It cannot succeed without mutual trust, confidence, and respect. And the sooner the "partners" get down to the business of making the best of the most challenging relationship in all human experience — marriage — the sooner we can turn our divorce courts into bowling alleys. And I'm all for it.

DEAR ABBY: When being introduced to a person, is it proper to say, "I've heard a lot about you?"

HAL

DEAR HAL: It all depends on what you've heard.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has one habit which worries me to death. He keeps a cigar or pipe clamped between his teeth while pouring gasoline into the tank of the power lawn mower, or filling the gasoline tank of our boat. When I fuss he says I am getting all excited about nothing because his cigar or pipe is not lit.

I grant you, I can't see a flame, but when I grab them out of his mouth, the cigar or pipe are still warm. Please print this and ask your readers to write in and tell you if these circumstances have ever caused injury or loss of life. Or am I getting excited about nothing?

STILL WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Where there's smoke there COULD BE fire, but I'll leave this to the experts. In the meantime, I'd say your husaband has developed a bad habit. There's always the chance that the fire isn't as "out" as he thinks it is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOTHING TO WEAR": Wear a smile. It will do more for your appearance than a new dress.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

'No Time for Eating' Is No Excuse Anymore

By Penny Saver

The other morning, I turned off the alarm and rolled over, promising myself just five more minutes of sleep. I woke up an hour later. Sound familiar? By the time I'd dressed, made up my face, gotten the rest of the family off to work and school, I just didn't have time to have breakfast, as I had an early-morning appointment to meet. Long before lunchtime rolled around, my growling stomach and I would have been satisfied with munching on the kitchen table!

Never again! I've discovered something — a very delicious something — which no late types like myself can afford to pass up. It's a complete breakfast in a glass.

To eight ounces of milk, you add one envelope of this product, stir and there you have it. A breakfast in a minute which has all the essential vitamins, minerals and proteins needed to keep you going until your next meal.

Choose your flavor—there is vanilla, chocolate, coffee, malted and, m-m-m, strawberry. Price is 79 cents for a package containing six envelopes.

There is no excuse now for the career girl to settle for just coffee for breakfast because she doesn't have time to cook. The youngsters will love this idea too—it tastes like a milkshake.

I've also discovered something else—European breads, rich with real "old-country" flavor, but which are made here in Canada. Perfect for luncheon treats, these will also make your party sandwiches the most talked-about in town.

A large crusty German rye loaf sells for 33 cents and the flavor is indescribable. A dark rye loaf, at 36 cents, takes on a particularly delectable taste when served with salami or other spiced meats.

Long French loaves, popular favorites at mealtimes, are selling for 22 cents. A new twist to garlic bread is to split and season this with garlic spread and butter, then top the loaf with butter and grated Parmesan cheese, baking it until the cheese forms a crispy cover.

Smaller French loaf buns, suitable for party sandwiches, are priced at 29 cents for a package of five. With a little imagination, plus European sausage, tomatoes and cheeses, you have treats which will earn you a well-deserved "hostess with the mostest" title.

If you'll call me at 382-3131, I'll let you in on where to find these mealtime treats.

Female Ex-PC Organizer Makes Comeback This Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Flora MacDonald, newly-elected Progressive Conservative party secretary, ran for the office "because I thought it was about time a woman was elected to the national executive."

Miss MacDonald, a tall, slim red-head, was dismissed as a national PC organizer last spring. It was rumored she was let go for her anti-Diefenbaker feelings.

The official reason for her firing from the post, which she had held since 1956, was that the new national director, James Johnston, wanted to start fresh with a new staff.

Miss MacDonald wouldn't say in an interview whether she felt her election Tuesday night was an indication of support for the party's anti-Diefenbaker action.

"I hadn't looked at it at all that way."

She said she ran because "I was interested in continuing to serve the party in a voluntary capacity."

Miss MacDonald, a native of Sydney, N.S., had been "doing administrative work" in the political science department of Queen's University, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell C. Guthrie, 2090 Carnarvon Street, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their younger daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Mr. Hugh McTavish Skillings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo M. Skillings, 1721 Rockland Avenue. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 3, in Christ Church Cathedral. Miss Guthrie is a 1966 graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital school of nursing. Her fiance received his bachelor of commerce degree from the University of British Columbia. (Jim Ryan Photo.)

Heirloom Locket Becomes Bride's 'Something Old'

A gold locket which belonged to her grandmother fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Linda Nancy Stirzaker, recently, when she became the bride of Martin Peter Ullman. The locket had been worn by the bride's mother at her wedding.

It was the only jewelry accent to the bride's gown of pale yellow peau de soie. The lace-covered bodice was fashioned on empire lines and featured full lace sleeves. A coronet headpiece held her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion net and she carried yellow roses, chrysanthemums and wheat in her bouquet.

Chrysanthemums in brown and yellow tones were at the altar of St. Joseph's Catholic Church when Msgr. M. O'Connell heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stirzaker of Port Alberni and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ullman, 3457 Salsbury Way, Victoria. Mr. Stirzaker gave his daughter in marriage and Miss B. Gubbels was organist.

Matching gowns of pale brown peau de soie, styled on empire lines, were worn by matron of honor Mrs. D. Zeinstra and bridesmaids, the Misses Nora Stirzaker and Lynne Ullman, sisters of the principals. Their headpieces were en tone and they carried brown and yellow chrysanthemums in their bouquets.

Dick Zeinstra was best man and Bruce Sommers and Doug Hughes were ushers.

Miniature figures of a bride and groom topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the lace-covered head table at the reception following in the Red Lion Motor Inn. Yellow roses completed the table decorations.

William Hucal proposed the toast to his niece and Paul Ullman was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, the new Mrs. Ullman donned a two-piece black suit, which she complemented with pink and black patent accessories. A pink rosebud corsage completed the outfit.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Treating Baldness With Hormone

Q. I have heard that they now have a cure for baldness for men. Is this true?

A. No, not really.

A study was made by applying a male hormone to the scalps of 21 men. This stimulated a little hair growth on the heads of 16 of them. However, the doctors warned that this is not a cure for baldness but "rather the real significance of this research lies in its opening of a door for investigating the creation or study of other compounds which might have almost entirely local effects." Absorption of the hormone through the skin could have undesirable side effects. This study was made at the University of Pennsylvania by Dr. Christopher M. Papa and Dr. Albert M. Kligman.

Lowman

Q. I am the weight I want to be. Will I have to diet and exercise forever in order to stay this way?

A. You do not have to continue eating like you did in order to lose weight. During your reducing period you have probably formed better habits in eating, or this should have happened. You perhaps have, to some extent, lost your craving for rich non-essential foods and have become accustomed to smaller helpings. Keep the habits for the sake of health, but add 300 calories to your daily intake and watch the scales. If you continue to lose, add another 200 a day. With a little caution and experimentation you can discover just the number of calories you need to maintain your ideal weight. You should continue exercise for the sake of your health as well as your figure.

Q. I am just 15 years old and am very blonde. My lashes are fairly thick but hardly show at all because they are so light in color. I want them dyed, but my mother objects. What do you think?

A. Why not use a brown eyebrow pencil lightly and also a light application of brown mascara?

Q. I can't use any creams on my face. I break out in a rash. The only thing I can use is olive oil. What can I do?

A. Try one of the cosmetic lines planned especially for women who are allergic to the usual products. There are several splendid ones. If any of my readers would like to have the names of these send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

For helpful information about makeup send for my free leaflet "What's Going On?" To obtain your free copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BUT, BRIBERY?

WOMBWELL, Eng. (CP)—Sunday schools around Barnsley, Yorkshire, have complained that the branch here is bribing children to attend with candy bars. "I suppose it does look like bribery," admitted John Hunt, the Sunday school chief, "but in these days it is no use just asking children; you have to give them something for turning up."

Trustees Demand Action On Area Vocational School

Trustees of Greater Victoria, Sooke and Saanich school districts decided Thursday to try and pressure the provincial government into building the long-promised vocational school to serve this area.

The decision was taken at a liaison meeting between representatives of the three school boards.

Trustees passed a motion stating they are "alarmed and dissatisfied" about government procrastination in building the school.

The government promised several years ago to build the school and in January this year it was announced that construction would start in January, 1967, on a site at Burnside and Tillicum.

Peter Bunn, vice-chairman of Greater Victoria school board, recalled that in spring this year, Education Minister Peterson had refused to make a firm commitment on building when he met trustees.

Mr. Bunn told the meeting, "He had to admit that the land had not even been assembled and not a pencil had been put to paper" to draw plans.

Mr. Bunn said, "We're back where we started two years ago. It's a deplorable situation and we should take action. If we don't do something, we're delinquent."

John Bartanus, Sooke school board chairman, told Mr. Bunn, "I support your views wholeheartedly."

The trustees decided to invite local MLAs to a meeting Dec. 15 to discuss the situation and find out how they can help to remedy it. If the meeting does not result in action, trustees will try and mount public pressure on the government during the coming session of the legislature.

Canada 'Should Help' In River Development

Instead of playing the role of "impotent peacemaker" in Southeast Asia, Canada should do something constructive, a water resources expert urged here Wednesday.

Canada should support wholeheartedly the development of the Mekong River scheme in Southeast Asia," Dr. Derrick Sewell told a meeting of the university women's club of Victoria.

"Participation in this scheme would enable Canada to play a much more useful and positive role in Southeast Asia than she has done to date.

"Her major role thus far has been that of a rather impotent peacekeeper," the Uvic associate professor of economics and geography added.

He explained Canada in 1959 spent $1.5 million surveying and mapping this great river, five times the size of the Fraser, which flows through six countries on its 2,625-mile trip to the South China Sea.

"Since 1959 however, Canada has shown relatively little interest in the project," he charged.

The work has gone on without her as Laos, Cambodia, Thailand and South Viet Nam have set about drafting a massive plan for developing the river. Expected to cost between $2 and $6 billion the plan could eventually produce over 12 million kilowatts of electricity, irrigate over 24 million acres of parched land, open up 1,000 miles of fresh-water navigation, and make provision for flood control.

The project is a must, Dr. Sewell claimed.

"Population is increasing half as fast again as food supply and industrial production. Soon the Malthusian dilemma which stalks onimously in the background will become a reality—unless major steps are taken to increase agricultural production dramatically and to promote industrial development," Dr. Sewell concluded.

Dr. Sewell is the author of a recent book on the Mekong River area.

Game Farm At Penticton

PENTICTON (CP)—A 600-acre game farm will be established near here in the spring of 1967, Al Oeming of Edmonton said Thursday.

Oeming, director, owner and founder of the Alberta Game Farm near Edmonton, said the first stage of the Penticton project is expected to be completed by April at a cost of $500,000. A minimum of 30 species consisting of 200 animals will initiate the project, he said.

"Long range plans call for a totally unique display for B.C.," said Mr. Oeming. "There is absolutely no intention to duplicate the Alberta Game Farm."

FIRE WHIPPED BY WIND

Luxury Yachts Destroyed

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A wind-whipped blaze leaped from one luxury yacht to another, exploding gasoline tanks and destoryed more than a dozen expensive seacraft at a river marina today.

Police estimated the damage in excess of $1,000,000.

Three persons fled a yacht and were treated at hospital for burns.

Police said 13 craft were declared a total loss and four others were heavily damaged. Vessels that burned to the waterline ranged from a 31-footer to the 102-foot cruiser Heather IV.

As many as 50 firefighters battled the flames which raged out of control for three hours and which could be seen six miles away.

The fire erupted shortly after midnight at the Broward Marina, where wealthy northern yachtsmen keep their craft during the winter months.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

QUEBEC IGNORES BOXING DAY

West Gets Yule Break

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If you go by the dictionary, Boxing Day is the first weekday after Christmas. And since Christmas falls on Sunday this year, that would make Monday, Dec. 26, Boxing Day.

But where the old English holiday is observed in Canada, it will be Tuesday, Dec. 27, this time. That's because Monday will be the statutory Christmas Day holiday.

The result is a four-day holiday (Saturday to Tuesday) for many provincial and municipal employees and, in some provinces, for other workers as well.

Exceptions are those who work for the federal government and for the provincial governments in Ontario and Quebec. They get three days—Saturday to Monday.

Quebec just doesn't bother with Boxing Day. And while it isn't recognized at the provincial level in Ontario, some municipalities are giving their employees the day off.

In most parts of the country, downtown department stores will be closed Monday and Tuesday to give their employees a rest after the Christmas shopping rush which will end with a last-minute flurry Saturday.

BANKS OPEN SATURDAY

Chartered banks will be open 9 a.m. to noon on the Saturday before Christmas and will be shut Monday and Tuesday. They'll be closed on the Saturday before New Year's Day and on Monday, Jan. 2, a statutory holiday across the country.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that every province except Ontario and Quebec will observe Boxing Day in some way.

Newfoundland makes it a statutory holiday for provincial and municipal employees. It's a holiday for provincial workers in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick and most cities and towns are expected to follow suit.

Provincial and municipal employees in Manitoba and Saskatchewan will also have a four-day holiday and employees of some private firms will also get Boxing Day.

Some 15,000 Alberta government employees will get the four-day holiday but 10,000 civic employees in Edmonton will have their four-day period running from Friday, Dec. 23, to Monday, Dec. 26. And some Alberta firms will shut down Friday while others will take Tuesday off.

British Columbia makes Boxing Day a holiday for the whole province. The result is that only federal workers and a few others will be required to work.

TWO BOMBS DISGUISED AS RADIOS

ASTORIA (AP) — A Coast Guard officer said Wednesday the bomb that killed a ship captain and a crewman at sea Sunday was disguised as a transistor radio.

When the two switches on the radio case were turned, the bomb exploded, said Cmdr. R. E. Young of the Coast Guard.

Two of the disguised bombs were found below decks on the cargo ship Grand Integrity, about 135 miles off Astoria.

Both were brought to the deck for examination. The captain and other crew members gathered around one of them, as the switches were turned. Besides the two killed, seven were injured.

The other bomb was deactivated later by U.S. Navy specialists.

COMMON HISTORY of Alaska and British Columbia is pondered by three Alaskan visitors (from left) Diane Smith, of Seward; Philip Hamilton, of Emmonak, and Jane Haycroft, of Fairbanks. Three are returning visit made earlier by Victoria students to Alaska on Centennial youth travel program. Photos of early settlement in Stikine Territory, which figured largely in Klondike gold rush, are part of exhibit on British Columbia before 1866, sponsored by provincial archives and Centennial commission at University of Victoria, through November 30.

He Prefers the Wild Life But It Must Be Country-Style

By GLEN ALLEN

Breathed on by rogue elephants, surprised in bed by scorpions and stared at by tsetse flies, photographer extraordinary Des Bartlett is shy of only one thing.

Cities.

"I like it better where people aren't," said Mr. Bartlett, who for the past 10 years has been photographing wildlife in Australia, Africa, South America and now here.

"No animal has ever hurt me," he said. "And if they feel like hurting you, they always warn you first.

"Something a man won't do."

108,000 MILES

With his young daughter Julie, his wife Jennifer and an overloaded ark of a Land Rover whose tires are rarely cool (108,000 miles and still going strong), Des Bartlett has taken pictures of everything but Ogopogo.

He started in Australia about 20 years ago. A six-month BBC film commission to do African wildlife led to almost a decade of shutter-snapping on the dark continent.

70 DOCUMENTARIES

He did 70 half-hour documentaries of all aspects of Africa, including its native peoples.

Always alone, he never carried firearms.

"You're filming to the last minute, anyway," he says. "No time to shoot.

"A rhino treed me once, but nothing worse than that."

Lions, he said, are easy — coy and as hammy as star-struck starlets.

He has taken nearly 600,000 feet of film underwater, from the air and on his feet on four continents.

HE NEVER CARRIES firearms but wildlife photographer Des Bartlett has plenty of shooting equipment in expensive cameras.

Add to that uncounted (and uncountable—his "best" file numbers 20,000) "still" shots and he is "a man who wouldn't feel right without a camera in his hand."

Collins' of London is publishing his best "stills" in three volumes, among the promoters will be Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, an admirer.

KENYA BEST

An Australian who hopes to get back to Australia "at least for a visit" soon, he nonetheless thinks Kenya "the best country in the world."

He admits he hasn't seen more of Canada than Victoria.

Des, his small family, cameras, Land Rover with platform roof ("people think we're travelling trapeze artists") will leave in a few days for northern California where he is doing a study of migratory waterfowl.

13 CAMERAS

The 13 cameras he takes wherever he goes, and he feels like going "indefinitely", are four cine camers, three Hasselblad 2¼x2¼", two Minoltas, and strays of almost other kind of reputable instrument.

After California he has jobs in Yellowstone Park, New Mexico, and possibly South America, where he and his wife and his nine-year-old daughter once had a "smashing" time in the back-country jungle of Surinam.

"Like to have another whack at that place," he says.

"First time was just a side trip."

STUDENTS SEEK LOWER TUITION FEES

Riders Not Just Horsing Around

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two students from the University of British Columbia Thursday donned traditional academic gowns and square mortarboard hats to trot horses around the campus and open their entry in the Cariboo byelection.

Don Wise, 23, of Williams Lake and Dave Ziernhelt, 19, of 100 Mile House left Vancouver by car for the Cariboo where they plan to mount their horses and canter through the main streets of communities to inject their case for higher education into the byelection.

They want lower tuition fees, equalization grants for out-of-town students and an independent grants commission to award government money to the province's universities.

"We're not just a couple of mavericks horsing around," said Wise. "We have a serious message and we intend to give it a lot of mileage in the next few days."

Ziernhelt said they have no plan to campaign for a particular party, rather "we just want to get our message across to the voters with speeches, phamplets and posters."

Recovered

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Pablo Picasso painting stolen by a publicity-seeking thief was recovered early today in a bus station locker.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Museum of Art, where the painting was stolen, said the painting was not damaged.

Four Recover $50,000 Treasure

MARATHON, Fla. (AP) — Four skindivers say they have recovered about $50,000 worth of Spanish treasure from the ocean floor near here.

They say the value of treasure still to be brought to the surface may exceed $2,000,000.

"Were we lucky," said Jack Steffney Thursday. "We were going to give up our search in just six days after almost seven months of looking for what we believe to be the San Fernando, a treasure ship that was hurricane sunk with 14 others of the 'silver - plate fleet' in 1733."

Steffney said the divers recovered 395 silver pieces of eight worth at least $100 each to collectors and a number of artifacts in excellent condition.

If correctly identified, the sunken ship was part of a 17-vessel Spanish fleet carrying more than $60,000,000 from Mexico to Spain. It was blown by a hurricane into the Florida keys after leaving Havana and 16 of the 17 vessels were destroyed.

Steffney said the treasure was found outside the jurisdiction of Florida and the United States. The state takes a share of treasure found in Florida waters.

ALASKA BIRTHDAY TOO

Visitors Prep For Their 'A 67'

Fountains and centennials and some on-the-side research for a doctoral degree have worked their way into a brief Victoria visit for three Alaskan students and a teacher.

So has a short commercial for the land of the midnight sun and its upcoming centennial celebrations next year.

The three are young inhabitants of the ice-and-snow land of the U.S.'s 49th state, which beats even Texas in size.

FIVE-DAY EXCHANGE

In Victoria on a five-day centennial exchange visit, the youngsters, Diane Smith of Seward, Jane Haycroft of Fairbanks and Philip Hamilton of Emmonak with their chaperone Mrs. Dorothy Deboer, came to see, learn and talk about Alaska.

Alaska's 1967 Centenary?

"It's the 100th anniversary of the U.S. purchase of Alaska from Russia," said Mrs. Deboers.

But Alaskans have to check on just what happened to B.C. in 1966 when confronted with the provincial centenary, she said.

For Philip, 18, whose home is the remote community of Emmonak, it's his first time outside Alaska.

He attends a school in Sitka where about 600 youngsters, all from isolated areas, board. The fountains down here, Philip confided, are what impressed him.

BORN IN JAPAN

For Jane, 16, it's the first time outside Alaska for five years. Born in Japan, however, she has lived up north for 11 years, and is enthusiastic about the celebrations next year in her home town of Fairbanks.

There the centennial celebratins will centre on the exposition, named 'A 67', opening in May, and on construction of a new civic centre for Fairbanks.

Lapel buttons advertising the Alaskan whoop-up were sported by Jane and Diane, also 16, who hails from Seward.

For their chaperone Mrs. Deboers, the trip was an exercise in what the well-informed person should know about Alaska, the topic of a doctoral thesis she is working on for an education degree from the University of Colorado.

Although she's researching the work at home to produce a textbook for school instruction on Alaska, the questions Mrs. Deboers parries on her visit are excellent material.

The four, who stay until Monday, are returning the earlier Alaska visit made by three Victoria high school students on a centennial travel program.

Taped TV Shows Hit by Stoppages

NEW YORK (AP)—Union-ordered work stoppages on some taped television programs added urgency today to a federal mediator's initial effort to avert a threatened strike against the four major television and radio networks

The AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) ordered the work stoppages Thursday against taped television shows whose producers would not agree to keep reruns off the air in the event of a strike.

One of the first affected was the Johnny Carson Tonight program. At the union's direction, Carson and his cast stayed away from their regular early evening taping session and the National Broadcasting Co. filled the late night slot with a Carson rerun.

"We have told our members not to appear in a prerecording unless they know that the producer has signed the agreement," an AFTRA spokesman said.

TAPED IN ADVANCE

Many shows are taped weeks before they are to be aired, and the effect of Thursday's stoppages might not be apparent immediately.

Contracts between the networks and the two unions—AFTRA and the AFL - CIO Screen Actors Guild—expired at midnight Tuesday and negotiations collapsed some four hours later.

Saying he was "deeply concerned" over the "continuing impasse," Frank H. Brown, regional director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, asked both sides to meet with mediator Albert Desser today.

ST. MICHAEL'S

Merrymakers Formed At Church

A variety club known as St. Michael's Merrymakers has been formed at St. Michael's and All Angels Church, 4733 West Saanich Road.

"The club's objective is to present variety concerts and plays in the church hall," says Mrs. Mavis Edwards of Prospect Lake, publicity chairman and co-ordinator.

"We welcome anyone who can sing, dance or play an instrument; or perform with a needle and thread, paint brush or hammer backstage."

Robert Cleland has been elected president of the new variety club, with G. L. West as secretary-treasurer. Mr. West can be contacted at GR 9-6931.

Next meeting will be held on Nov. 28 at 8 p.m.

Lawyer Appointed

REGINA (CP) — William H. Deverell, a Vancouver lawyer and formerly of Saskatoon, has been appointed special assistant to Opposition Leader Woodrow Lloyd.

WILL THE REAL HOSTESS please sit down? Three of the charming young ladies in this picture are fake airline hostesses playing the roles of the three fiancees in the Bastion Theatre production of the comedy, Boeing Boeing, opening tonight at McPherson Playhouse. The real thing, Air Canada hostess Elaine Monson, is at left. Actresses Nancy Watt, Markyta Mares and Pamela O'Neill are the others, from left to right. Curtain time tonight is 8:30.

'Born Organizer' Foiled by Jet Set

Roaring farce is next on the bill of fare at the McPherson Playhouse, when Bastion Theatre's production of the comedy Boeing Boeing opens tonight.

Roy Silver plays 'Bernard,' a bachelor, and to quote one of his fiancees — a born organizer.

One of his fiancees? Yes — Bernard manages to maintain three beautiful fiancees in a single apartment in Paris — each of them believing she is the 'one and only.' All three are airline hostesses, and this is where the organization comes in.

Bernard keeps a careful watch on the airline timetables to ensure against a clash. All goes smoothly until the advent of the jet age. The planes get faster, the timetables go haywire, and Bernard is in trouble.

Well-known professional actress Ramona McBean is 'Bertha,' the disapproving housekeeper., and the three beautiful stewardesses are played by Markyta Mares, Pamela O'Neill and Nancy Watt.

Boeing Boeing runs till Dec. 3.

SINATRA SUED IN DROWNING

HONOLULU (UPI)—Singer Frank Sinatra was sued for $500,000 Thursday as the aftermath of the drowning death of a crew member aboard Sinatra's yacht last year.

The accident happened off Massachusetts and the suit was filed here in behalf of Mrs. Dolores Goldfarb, 22, widow of seaman Robert Goldfarb, who drowned while trying to swim back to Sinatra's yacht whil it was anchored off Martha's Vineyard.

FOR UVIC CONCERT

Brilliant, Young Violinist Here

Opportunity to hear one of the world's most brilliant young violin virtuosos is being offered a few lucky music-lovers by the University of Victoria Sunday night.

Second in a special series of Victoria Symphony Orchestra concerts arranged by the university for its students, the program will feature the Soviet violinist Vladimir Lancman, winner of the International Violin Competition held at Montreal's Place des Arts last summer.

A few free tickets are available to the general public and may be picked up on a first-come-first-served basis at the Student Union Building all day Saturday.

Following his performance on the Sibelius Violin Concerto at the competition which brought outstanding entries from all over the world, Vladimir Lancman won an ovation of six full minutes from an ecstatic audience.

Lancman, 24, won a major prize in Paris prior to his success in the international competition at Montreal.

Conductor of the orchestra for the two-week-long Montreal event was Otto-Werner Mueller.

Once more under Mueller's baton, Lancman will play the Sibelius Concerto and also Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in E minor.

The young artist has been brought to Victoria specially for this event and will not be heard in any other public performance.

The concert will take place at 8 p.m. in the Gordon Head gymnasium.

Dreams Blow Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sawmill worker Martin Steinman and boatbuilder Bodo Meyers, who spent three years building their own 50-foot seiner, had their dream shattered this week when a mystery explosion wrecked the craft at its Fraser River mooring.

DROP BRA BUT ONLY IF ART

NEW YORK (UPI)—Banished from the city's night clubs, as lewd and indecent, the naked woman's bosom will be permitted in public here only when it is bared in the name of art.

After outlawing topless waitresses, Mayor John V. Lindsay decided Wednesday to lift a 1959 order requiring the female members of an African dance group to wear brassieres. The ethnic group opened on Broadway later sans breast support.

NO RESTRICTIONS

Lindsay said "no restrictions" would be placed on dancers from the Republic of Guinea who are playing at the Ethel Barrymore theatre in "Les Ballets Africains."

Free Trade Pact With U.S. Backed

By DENNIS ORCHARD

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) — Canadian industries would not only survive but thrive in conditions of free trade with the United States, economists predicted Thursday before an international conference on trade policies.

They said their studies suggest that none of the 15 manufacturing sectors of the Canadian economy would collapse or go under in tariff-free competition for continent-wide markets.

Even the most painful adjustments for non-competitive industries such as furniture-making would be worthwhile in the long run.

Although some businessmen did not share in the optimism, these were the conclusions that the Private Planning Association of Canada examined in a high-power forum of trade experts.

The voluntary association of trade-oriented men in labor, industry, government and the universities is spending $300,000 to study the ways, means and effects of pulling down trade barriers throughout the world but more specifically in the Atlantic community and between the U.S. and Canada.

DEBATE RESEARCH

A conference this week is putting much of the research to the test of free - swinging debate before final reports are prepared for publishing next year. Some of Canada's top industrialists and government officials gave their views Thursday on the understanding that their opinions but not their names could be reported.

In free trade, they all saw clear advantages to Canadians in general: A higher standard of living, cutting sharply into a 10-per-cent difference in income that the average American enjoys over the average Canadian.

Two brothers, economists Paul Wonnacott of the University of Maryland and Ron Wonnacott of the University of Western Ontario, laid the basis for debate with studies of what is likely to happen to specific industries if all tariffs barriers are dropped between Canada and the U.S.

Ron Wonnacott said both resources industries and manufacturers would expand. He rejected fears that Canada would revert to a nation hewing wood and drawing water as manufacturers were driven out of competition.

Canada would retain a major advantage over U.S. industries in its lower wage rates and could expect its labor-intensive industries which use relatively more workers and less machinery to expand quickly.

Wages would and should adjust toward U.S. levels, but only when an industry had established itself in markets at competitive prices he said.

CITES AUTO PACT

The existing U.S. - Canada auto pact was cited as an area where it will be important to bring car prices into line, the first goal of the agreement before unions set out to bargain for wage parity between workers of U.S. and Canadian assembly plants.

John Young, economics professor at the University of British Columbia, examined regional effects of free trade. He saw clear, early advantages for the Maritimes, Prairies and his own province.

In Ontario and Quebec, where industry would face heavy pressure from new imports competing for traditional Canadian markets, adjustment would be more difficult.

MEN JUMP INTO NET THREE FLOORS DOWN

TORONTO (CP)—Four men jumped from the third floor of a burning apartment building Thursday night into a firemen's net. No one was injured.

"They were hanging out of windows all over the place," said fireman Albert Cordingly, "and we couldn't get the ladders up fast enough, so we got the net and yelled to them to jump."

Firemen had the blaze in the three-storey brick building on East-Central Broadview Avenue, under control by midnight.

9 IN MEMORIAM

COWARD — In loving memory of father, Robert Coward.

"Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near."

—Sadly missed, Eleanor and Ken.

COWARD — In loving memory of Robert Coward, husband and father, who passed away Nov. 19, 1964.

"We often sit and think of him
when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
when all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away."

—Always remembered and sadly missed by wife, Helen and son, Rod.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

In the game of hearts the aim is not to take tricks and the deuce is the best card. Once in awhile you can gain through the ability to lose a trick in bridge.

Opening lead—♦K

South would have been well-advised to let his partner play three notrump. He had nine tricks in his own hand and could take a chance that the defence would not commence proceedings by running off diamond tricks. He would have been well-advised but the game was rubber bridge and he was looking at those 150 honors.

West cashed the ace and king of diamonds and shifted to the jack of spades.

South took East's queen with the ace and looked at those beautiful, useless clubs in dummy. There was no apparent way to get over to them.

South wasn't going to need them if spades broke but East's queen play had sort of marked West with long spades.

South thought awhile and recalled that East had played the jack of diamonds on the first diamond lead. Obviously, East had started with two diamonds only.

Then South looked at his deuce of trumps and saw a way to get to dummy's clubs. He played three high trumps. East did the best he could do stay low and dropped the nine, seven and six but the four was still higher than the deuce.

South cashed his ace of clubs and led the king of spades just in case East should hold a second spade. East discarded a club. There was no point in ruffing in. Then South led his deuce of trumps. East was in and had to lead to dummy's good clubs.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Program conflict is one of the pieces of television business most difficult to digest. It creates ill will between the viewer and the networks because of the latter's inconsideration.

Stephen

The problem affects American viewers more so than Canadians but there are those of us who live along the border and are affected when turned to a U.S. station because of the convenience of program time.

For instance, last week ABC Stage '67 presented The People Trap, a drama about a population-choked major city 100 years in the future. The stars were Stuart Whitman, Vera Miles, Lee Grant and Connie Stevens, with cameo appearances from Jackie Robinson, Mort Sahl, Phil Harris, Pearl Bailey, Lew Ayres, Betty Furness and Cesar Romero.

At the same time, CBS-TV presented Red Skelton in a salute to circus clowns, Clown Alley.

The reason for the CBS action is vague since the "Stage" series is not doing well in the ratings column and really no threat at all.

On Dec. 7, NBC-TV will present a Hallmark Hall of Fame production of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," starring Dirk Bogarde and Rosemary Harris.

It promised a great start, but then news came from ABC-TV that it will present a documentary program at the same time recreating the biblical story of the Nativity. Entitled "Christ Is Born," it will be narrated by John Huston and is part of the very successful and excelenit "Saga of Western Man" series.

Why? Surely the homebody deserves a better break. It's about time the networks, both in Canada and the U.S., gave a little more thought in this direction to guarantee a friend or two in the viewing hinterland.

CBC-TV, by the way, will carry the 90-minute Blithe Spirit colorcast at 9:30 p.m., Nov. 23.

According to TV of Canada, 93 per cent of the 5 million households in Canada harbor TV sets. In B.C., 92 per cent of the over 518,000 households own television sets.

Canadians watch TV a national average of 43 hours per week. This works out to roughly 6 hours and 8 minutes of watching daily.

Canadian television started in 1952 with only two stations on the air. Now there are 72 originating stations and 186 rebroadcast stations. As a result, all but 2 per cent of Canadian homes are within the reach of at least one TV station.

OAK BAY REALTY LTD.
2188 OAK BAY AVENUE

LANGFORD

Fifteen houses in this area, presently occupied by tenants, now being offered for sale. These are nearly all three-bedroom houses. Several are only a year or two old. None have basements, but most have Oil-o-Matic heating, plumbing for automatic washers and wiring for electric range and dryer, paved driveways, carports.

Taxes are low! (In most cases only $25-$60 a year to the owner.) Best of all, only $1,000 down and the balance like rent. No mortgages to raise or commissions to pay. All financing arranged for you. Only one payment to make. These are certainly not mansions, but good comfortable family homes, particularly suited to a young family starting out. Most prices range from $10,400-$12,400. Some older houses are even less.

We will be happy to arrange to show you these houses by appointment.

If you wish to drive past them first we will mail you a list showing the addresses and prices. (Please do not disturb the tenants.) Simply call 478-4446 or 478-4116 and leave your name and address. No one will call on you unless requested.

THE
OFFERS
A MINIATURE CASTLE

Seldom are we privileged to offer as much perfection in a small property as there is in this one. The house is charming from the attractive living room which has a large fireplace, through to the big bright kitchen and dining area with lots of windows overlooking the small but amazingly planned back garden. Two nice bedrooms and even the bathroom has been well planned and finished. Part basement, oil heat and drive-in garage. There is a small sundeck off the living room and the house nestles in trees high on the lot and does look truly like a "Miniature Castle." Half cash required, asking $12,900. 382-4151 MRS. LAVENDER 383-9120

GONZALES AREA

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Workers Complete Three-Year Course

Twenty-four provincial government employees will be given recognition tonight for three years of in-service training at the University of Victoria.

They will each receive a diploma in public administration at a special academic assembly at 8 p.m. in the Young Building on the Lansdowne campus.

Now in its 11th year, the program has given more than 250 civil servants an insight into the problems and procedures of government. Candidates are selected by government departments on the basis of administrative potential.

Classes are held in the evening and they cover a broad range of subjects including law, psychology and economics. Each year's sessions end with two weeks of full-time study on campus.

The assembly will be conducted by Chancellor J. B. Clearihue and speakers will include Uvic president Dr. Malcolm Taylor and Dr. G. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education.

Following is a list of the Victoria graduates of the course.

Arthur Martin Barber (lands service), 625 Victoria Avenue; Douglas James Chorlton (forest service), 2084 Windsor Road; John Glenwright (hospital insurance service), 1051 Oliver Street; John Thomas Gulliver (water resources), 4943 Lochside Drive; William Lionel Ingram (mines and petroleum resources), 1786 Taylor Street; Kenneth Eldon Gerald Curtis Jackson (civil service commission), 450 Montcalm; Keith Ellwood Littler (department of finance), 3230 Upper Terrace; Michael John O'Brien (assesment commission), 2186 McNeill Avenue; Edward Emerson Readshaw (department of highways), 950 Richmond Road; Jacob Michael Sotkowy (attorney-general's department), 4578 Sumner Place; Neil Clayton Tattrie (department of highways), 1946 Ferndale Road; Walter Campbell Thomson (department of highways), 1646 St. Francis Wood; Howard Phillip Thornton (department of industrial development, trade and commerce), 944 Madison Street; Hans Waelti (forest service), 836 Blakeney Place; Albert Duff Wright (lands service), 1810 Kings Road.

Hotel Seeks $2,700 From Jayne

VANCOUVER (UPI) — A Vancouver hotel is chasing after Jayne Mansfield's scalp because a number of hotel blankets went missing from her suite just before she attended an honoring ceremony at an Indian reservation.

And if the Hollywood star's $2,700 hotel bill isn't paid up immediately, the hotel said it will turn the matter over to its California lawyers.

Four blankets were missing from the suite after Miss Mansfield was honored by a group of local Indians.

When she checked out of the Georgia Hotel, following a nightclub engagement, her bill was paid by cheque.

A "stop payment" order was placed on the cheque, drawn on a California bank.

Peter Hudson, manager of the hotel, said "We have made 15 long distance calls to Miss Mansfield's representatives, but haven't had any success."

Hudson said when the cheque was presented, the bank was immediately called, and it was learned there were funds in the account, but insufficient to cover the cheque.

"We weren't worried about the money being made available by the time the cheque went through, but then the stop payment order was put on it," said Hudson.

Fire Chief Rapped By Campbell

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Thursday slammed View Royal Fire Chief Al Beasley's criticism of the coming amalgamation plebiscite for residents in the panhandle.

Without naming him, the minister denied Chief Beasley's contention that the View Royal Fire Protection District would be undermined if the panhandle area pulled out by amalgamating with Esquimalt.

"I am hopeful that the Dec. 10 vote will be based on facts," Mr Campbell said in a press statement.

'NOT A FACT'

"And it is not a fact that the amalgamation of the panhandle with Esquimalt would destroy the financial position of the fire protection district."

He said the district would remain as it is constituted "until satisfactory arrangements were negotiated" between Esquimalt council and the district's trustees.

"Last time, this vote was colored by a lot of misinformation," he said.

"The only comments I intend to make are, from time to time, to correct any mis-statements of fact which may be drawn to my attention.

"This was one."

New Penalty Clauses Aim of City

Victoria taxpayers may face new penalty clauses in 1967.

At present late taxpayers are penalized in four stages with the first three penalities one per cent and the final penalty three per cent for an overall total of six per cent.

Other municipalities have two penalties for delinquents — a penalty of five per cent for the first late-payment stage and a similar five per cent penalty if taxes are not paid within nine months.

The 10 per cent penalty cuts down on delinquents according to city treasurer James Bramley.

Mr. Bramley told the city's finance committee Thursday that he estimates close to $500,000 will be owed the city by delinquent taxpayers by the end of this year.

Victoria's tax penalty rates were set many years ago by private act of the legislature.

The finance committee agreed to back a move to persuade the provincial government to rescind the old bill to leave the way clear for the city to bring in the five per cent and five per cent tax penalty system.

"We should seriously consider bringing in the new rates if we possibly can," said Mr. Bramley. "Our position is very bad when compared with other municipalities."

He added that he was sure the 10 per cent penalty would sharply reduce the amount owing in delinquent taxes.

'SUMPTUOUS LIVING'

Tax Snag Upsets 'Charitable Homes'

OTTAWA (CP) — A tale of sumptuous living and sustained tax evasion was unfolded Wednesday in a judgment by the tax appeal board against a supposed charitable and religious organization near Montreal.

The judgment told of rich oriental rugs placed on top of wall-to-wall broadloom at the elaborate 160-acre estate of the Christian Homes for Children at Vandreuil.

Rev. Harold George Martin, founder and chief officer of the institution, kept what he called a "Hell" file of rude and brusque replies to letters from donors wondering what was being done with their money.

Mr. Martin's five children were all given expensive educations although he said he never drew more than $2,000 a year in salary, said the judgment by board member W. O. Davis.

TWO-WEEK HEARING

He denied an appeal by the Christian Homes against a claim by the revenue department that the institution should have paid tax on $350,402 between the years 1946 and 1961.

The board, which took 2,000 pages of evidence at a two-week hearing on the case last November, ordered Christian Homes back to another hearing to hear argument on the total of the assessments.

The revenue department says Christian Homes is not a charitable organization and therefore not tax free as claimed, but a profit-making institution.

Mr. Martin said he provided care for orphaned, destitute, neglected and needy children, that he operated a home for unwed mothers, that he provided Christian training and that he provided a summer camp at minimum expense for children.

'PAYING BASIS'

The board found that children were taken into the summer camp "strictly on a paying basis" at $2 to $30 a week and if the money was not paid, Mr. Martin's lawyer "dunned and harassed those responsible for such payment in an effort to collect what was owing."

"Apparently a few children were permitted to attend the camp free of charge but were required to work in return for their keep."

He established the Christian Homes in 1945 near Orillia, Ont., but moved to Quebec when he was unable to obtain a licence in Ontario to run a year round home for children.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 02-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Karen Ziegenfus, age 13, of Latrobe, Pa., for her question:

What animals lived in the Pleistocene Period?

Though some of the animals of this period were bigger than their modern descendants, you would recognize most of them. There was, however, a five-ton shaggy sloth and an armadillo five-feet long. A sabre-tooched tiger, a woolly mammoth and a few others also have disappeared since Pleistocene days.

Hippos wallowed in the rivers of France and pony-size elephants enjoyed the vegetation around the Mediterranean. Our cavemen ancestors of the Pleistocene Period shared Europe with lions and hyenas and tried not to share their homes with monstrous cave bears. Reindeer and wolverines, wolves and musk oxen inhabited North America, and the Indians hunted the armor-plated glyptodont to crack open his five-foot shell. The Tehuelche Indians of Patagonia stripped the carcass of a giant sloth weighing five tons and standing 20 feet tall.

The Pleistocene Period records the chapter preceding the present story of life on earth. It lasted through a million years and closed with the last Ice Age, just a few thousand years ago. Several times the cruel glaciers crept down from the Arctic and receded. Each Ice Age was followed by a warm spell of interglacial climate. And geographical changes went hand in hand with these Pleistocene changes of climate.

The animals of the period were the recent ancestors of our modern animals. But they were not always where we expect to find them. As the massive ice fields inched forward, mammoth and moose, reindeer and arctic foxes migrated southward. As the glaciers melted, these and other animals retreated back to the Arctic regions.

Lived in Swampy Marshes

The warm spells brought soggy marshes and wide inland lakes. Great mastodons lived in the swampy marshes of the Mississippi valley and sabre-toothed tigers prowled Southern California. The Ice Ages did not force these migrations south of the equator. Nevertheless, the giant sloths and glyptodont armadillos failed to survive, as did several other oversize Pleistocene animals.

The descendants of the Pleistocene animals had about 15,000 years to adjust to a warmer climate. The lion, the hippo and the hyena have moved south. The reindeer has gone back to his Arctic regions. The fleet-footed chamois has taken refuge among the steep, snow-capped Alps. The mastodon and several other cousins of the elephant are among the Pleistocene casualties that became extinct.

The Age of Reptiles ended with the Mesozoic Era, some 60 million years ago. The following Cenozoic Era opened with nothing better than a pocketful of odd little mammals. The Tertiary Period lasted 60 million years, time for the dog-size eohippus to become a noble horse and other furry animals to improve themselves. It was the Age of Mammals, and when the Pleistocene Period began a million years ago, our modern animal families were grown up and ready to welcome the amazing human family.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Glove to David E. Gunderson, age 14, of Duluth, Minn., for his question:

Is it true that the earth is not a perfect sphere?

Gravity and rotation have co-operated to shape our solid planet into a round ball, with its heaviest materials in the core. But nature's designs rarely use straight lines, spheres and other perfect geometric forms. Geologists have known for a long time that our globe bulges at the waistline. Recent studies suggest that it also may be slightly pear-shaped.

The diameter of the earth at the equator is 26.7 miles longer than its diameter through the poles. This variation is very small when compared with an average diameter of almost 8,000 miles. But it was enough to cause the geographers to call the earth an oblate of flattened spheroid instead of a sphere. Data from orbiting satellites suggests that the bulge at the equator is irregular and its highest points lie south of the waistline. The Southern Hemisphere seems to be bulkier and a bit more rounded than the Northern Hemisphere.

Artery Roughening Can Start Early

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Recent post-mortem studies of even infants have shown that atherosclerosis (roughening of the inner lining of an artery) often begins shortly after birth. During the Korean War, it was a shock to the medical profession to find much atherosclerosis during autopsies on young U.S. soldiers, killed on the battlefield. Also, in Westchester County, N.Y., autopsies showed that many 35-year-old men, killed in accidents, had coronary (heart) artery walls so thickened with atherosclerosis that the channels were half-closed.

Many a time, at an autopsy on a middle-aged man, I have wondered how he remained alive as long as he did with the two big arteries in his heart almost closed with disease. Studies of the arteries of Egyptian mummies who died 3,500 years ago have shown the typical picture of atherosclerosis.

Dr. David M. Spain of Brooklyn, who has been studying this subject, feels that small strokes are caused when tiny fragments break off from an atherosclerotic ulcer in the inner lining of an artery in the brain, and then flow onward to clog a small vessel farther along. This results in injury to that small area of brain tissue that was supplied by the tiny artery. As soon as blood finds its way through the "collateral arteries" and around the pulgged-up vessel, the symptoms of the little stroke may disappear.

Dr. Spain tells us that in 1909, a Russian Army medical officer, Dr. Ignatowski, after observing that the top officers, who were big meat-eaters, had many more heart attacks than did the common soldiers, who were given almost no meat, fed meat to rabbits, and found that their larger arteries did develop atherosclerotic ulcers. Later, atherosclerosis was produced in rabbits by feeding them animal fats and cholesterol.

★ ★ ★

At all ages, up to 55, death from atherosclerosis of the two big heart arteries (coronary arteries) is 10 times more common among men than among women. Apparently, the female hormone protects women's arteries. Dr. Spain says that the presence of a high blood pressure is a serious contributor to the formation of atherosclerosis, only when it is combined with a high level of cholesterol in the blood. To illustrate, Apache Indians commonly have a high blood pressure, but they seldom suffer heart attacks, perhaps because they have but little cholesterol in their blood.

Dr. Spain feels that a man who has a high blood pressure and a high cholesterol level is four times more likely to get a heart attack than is the man with a normal pressure and a normal blood cholesterol.

The doctor is concerned with the large amount of fat which goes into the diet of our children, it is so much more than what is available to children in Asian countries. Today, some physicians are suspecting that the giving of much fat to a child can have something to do with his getting severe atherosclerosis in his later years.

1669 BOOK

Comprifef All Neceffary Directionf

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Beside me as I write this column is a small book perhaps four inches across, six or seven inches deep and about one inch thick.

Forbes

It's been well-bound, although the leather is hand-worn now. Gold tooling on the back gives the title as "Epitome of Husbandry" and the date of printing — 1669.

The friend who loaned it to me doesn't know how it came into the family. All she remembers is that it belonged to her husband and that it came to Canada with other treasures when they moved to this country from England to make their home.

* * *

For more than 46 years, while they owned and operated a market garden in West Kildonan, a short distance out of Winnipeg, it was a part of the family's collection of books.

"I dusted it every week," my friend says. "Sometimes I'd pick it up and read a bit but I never thought to ask my husband how he acquired it or where it came from."

After her husband died, my friend moved to British Columbia and finally to Victoria. The book came with her.

Now when she picks it up it intrigues her more than ever. And she wonders about those far-away days when printers used, at will, a letter "f" for "s" and spelled some words without including vowels.

The book is a manual intended for those who tilled the soil and bred animals for food 300 years ago in the British Isles.

* * *

Its frontispiece says it "comprifef all neceffary directionf for improvement of plowing, sowing, grafting, gardning ... horfes, their nature, and life and their difeafes and remedies, of oxen, cows, calves, sheep, hogs with the manner of ordering them, their difeafes and remedies."

Londoners Ben Billingsley and Obadiah Balgrave were the printers. Their shop was "at the entrance into Grefham Colledge over againft the church in Broad-ftreet, at the sign of the printing prefs, formerly in Cornhil."

The author was someone named F. B. Gent.

Several chapters are devoted to the relative values of plows. There's a long treatise on how to carry out dung or muck and "fpread it" and on the first and second "stirrings" of the soil after it is spread.

* * *

According to this little book there's a right and wrong way to plow for "pease" and to weed corn. And it tells you how to make a "didtch," start a hedge and mend a highway.

There's a section on the "particular secrets and choice rules for setting, watering and ordering of feveral choice plants, roots, delectable flowers and herbs for gardens" and anohter section on diseases of animals and the cures.

For instance it suggests that to kill maggots in a hog's ear or on the skin "you must take the juyce of hemlock, and pour it into the hole, and it will kill them, or elfe immediately void them of great bignefs."

* * *

To cure giggs in a horse's mouth, directions say to "flit (slit) them, and thruft out the corruption and to wafh the same with vinegar and salt."

Stern warning is given to geld calves in "the old of the moon, when they are 10 or 20 days old; for then is leaft (least) danger and the ox will be the higher, and the longer of body, and the longer horned."

The book concludes with a chapter on "The Young Gentleman's Heroick Exercife; or the Perfection of Horsemanship."

In it the author says: "Unlefs Nature, Art and Practice be conjoyned it will be impoffible to be a good rider; for Nature without Knowledge is blind, Knowledge without Nature falls fhort, and Practice without the former is imperfect."

Pair Guilty Of Assault

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two longshoremen charged following a waterfront scuffle with officers Sept. 14 were convicted Thursday on reduced charges of common assault. Charges against other longshoremen were dismissed.

Paul Henapyszen, 39, and Raymond Morris, 39, both charged with assaulting a police officer, were fined $200 each on a charge of common assault. Morris was fined an additional $25 for obstructing an RCMP corporal.

'BUG' PROBE OPENS DEC. 5

VANCOUVER (CP)—The royal commission into bugging of a labor union convention will open hearings Dec. 5 at 11 a.m. at Vancouver Courthouse, commission counsel George L. Murray announced Thursday.

The lawyer has started interviewing witnesses and preparing his material for the hearing.

CENTRAL SAANICH PROPOSAL

Museum Chosen for Centenary

Central Saanich council next week will be asked to approve as a centennial project a small museum with an enclosure outside for exhibition of old farm equipment.

Improvements to Centennial Park on Wallace Drive is included in the project.

The proposals were approved by a vote of eight to five at a meeting attended Wednesday by representatives of 13 organizations.

Opposing groups wanted all centennial funds to be spent on the park.

The museum project calls for the construction of a 30 by 40 fireproof concrete block structure at a cost of $6,000. The building would be used to house relics dealing with the early history of the Saanich peninsula.

A railed enclosure outside would be used to exhibit old farm machinery and plows used by the early pioneers.

The building would be erected on a site adjacent to the municipal hall or at Centennial park. The former is considered more desirable as it would be easier to safeguard it against vandals.

As the centennial fund is $10,000, it would leave $4,000 to carry out improvements to Centennial Park, one of the most widely used recreational areas on the north end of the peninsula.

Reeve Gordon Lee said he is satisfied.

'U.S. CAN WIN NUCLEAR TIFF'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials have stressed that deployment of a Soviet anti-missile system has not changed this basic fact in the balance of power: The United States still can destroy any enemy—even one that strikes first.

Emphasizing the offensive the officials reported Thursday that the U.S. still is maintaining a better than 3-to-1 edge in stockpiles of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

6 shaving edges on a continuous Super Stainless band... end blade handling forever.

The new Gillette Techmatic® Razor is here.

Six shaving edges...on a continuous Super Stainless steel razor band are coiled and sealed inside a cartridge–just like the film in a camera.

We've pried open a Techmatic cartridge (above) to show you the idea.

Snap the cartridge into the razor and you're ready to shave–no wires, no plugs, no batteries and, most important, no blades to touch.

Whenever you're ready for a new shaving edge, you just flip the lever on the back of your Techmatic razor and a new Super Stainless edge locks into place (each edge lasts about a week, so there are many weeks of shaving in a cartridge).

Then, just snap out the old cartridge and snap in the new.

So much for the gadgetry.

Now about the shave. Your own skin will tell you: it's the lightest touch in shaving. The razor band–made from the finest Gillette Super Stainless steel–is ⅓ the thickness of a regular razor blade. And shaves you with less pull.

There's much less chance of a nick.

Isn't that alone worth $3.95?

Gillette Techmatic Razor with cartridge...$3.95.

Extra Techmatic razor band cartridges...$1.49 each.

BREAK IN STRIKE?

Union Offers To Negotiate

MONTREAL (CP)—A possible break in the five-day Air Canada strike came today when the 5,200-member International Association of Machinists sent a telegram to the big airline offering to resume bargaining.

The telegram to Air Canada President Gordon McGregor asked the airline to advise union officials if it is willing "to resume genuine bargaining" in negotiations that have been stalemated since before the strike began Monday.

Mr. McGregor was not immediately available for comment.

In Ottawa, Mike Rygus, Canadian head of the machinists, said the union's 12-man negotiating team has been ordered back to Montreal to be on hand for possible acceptance of renewed talks by the airline.

Mike Pitchford, co-chairman of the union negotiating team, said here the telegram had been sent to Mr. McGregor because "we thought something was needed to break the deadlock. We thought we would make a last try."

The offer from the striking machinists followed their rejection Thursday of an offer from Mr. McGregor to resume negotiations in a bid to end the walkout which has grounded all 86 of Air Canada's planes.

Mr. McGregor made it clear, however, that the airline could not go beyond its agreement to accept the proposals of mediator Richard Geddes. Mr. Geddes suggested a wage increase of 18 per cent over a two - year period. This was turned down by the union after Air Canada had accepted the proposal "with extreme reluctance."

Machinists earnings were between a basic $1.58 and a top wage of $3.17 an hour before the start of the strike, which threw another 4,000 Air Canada employees out of work.

COMMENTS ON STAND

Mike Rygus, Canadian vice-president of the union, said in Ottawa after Mr. McGregor's new bid to end the strike that the union is not prepared to resume negotiations with the airline "on pre - determined terms."

Called by an Air Canada official who offered to resume contract negotiations on the basis of the company's last offer, Mr. Rygus said "a strike has never been settled by a bargaining session based solely on the management offer."

PM May Appoint Mediator

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of a government-appointed mediator to look into the strike tying up Air Canada is "under active consideration," Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons today.

He was replying to New Democratic Leader Douglas who asked whether the government felt it was time for this step in the dispute between the International Association of Machinists and the airline.

Mr. Douglas said the latest word from Air Canada was that it would not consider anything beyond the wage offer suggested by a private mediator in the dispute.

Michael Starr (PC—Ontario) said the government should consider some effort to get the parties back to the negotiating table because as long as they remained apart "nothing can be done."

Mr. Pearson said the government realized this and that was why consideration was being given to a mediator who might get the two parties together to discuss the wage dispute further.

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) asked whether non-scheduled carriers who might take up some of the passenger traffic grounded by the strike were holding off from any flights because of the possibility their aircraft might not be serviced.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said he would check with the air transport board on this situation.

Position of U.S. Seen Main Issue

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Italy proposed today that the United Nations General Assembly set up a special committee "to ascertain the real intentions of Peking" with regard to United Nations membership.

Italy said "the committee in question should be restricted in size and composed of persons of great eminence and long international experience."

Senator Attilio Piccioni, head of a special Italian delegation to the UN General Assembly, said his country's proposal is "calculated to speed up" the search for a suitable way to break the long UN deadlock over the seating of Communist China.

The committee should be instructed "to study the factual situation in China and draw the appropriate conclusions" for presentation to the fall 1967 session of the assembly.

"The issue here is the relationship between the world's biggest country and the United Nations," Piccioni said. "Extra-ordinary measures are justified."

It was obvious that UN member countries differ in their interpretations of the intentions of the Peking government.

"Peking's statements over the last decade can be interpreted in a variety of ways. We have been holding discussions here at the United Nations without any reliable data to evaluate the intentions of the Peking government.

There never has been any direct communication between Peking and the UN or any of its organs on this question.

IGNORES PLAN

Piccioni did not mention the possibility of seeking a solution based on the concept of seating Communist China without expelling the Chinese Nationalists—the so-called two-Chinas plan. This, however, has received wide discussion in private talks by Canada, Italy and others.

Following Italy in the debate, Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming of Nationalist China said his government "categorically rejects" the seating of "the so-called two Chinas" in the United Nations.

Cambodia, opening the debate, denounced efforts by Canada and Italy to find a method of seating both Chinas.

Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath told the General Assembly that "the two - Chinas theory timidly advanced recently cannot for a moment be considered seriously because there can be only one China, just as there can be only one Canada and only one Italy."

The Cambodian delegate said Formosa, the present seat of the Nationalist Chinese government, is historically a province of China.

"It is simply a question of asking who really represents the 700,000,000 people of China, one-quarter of the world's population," he added.

SPONSOR IN UN

Cambodia and Albania, commonly regarded as Peking's UN spokesman, are co-sponsoring, together with eight other countries, a motion to "restore the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China" in the UN.

There also is a U.S. motion before the assembly asking that the admission of Communist China, to which the United States remains firmly opposed, be declared an important question. This would mean that a two-thirds majority in the 121-member assembly would be required for approval.

The Cambodian ambassador described the behind-the-scenes discussions by Canada and Italy as "an immoral manoeuvre designed to legalize the intervention by the United States in the affairs of the Chinese people."

He said U.S. policy towards China is one of threats and provocation.

Dock Strike Continues

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking longshore foremen today rejected federal Labor Minister Nicholson's request that they remove pickets and return to work on the British Columbia waterfront.

The Ogden Point picket line established by the foremen's local, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union was 100 per cent effective Thursday.

Not a single longshoreman went through, ILWU local president Stan Ball said today.

The line was still in effect at press time but longshoremen employed in the docks continue to be passed through.

The strike which began at all major B.C. ports Thursday morning has idled all longshoremen and tied up 53 deep-sea ships.

Mr. Ball explained that the current contract between the ILWU and the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association contains a clause which says the union shall not be required to cross any picket lines.

The question of whether the foremen's strike is legal does not concern the union, said Mr. Ball.

"Whether any picket line which is established is legal or illegal is not up to us to decide," said Mr. Ball.

The foremen are a local (514) within the union but are exempted from the current union agreement.

STRIKE 'ILLEGAL'

Management says the foremen are not certified as a bargaining unit and therefore the strike is illegal.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister John Nicholson Thursday night asked the longshoremen's union to stop picketing.

In a wire to the ILW, the federal minister said:

"I would urge your earliest consideration of your position and your advice that picketing has ceased and work will be resumed at ports in B.C."

Trigger-Happy Lens Spoils Moon Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter II made its first try today at photographing lunar terrain where astronauts may land — but the pictures may have been double exposures.

The U.S. jet propulsion laboratory here said telemetry from the spacecraft indicates that the shutter clicked twice as many times as it should have in a 16-frame sequence.

The photographs, expected to show surface details as small as three feet across, would have been the first capable of pinpointing potential sites for a planned manned moon landing by U.S. space voyagers later in this decade.

A laboratory spokesman said it is possible that something is wrong with telemetry, and the shutter functioned properly. But if telemetry is correct, double exposures were likely.

AWAIT ANALYSIS

What actually happened won't be known until picture transmissions to a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, are analysed.

Orbiter's camera run was over a dry plain called the Sea of Tranquility.

There were to be two pictures on each of the 16 frames, one each from a high resolution lens and a low resolution lens.

The U.S. space agency had planned to release prints of one or more photos at Madrid several hours after the transmissions, with more released here tonight.

CHEERS, SHOUTS, SILENCE

House Storm Erupts When Dief Walks In

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker returned to the Commons today and received as warm a welcome from members of other parties as from his own.

A few Liberal back - bench members didn't join in with Prime Minister Pearson and other ministers in loud desk-thumping.

But then neither did some Conservatives, including Davie Fulton (Kamloops), Douglas Harkness (Calgary North) and Richard A. Bell (Carleton).

Mr. Diefenbaker acknowledged the applause, made a pointed reference to those Conservatives who didn't join in and then within seconds was locked in a heated exchange with External Affairs Minister Martin.

It was the Opposition leader's first day back at his Commons seat since the Conservative annual meeting which voted to hold a leadership convention before the end of next year.

After the applause, the Opposition Leader with a smile looked at the government benches and termed the welcome an "indication of unification."

Then, looking directly at the three front-bench Conservatives who had sat silently, referred to "three or four who adopted the attitude of sitting on their hands."

Mr. Diefenbaker then charged Mr. Martin with denying to Parliament information about a Canadian initiative aimed at seating Communist China at the United Nations.

The external affairs minister said news reports about the initiative were "speculative" and policy would be announced when decided.

At one point Mr. Martin's desk - mate, Prime Minister Pearson, touched his arm, apparently wanting him to sit down before he said any more. Then Mr. Martin, fumbling for words, put the Commons into laughter by referring to Mr. Diefenbaker as the prime minister.

Recovering, the external affairs minister said he had hoped Mr. Diefenbaker would have followed the "sporting qualities" shown by the Liberal applause.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the China issue involved the future of mankind and was not a matter of sport.

Ky Tries Once More To Stabilize Cabinet

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky today reshuffled his cabinet, created a new ministry of culture and split South Viet Nam's key economy ministry into separate portfolios for commerce and industry.

Reports of friction persisted after a stormy meeting of top leaders Thursday night and further cabinet changes were thought likely.

In the cabinet reshuffle, aimed at ending the six-week-old dispute in his regime, Ky named three new ministers.

Mainland, City Flights Operating

Regular daily flights between Victoria International Airport and Vancouver were put into operation today by B.C. Airlines.

The flights replace those normally run by strike-bound Air Canada.

An 11-passenger Grumman Mallard amphibian will run six flights daily in each direction.

In announcing the schedule, an airlines spokesman said authority had been received from the Air Transport Board and a commitment from its employees that workers on strike, members of the International Association of Machinists, will not picket the operation.

Flight times are:

Leave Pat Bay: 9 a.m.. 10:45, 12:15, 2 p.m., 5 and 6:30.

Leave Vancouver: 8:15 a.m., 10, 11:30, 1:15, 3:15 and 5.45.

Extra flights can be laid on if necessary. Tickets are obtainable at both air terminals.

10,000 Flee Italy Flooding

ROME (UPI) — Pounding rains and howling gales sent the Adriatic surging over the Po River Delta today, submerging thousands of acres of village-studded farmland in the wake of the worst flood disaster in Italian history.

The storm was so fierce it halted work of emergency crews trying to plug shattered delta seawalls.

Thousands of army troops and civilians, who evacuated an estimated 10,000 delta residents from their homes in the past 24 hours, retreated from the threatened region themselves. They left behind only a skeleton force of watchmen to sound an alarm if worse breaks occurred.

Johnson Home On Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got a go-ahead from his doctors today to check out of hospital Saturday and fly to his Texas ranch to recuperate.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the surgeons who operated on Johnson two days ago "are very satisfied with the president's recuperative progress."

MISSILES BOOST ATOM FORCE

China Can Hit U.S. Bases

PEKING (Reuters)—An English-language newssheet published here today said that China's nuclear missile was capable of hitting nearby United States forces and bases.

The first indication of the range of the missile used last month in China's fourth nuclear test came in a letter from China edited by American journalist Anna Louise Strong.

Miss Strong is generally believed to have closer contact with China's top leaders than any other foreigner.

In the latest issue of her newsletter she recalled that China's first test of a missile-borne nuclear bomb came during President Johnson's Asian tour and Manila conference "which were clearly designed to organize an Asian and Pacific alliance against China."

The article said "the bomb-missile notified Johnson that even if the Pentagon boasts that its stockpile can obliterate in minutes all that China has built in 17 years, it must now expect retaliation on its 7th Fleet and any nearby United States forces and bases."

Ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet patrol waters off the coasts of China and Southeast Asia.

Early Voyages His Inspiration

JOHN, PAT MANNING

Inspired by the early voyages of captains Cook and Vancouver, a Victorian has set out on a Centennial Cruise from England to the Inner Harbor.

John Manning and his wife Pat, sailing the 30-foot ship — Powindah — have embarked on a 12,000-mile cruise which will take them to the Mediterranean, down the coast of Spain, across the Atlantic to the West Indies, through the Panama Canal to the Galapagos Islands, Tahiti, Bora-Bora, Honolulu and then to Victoria.

A former Times reporter, John is no stranger to those who enjoy adventure articles. He hitch-hiked around the world eight years ago and wrote a column about it for the Times.

Upon his return he gave a series of lectures sponsored by this newspaper, on his travels and experiences.

John and Pat will be sharing their year-long adventure with Times readers and, starting Saturday, will tell of the dreams and travels leading up to the Centennial Cruise.

'MAGIC FORMULA DOESN'T EXIST'

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told the Commons Thursday that his recent travels behind the Iron Curtain convinced him there is "no magic formula" for the ending of the war in Viet Nam.

He was also convinced that the two Communist powers in Poland and Russia seek a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

The Polish and Soviet governments, he found, are as anxious as the Canadians and Italians about the possible proliferation of nuclear weapons in the world. The U.S.S.R. government leaders had assured him they were anxious to arrive at a non-proliferation treaty.

The minister reported to the Commons on his tour which took him to Poland and into Russia with a two-day stopover in Rome on his way back to Canada. He was abroad 12 days and flew 12,200 miles.

DETAILED TALKS

Mr. Martin said the talks he had with the Polish and Russian governments on Viet Nam were more detailed than on any other subject raised during their meetings. Ending hostilities in Viet Nam was of as much interest to the Communist government leaders as it is to Canada, he said.

But he put forward Canadian views in detail and on the basis of Canada's intimate knowledge of the United States and its policies and because of Canada's friendship for the U.S. He was able to explain why "certain over-simplified suggestions which have been put forward from time to time for ending the war were not the most realistic way of moving towards a settlement." He believed he had made this clear despite the views a country might hold on the merits of the arguments.

He said he referrred to the proposal for a unilateral decision to stop the bombing of North Viet Nam unconditionally and for good, without any indication as to what the other side might do in return to start towards de-escalation of the conflict or toward negotiations.

He said he put forward in "considerable detail" to the Soviet and Polish leaders Canadian views on the possible future rule of the Viet Nam commission and certain suggestions as to steps which might be taken to lead away from a military to a political settlement. Canada's views were listened to "most carefully."

Postmen Criticize Lack of CLC Help

MONTREAL(CP)—Postal workers in Montreal threatened to switch union affiliation Thursday night because of what they described as the lack of support from the central union body during the recent postal contract negotiations.

"We really got a bum deal and the Canadian Labour Congress was not there to help us," Marcel Perreault, a vice-president of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, told more than 2,000 members.

The members openly expressed dissatisfaction at their national negotiating committee and in the new contract which averted a proposed strike.

At the same meeting William Houle, president of the 2,300-member Montreal branch, called for the amalgamation of the two postal unions in the country into one to build "a stronger common front in future negotiations with the government."

He too voiced anger about the postal wage settlement but he advised against any "spontaneous strike."

Meanwhile Vancouver postal workers overwhelmingly endorsed the action of the national leaders in signing the contract. Leaders of the two postal union branches urged the 1,300 Vancouver members to forget any dissatisfaction with the nationally-negotiated agreement.

A statement that Regina letter carriers were unhappy with the settlement was criticized Thursday by T. R. Walker, persident of the Regina local of the letter carriers union.

Fred Budinski, former national vice-president of the union, said the executive had sold the members "down the river," but Mr. Walker said that opinion did not represent the general feeling of letter carriers in Regina.

City Considers Expropriation For Carpark Site

Victoria city council will consider expropriating land on Johnson Street to clear the way for another downtown parking building.

The decision was made Thursday by the city's finance committee after members were informed that negotiations to purchase the property are not going well.

A fourth city-owned parking building has been on the books for some time.

WITHIN SOCRED CAUCUS

Power Balance at Stake In Cariboo Byelection

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Mika

Premier Bennett has more compelling reasons than the obvious ones for being anxious to see Attorney-General Robert Bonner keep the Cariboo seat among the government benches.

The byelection will decide more than one seat. It will determine the balance of power within the Socred caucus and even the internal equilibrium of the cabinet.

A defeat will have major consequences on government policy thorughout the life of the 28th legislature and even could—stretched to the utmost possibility—threaten Mr. Bennett with a forced phase-out perhaps less messy but just as telling as the one undergone this week by John Diefenbaker.

It was a poignant coincidence that the premier beamed a direct appeal to the rural Cariboo voters from the Socred convention platform in downtown Vancouver some days ago. It revealed the fundamental principle of Mr. Bennett's power in such simple geo-political terms that most persons did not even notice its significance.

Grit Machine

First, the premier claimed a Liberal machine defeated Mr. Bonner in Vancouver on the parochial grounds that he favored the interior over his own city.

Then, shouting into the microphones to stress his words, he wondered "if they are going to use that argument in the Cariboo?

"Because he did not go along with a narrow Vancouver point of view, but had the broad provincial view, I give thanks today that he's going to represent an interior riding."

That is precisely the message that brought him to power in 1952 when the Socreds barely defeated the old-line parties which finally had undermined themselves with the rural riding majority after years of following the traditional rule of B.C. politics.

Tht rule was: the rural ridings are so diverse in geography and needs that you can play one off against the other but never ignore Vancouver because it is a close-knit community with a solid block of seats foresightedly sent to the government side.

Mr. Bennett, a maverick who was distrusted and detested by the Vancouver power elite, realized that every government seat won in Vancouver was a hostage to that city from the administration—unless it could be easily balanced by government strength in the hinterland.

The cardinal factor in each of his election campaigns since then has been the effort to offset Vancouver's importance to his majority—using rural antipathy as his slingshot against this Goliath.

Sometimes he's been successful and sometimes not and a relationship can be traced between this factor and the premier's attitude to that city, which has run the gamut now through fawning patronage to arrogant disdain.

Premier Bennett came close to paying the price last September for his past three years' arrogance toward Vancouver when the Socreds only took six out of the 12 city seats in the redistributed House.

That returned some leverage to the Vancouverites within his own party because in the next session he would lose majority control of the House without them. They could make it a 28-27 vote against the government, an uncomfortable situation but not hopeless because surely he could buy the loyalty of at least one.

Power Block

But, if Mr. Bonner loses Nov. 28, then one of those precious "country counters" goes and the government's contingent of Vancouver MLAs becomes a resurgent power block, holding the alternatives of a 33-22 win or 26-29 defeat over Mr. Bennett's head in the legislature.

Worse still, one of the remaining Vancouver ministers is close to becoming heir apparent. He is Education Minister Leslie Peterson, whose star has risen rapidly in the past year.

He not only has taken over as the cabinet spokesman in Vancouver (and therefore distributor of government favors there) but is next in line for the attorney-general's post — one of the traditional springboards to power in B.C.'s political history.

If Mr. Bonner is defeated, the Vancouver Socreds' bargaining power automatically increases and Mr. Peterson's ability to exert tremendous pressure within the cabinet does so too.

Would he, with perhaps a premiership to lose, be content to let the premier ignore his Vancouver constituents again?

Or would he use his new-found pressure to squeeze Mr. Bennett into line or — and this is the ultimate stretch of logic — squeeze him out as the real power behind the cabinet?

(It would be less messy than the Diefenbacle only because it would be done behind closed caucus doors and not on a convention floor.)

Only Questions

But these are only questions, not inevitable developments, and it may be that the premier's surprise decision — announced even as he made his appeal for a Cariboo victory — to elevate all three women Socreds to the cabinet is a hedge to box Mr. Peterson in.

As ministers without portfolio, they could be fired instantly without difficulty so their loyalty to the premier would be certain in any hidden power struggle.

At the same time, they could dilute Mr. Peterson's relative influence in the executive council and — perhaps most important — one of them is his own running mate, Mrs. Grace McCarthy, who is popular and brilliant in her own right, could keep Mr. Peterson in check within his own constituency organization.

Anyway, it's a fascinating theory and it would explain the mystery that dumbfounded even insiders at the Socred convention — why did he decide to appoint all three women members to the cabinet without a department among them to keep them busy?

ITALIAN VILLAGES EVACUATED

ROVIGO, Italy (AP) — A dozen villages in the southernmost Po Delta were evacuated during the night as the waters of the stormy Adriatic Sea backed up over thousands of acres of farmland. Dikes guarding dozens of other villages were threatened.

A total of 10,000 delta residents now have been taken to higher ground, but hundreds of stubborn villagers and truck farmers clung to their homes and lands despite official warnings.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — Cold Arctic air still dominates the central and northern regions of the province while mild Pacific air continues to flow up the coast and into the southern Interior. The major low-pressure area which has governed the weather over the past few days now lies west of the Oregon coast and will remain stationary in this area. As a result cloud and showers will occur along the coast and snowflurries in the central and northern Interior.

'NATO Stops Invasion By Soviet'

PARIS (Reuters) — Canadian parliamentarian Jean-Eudes Dube, unanimous choice as next president of the 15-country NATO parliamentarians conference, said today that if the Atlantic Alliance broke up, a military invasion by the Soviet Union would quickly follow.

Dube, Liberal MP for Restigouche - Madawaska, New Brunswick, said a Soviet threat still exists.

"It is no longer really military but takes the form of a relentless policy and a diplomatic fight backed up by the presence of a huge military force . . . ," he told a French luncheon club.

"It should be added that if the Atlantic Alliance were to break up, a military invasion would not be slow in following the diplomatic fight."

OFFICIAL SHOT FOR ACCIDENT

SEOUL (AP)—A North Korean stationmaster was executed by firing squad after 300 persons died in the country's worst-ever railway disaster, said reports reaching here today.

The disaster happened inside a tunnel on the electrified northeastern Korean railway line when a speeding train hit a high-voltage power cable.

The rail crash happened last March, but was only revealed when a North Korean railway worker defected recently, newspapers here said.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOV. 18, 1966—PAGE 9

Arthur Mayse

It has always fascinated me to watch professionals at work, and on Wednesday night, CBC earned my reluctant appreciation by taking us to a Vienna sound studio where men and women of this stamp were recording Wagnerian opera.

There were no costumes; in fact the session, if not precisely a shirt-sleeve affair, was about as informal as opera ever permits itself to become.

These were musicians and singers at work. Between takes they rehearsed, and in the breaks they relaxed, and talked shop, and enjoyed a zany gag.

Presented thus, they ceased to be foggy heroes enmeshed in the Twilight of the Gods and could be seen as people engaged in a task which by natural talent and developed skills, they were splendidly equipped to perform.

Witness conductor Georg Solti — shorn of wing collar and tails, ratty sweatshirt clinging to his ribs — tying himself into contortionist knots as he strove to bring the horns to a point of perfection that would satisfy his ear.

Take basic talent, add training, finish off with the dog-work of constant practice, and you have people like these: your true professionals.

★

There are those who insist on keeping the term "professional" within narrow and jealously-guarded limits. I prefer a much wider definition, and award the label to any man who does his job with style and finesse, and rather better than anyone else in sight could accomplish it.

It has been my fortune to observe many professionals in action. A few stand out even among their peers.

One was a reporter who, before his paper clipped his wings by making him an editor, covered city hall.

His name was John Graham, and of all good newsmen I've known, none turned out copy so clean of error.

Twenty-buck hat turned down fore and aft against the endless Vancouver rain, he would check in from his beat at the heel of the day.

Then, without visible pause, and with a din of keys that sounded like a stick being drawn rapidly along a picket fence, he would gun out his afternoon's take.

The finished product—six or more news stories, each a masterpiece of concise reporting—went into the city editor's basket letter-perfect.

Johnny Graham, if you care to accept my definition, was a professional. He had style, he had class, he was the best of the best in his line.

★

Others within my experience who rate the title are some doctors, including the cold precisionist who used to play the horses with me; a few judges and lawyers; and a high-rigger by the name of Olsen whose eerie skill was matched to an explosive temperament.

Add also a short-order cook with a master touch. His name was Harry, and his specialty was the hamburger. Harry did not merely make hamburgers, he created them.

His buns were unfailingly larger and fresher than any other joint offered. His lettuce was crisp, his slice of tomato neither too ripe nor too green, and his onions just a hint on the raw side. The meat he used was ground round of surpassing quality and flavor. He also made his own relish and mixed his own mustard.

Where Harry is titivating hasty palates these days, I cannot say. But no man better deserves a professional rating.

Somewhere, while I write these words, a guy in a hard hat is playing a tune on an ore truck's multiple gears as he pilots it down a breakneck sidehill. Somewhere else, a discerning and patient teacher is returning a problem kid by slow degrees to the human race.

There are others too many to mention. Some get paid by the hour, others by fee. Wherever they are, whatever they do, their performance is marked by an extra something, a special polish.

These are the professionals . . . and how I admire them!

THE WORLD IS HER BEAT . . . IT CAN BE NIGHTMARE

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova doesn't look the part but she is a pilgrim.

A pilgrim with a mission that involves all her time and energy, the resources of a worldwide organization, and nearly a million dollars a year.

Her mission is to feed, clothe and help the world's starving and miserable. She pursues it with a determination that is hardly concealed by a charming exterior.

●

And though it may seem like a lost cause, so far Dr. Lotta is succeeding.

Tiny and red-haired, she arrived in twon Thursday armed with masses of printed information about the organization she directs, the Unitarian Service Committee, for the Times Share with Asian Children Fund, and a burning desire to put her message across to Victorians.

She also brought a bubbling delight to be back in Victoria, a city she adores.

●

"If ever I retire — and I think I will die in the job," she said this morning, "I would like to live in B.C."

And in Victoria especially: "Even the taxis here . . ." she said with a smile in her quiet accented English, learned from her native Czehoslovakian.

"All over the world I am in such a rush. But when I come to Victoria the taxi driver even stops to make me confortable."

●

Victoria is the most western point of the cross-Canada trip she makes every year before Christmas, to help raise support for her beloved project.

A gruelling schedule and a two-page itinerary are all part of it, but thousands of miles from her Ottawa headquarters, she is still full of bounce and enthusiasm.

The only time her face lengthens and the bright smile fades is when she talks about the children, her children, hungry or homeless in Madras, India, or Mokpo, Korea.

Wherever she goes, "I just see these outstretched hands everywhere."

And Dr. Lotta's one nightmare is that she will have nothing to put in the hands.

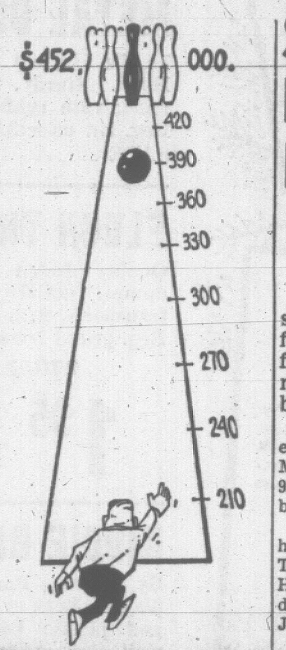
Before addressing a group of Victorians today at St. John Ambulance hall to start the Times Share With Asian Children Fund, she told of one Indian village she visited where the midwife is her great friend.

●

The woman told her villagers who had just received USC help, not to merely thank the kind doctor from across the sea.

"Dr. Lotta doesn't want thanks. She wants action."

FIRST TASK of USC director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova (at right) on arrival was to examine clothing donations collected by Victoria USC work group at headquarters, 1840 Blanshard. Good used clothing with proceeds of Times Share With Asian Children Fund will be sent overseas for distribution to needy through USC. Also checking garments are local organizers Mrs. Hazel Woodward (left), B.C. Women's Institute president, and Mrs. Jeanne Clark, local work group chairman. (Times photo.)



GAINING on $452,000 target, the United Appeal bowler was just $32,000 short of his goal at noon. Donations in the past 24 hours were boosted by a gift of $6,506 from Hudson's Bay Company employees. Total stands now at $420,300, which is 93 per cent of the objective, $452,000.

Student Fatally Injured

Motorbike Hits Bus After School Game

An Esquimalt high school senior on his way home from a basketball game was fatally injured on Thursday night when his small motorbike collided with a bus.

Dead is William Terry Bailey, eldest in the family of seven of Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Bailey, 938 Lyall St. He would have been 18 Saturday.

WILLIAM BAILEY
. . . head injuries

Police said the boy suffered head injuries in the accident at Tillicum and the Trans-Canada Highway at about 5:30 p.m. He died five hours later at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Grade 12 student at Esquimalt High School was southbound on Tillicum on his small motorbike and the bus, driven by Henry Olsen, 1212 Judge Place, turning left to the Trans-Canada Highway after travelling north on Tillicum.

FOURTH DEATH

It was the fourth fatality on Saanich roads this year and third accident with injuries at the intersection in the past week.

Young Bailey was headed home after playing in a senior basketball game at Mount View High School. He also played hockey and baseball for his high school and appeared headed for a career in accountancy, his principal said. He was described as a quiet and likeable student.

Surviving him besides his parents are four younger brothers and two sisters, David, 16; Jim, 15; Norman, 12; Eileen, 10; Jean, 8, and Gordon, 7. Mr. Bailey is a salesman.

Coroner Edmond St. Jorre said this morning he would wait until he had the results of a post-morten examination this afternoon and further discussion with the Saanich police before determining whether he will call an inquest.

Pool Vote Needs 60% In Favor

Colwood area residents go to the polls Saturday to say "yes" or "no" to building of an Olympic-style swimming pool.

The $220,000 pool is planned as a centennial project for Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, Glen Lake and Happy Valley.

A 60 per cent majority is required if the pool is to become a reality. It would be situated on the site of the former Colwood race track.

Some 25 metres long and 44-foot wide, the indoor pool is designed as the first step in building of a complex which would house a skating rink, curling rink, senior citizens' centre, bowling alley, rifle range and games court.

The pool would be housed in a 110-foot square wood and block building. The building would include an entrance foyer, office and meeting room, permanent spectator accommodation for 150 plus and bleacher seats for school swim meets.

1.3 MILLS

If built, it will add about 1.3 mills to the 1968 mill rate. Both federal and provincial governments will apply the centennial grant of $1 per capita towards the pool's cost.

Operating costs are estimated at no more than .5 of a mill per year.

Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. at the following elementary schools: Colwood, Glen Lake, Langford and Metchosin.

Youth Robbed Of $2.25 At Knife-Point

A 12-year-old boy told city police Thursday night he had been robbed at knife-point of $2.25.

Jerry Emerick, 1140 Queens Avenue, said a youth threatened him with a knife while he was walking in the 1000 block North Park.

He described his assailant as wearing a polka dot shirt and white hat with a black kerchief over his face.

The robber was cross-eyed, the boy told police. He fled in a late model white car.

William Hall, 65, of 924 Hillside, told police Thursday evening he had been robbed of $19 by a man he met at a downtown beverage room. He said he was struck and the money taken in the parking lot behind the beverage room.

Medal Office Open Late For Pioneers

Pioneers wishing to obtain Centennial Medals have until 5 p.m. Saturday to do so.

The Centennial office, No. 14, Centennial Square, will open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to enable staffers to process last-minute applications.

A "pioneer" is defined as one who was either born in Canada or was a resident of Canada prior to Jan. 1, 1892, and is now a resident of British Columbia.

Proof of residence in this country prior to 1892 must be presented with the application.

To date only 600 applications have been received, "a disappointing number," according to Centennial officials, who feel there must be many hundreds more who meet the qualifications.

The silver-finished medals with ribbons of muted navy blue will be presented at a special ceremony during the 1967 celebration year.

TWO MORE SHOWINGS PLANNED FOR 'MURDER IN CATHEDRAL'

Capacity audiences at every performance since the opening last Friday have forced the producers of Murder in the Cathedral to extend the run of the play.

Two extra performances will be given in Christ Church Cathedral Monday and Tuesday nights starting at 8. Doors will open at 7:15.

The unique and moving drama by one of this century's few great poet-playwrights tells the story of the murder of Archbishop Thomas Becket in Canterbury Cathedral.

Admission is free and there will be no advance tickets for the two extra performances. A collection is taken at conclusion of the play.

$3,050 Profit On Five Deals By Saanich 'Club'

A gross profit of $3,050 was made by a group of Saanich assesment department employees in five land deals in the last three years.

This was disclosed today when a public inquiry into the matter, requested by Saanich, started hearings.

First witness was Saanich assessor and lands commissioner Jack Lindsay, who was questioned for 75 minutes by inquiry counsel John C. Cowan before a recess.

Forty persons turned up to hear the inquiry including several members of council.

Mr. Lindsay said he has been municipal assessor since 1957 and lands commissioner since 1959.

The decision to form an investment club was made in August, 1963.

"I don't think any one person instigated it. It was something that grew over discussion. It was probably discussed over a period of years."

Asked why the club, later incorporated as Royal Oak Estates Limited, was formed, he replied:

"There are many such clubs in town. I think the idea was to contribute a few dollars per month and buy a piece of property to see if we could show a profit by buying and selling it."

The first property bought was a lot on Karen Crescent for $1,650. It was sold for $2,500 a few months later.

Mr. Lindsay said $1,650 was all that could be afforded for a property at that time. The money was put up by Michael Allen and repaid in instalments.

He said no records were checked for the appraisal and this was not taken into consideration. He did admit, however, that there would be such a record for this lot.

GENERAL BOOST

Asked about the increase in value, Mr. Lindsay said there was a "general increase in land values."

The second property on Hillcrest in Gordon Head was bought for $2,150 and placed in the name of a Mrs. Simpson, identified only as a sister of one of the investment group.

"Why her name?" asked Mr. Cowan.

"There was quite a bit of razzing for the first two persons buying and it was decided possibly this was our own business and put in Mrs. Simpson's name for that reason."

Mr. Lindsay said the property was advertised in the newspaper. As in other cases, a "for sale" sign was later put on the property and it sold for $2,500 10 months later.

A property on Teakwood, bought from a contractor for $2,500 in October, 1964, was sold the following January to private persons for $2,850.

After this, it was decided to incorporate Royal Oak Estates Limited.

"At this time we decided that this property in individual names was a sloppy way to do business.

"We had made a few dollars in three transactions and thought we should incorporate ourselves as a company. It was a little more formal than previously."

At this point, official records from the registrar of companies office were introduced listing the names of shareholders in the company who were also employed in the Saanich assessment department and the objects of the company, which included dealing in real property.

A lot on Leyns was bought in February, 1965, for $3,300 and sold in June for $3,700. A property on Fowler was bought in July for $1,500 and sold for $2,600 last September.

Mr. Lindsay, under questioning, also admitted carrying out appraisals for private properties in his own time.

"And you receive a fee?"

"For some of them."

"Is this a common practice?"

ACCEPTED

"I think it is accepted throughout the province. There are some who do it."

"Do you think anything is wrong?"

"No, it was done on my own time."

He replied that some mining shares were bought and later disposed. The group "lost a bit of money" on them.

Lawyer for Mr. Lindsay, Dermod Owen-Flood, asked him if he had ever used information gained in the course of official duties for private advantage.

"No," replied Mr. Lindsay.

Municipal engineer Neville Life testified that no strategic information would have been available to municipal employees on any of the five properties.

Police Move to Stop Chinese Harassment

SWEDISH MISSION COMING FOR TALKS

Eight members of a 21-man Swedish mission touring Canada were expected to arrive here late today for brief talks with six cabinet ministers.

Itinerary planning was upset by the Air Canada machinists' strike, but the party was understood to have arranged for a charter flight into the inner harbor from Vancouver.

Student Offers To Face Accuser

Police and school authorities today are taking steps to stop the harassment of a Chinese storekeeper by a small group of students from Victoria Senior Secondary School.

Duncan Lorimer, school principal, said he has the name of a youth who allegedly kicked the storekeeper's wife a few weeks ago.

He said the youth has denied the accusation and has offered to confront his accuser.

Mr. Lorimer said the matter is being investigated further and action will be taken if it is justified.

Lim Quan complained to the Times Thursday that his store at Stanley and Begbie is the scene of hooliganism during the school lunch-hour every day.

He said students have broken bottles outside the door, stolen ice cream and confectionery, used profanity and given him "phoney" money.

'NO MORE TROUBLE'

Mr. Quan said this morning that "I want no more trouble. I want no more publicity. I want all that to be in the past. I hope the principal will get after these boys causing the trouble."

But he said he will continue to close his store during the lunch-hour and open up only for regular adult customers.

CONFIRMED

A former owner of the store, Ronald Galliford, confirmed Mr. Quan's complaints.

He said that one reason he sold out was "the trouble these kids caused at the lunch hour. I didn't want to put up with it any more. They made themselves such a general nuisance that my regular customers didn't want to come in."

And Mrs. L. Westendale, who with her husband operates a store at 1198 Yates, said she too will continue to close during the school's lunch-hour.

She started to close at noon last December because of "a dozen or so of the rough element who came down here from the school and used this place as a smoker."

DESTROYED IMAGE

Mr. Lorimer said Thursday's report in the Times about the hooliganism "destroyed the image we are trying to build up for the school."

He said most of the trouble appears to be caused by one youth and "there is no doubt about it, he is one of ours."

But, he added, at most only about 12 students out of the 1,380 at Victoria senior secondary school are involved.

Mr. Lorimer said that if anyone has complaints about student behavior they should immediately contact him.

"We will take action against any culprits. We don't want the school to get a bad name."

Deputy Police Chief Ray Maitland said this morning the first indication police had of trouble was the story in the Times.

"Now that it has been brought to our attention we will take appropriate action."

Police patrolling of the area appeared to be increased this morning. One policeman checked a Times photographer who parked near Mr. Quan's store.

FIRST RALLY FOR PATROLS SATURDAY

The first school patrol rally ever held in Victoria will take place Saturday morning at the Royal Theatre.

About 1,300 students are expected to attend. The program will feature a demonstration by a school patrol, a short cartoon and a movie.

In addition, the gathering will be addressed by A. J. Longmore, assistant school superintendent; Stan Britt, president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club which sponsors the patrols, and a civic official.

Theatre doors will be open at 9:20 and the program will start 10 minutes later.

FARMERS' PLAN

Buy Licences, Get Insurance

The provincial government should provide a "free" auto insurance policy with each set of licence plates it sells, B.C. farmers told the cabinet Thursday.

The plan could be financed by an increase in the present 14-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax, an eight-man delegation from the B.C. Farm Advisory Board said in its annual meeting with the ministers.

The board represents the 130 farmers institutes throughout B.C. established at the turn of the century.

AUTOMATIC

Brian Hoole, 5675 Oldfield, spokesman for the delegation told reporters the board feels that a four-cent increase in the tax would finance the plan so that no motorist would have to pay premiums and all would be covered automatically.

"You would be insured the minute you paid for your licence plates," he said.

The board's brief said farmers are concerned with "rising auto insurance costs and the existence of uninsured drivers.

"We propose that the B.C. government provide universal auto insurance fianced by a gasoline tax."

NO CHANGE

The delegation also asked the government "to resist any attempt to change the present milk price formula."

Mr. Hoole said farmers anticipate an effort by dairies to head off increases in the price they will have to pay farmers for milk next year under the present formula Agriculture Minister Frank Richter has promised he would stand by the formula.

TO PROCESSORS

Vancouver Island milk producers now receiving $5.94 for a 10-gallon can of milk are to be paid $7 next May under the formula.

Mr. Hoole said a recent increase of four cents a quart in the retail price of milk all went to the processors—"The poor producers didn't get a cent"—and it was expected that dairies would try to prevent the wholesale price increase as a result.

The board said it wanted more work by the highways department, weed-spraying along the 729-mile length of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and new expropriation laws.

PRICE PROBE

The delegation sought a government investigation of fertilizer prices, abolition of school taxes on farm land and government importation of new types of farm machinery from overseas for demonstration here.

In addition to the complaints, the board patted the cabinet on the back, praising the B.C. Medical Plan, special compensation grants to tree-fruit growers hit by frost and the decision to "use the Stellako River . . . for log driving."

Mr. Hoole said this year's 1½-hour meeting with cabinet was "one of the most co-operative" in the board's history.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — November soybean futures prices rallied sharply today just before expiration of trading in the contract and closed with gains ranging from 3 to 3½ cants.

Final action in the contract was erratic with longs and shorts evening up contracts. Deferred soybean contracts also were higher with shorts uneasy over continued light receipts and small available stocks in Chicago.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading was dull in all classes today with prices recording minor fluctuations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

There was some activity in oilseeds where rallying at Chicago contributed to an upturn in rapeseed prices.

Flax was steady with hedging sales. Feed grains recorded light trade and prices were steady on a few domestic sales.

Rye moved in a narrow range and reflected the influence of the Chicago market.

Lakehead prices for IWA, Class Two and Domestic wheat were down ⅛ cent.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Losses Registered In New York Trading

Fairly sharp loss was registered on the New York market today with key stocks down from fractions to two or three points.

Glamor stocks had somewhat wider losses, but some recovered from the severe battering they took Thursday.

Industrials continued to lose support on the Toronto exchange.

AT TORONTO among issues to show the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York. They included Inco down ⅞ to 88⅝, Stelco ½ to 19⅞, Distillers ⅜ to 33⅛ and Massey-Ferguson ¼ to 22.

Other losses went to Admiral Corp. off 4⅞ to 34⅛ on only 300 shares and Falconbridge ¾ to 85¼.

Western oils backed off. Dome was down ⅜ to 50⅝, Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¾ and Banff ⅛ to 14⅞.

AT NEW YORK, Fairchild Camera and Motorola, both big losers Thursday, dropped about 4 points more while Texas Instruments rebounded more than a point from its loss of 15⅝ Thursday.

A three-point loss by Du Pont dragged at the averages as did losses of a point or so by Eastman Dodak and Kennecott.

A block of 143,000 shares of Tidewater Oil at 72⅞, up 4½, seemed to ensure it the rank of most active stock.

General Motors lost ⅞ at 70 on 14,800 shares.

AT MONTREAL stocks were lower today. Trading was light.

Dominion Textile lost 1⅜ points to 25 and Denison Mines was lower by 1¼ at 59. Interprovincial Pipe Line was off one point a t81 and Inco ex-dividend 1⅛ at 88¾. Brinco lost 15 cents at $4.20 and Imperial Tobacco ⅝ at 13⅛. Distillers-Seagrams, Loeb and Massey-Ferguson were all off ½. MacMillan-Bloedel and Steel of Canada each eased ⅜.

AT LONDON the market presented an uninspiring picture today with equities showing small price changes although gains were in the majority.

Gilts were dull, and dollar stocks also were easier in line with Wall Street trading.

International Nickel and Noranda shed 1½ points and most other Canadians were down about a point. Canadian Husky and Hollinger, however, were firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was dull after the nine-month figures from the operating companies were announced.

AT VANCOUVER there was scattered strength in the industrials in light trade before noon today.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 328,616 shares.

Western Broadcasting added .50 to a new ihgh of $13, while A-1 Steel A was up .75 to $8.25.

MacKay Cormack B was up .10 to $1.60.

In other industrials trade Massey was off .37 to $21.75, and PC Terminals lost $1.75 to $23.25.

In the mines Cascade was up eight cents to $1.48 and Highland Bell was up .25 to $7.25. New Imperial put on a .05 to $1.70 and Silbak was up .10 to .29.

Among the losers Atlas lost .20 to $2.40 and Brenda was down .10 to $8.10. Highmont slipped .08 to $1.72.

Canada Exports Show Big Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Winters says he expects Canadian exports will top the $10,000,000,000 mark this year for the first time.

Introducing his department's spending estimates in the Commons, he said exports are running 20 per cent. above last year's pace and the outlook continues to be good.

Jump In Permits

New petroleum and natural gas permits issued by the mines and petroleum resources department last month totalled 375, a net increase of 20 over September.

There were three new leases for petroleum exploration acreage and none for natural gas.

One natural gas licence was issued, compared with two last month.

SELECTED APARTMENT INVESTMENTS

This is the time of the year when many apartments offered for sale stress the benefits of taxation advantages. At Mears & Whyte Oak Bay Realty we are fully aware of these advantages, we are also aware that of far greater importance is the real value of the investment, its rate of return stability of income and future potential, to mention only a few of the prime factors. IN UN ASSEMBLY

Italy Proposes China Seat Study

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Italy proposed today that the United Nations General Assembly set up a special committee "to ascertain the real intentions of Peking" with regard to United Nations membership.

Italy said "the committee in question should be restricted in size and composed of persons of great eminence and long international experience."

Senator Attilio Piccioni, head of a special Italian delegation to the UN General Assembly, said his country's proposal is "calculated to speed up" the search for a suitable way to break the long UN deadlock over the seating of Communist China.

The committee should be instructed "to study the factual situation in China and draw the appropriate conclusions" for presentation to the fall 1967 session of the assembly.

"The issue here is the relationship between the world's biggest country and the United Nations," Piccioni said. "Extra-ordinary measures are justified."

It was obvious that UN member countries differ in their interpretations of the intentions of the Peking government.

"Peking's statements over the last decade can be interpreted in a variety of ways. We have been holding discussions here at the United Nations without any reliable data to evaluate the intentions of the Peking government.

There never has been any direct communication between Peking and the UN or any of its organs on this question.

IGNORES PLAN

Piccioni did not mention the possibility of seeking a solution based on the concept of seating Communist China without expelling the Chinese Nationalists—the so-called two-Chinas plan. This, however, has received wide discussion in private talks by Canada, Italy and others.

Following Italy in the debate, Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming of Nationalist China said his government "categorically rejects" the seating of "the so-called two Chinas" in the United Nations.

Cambodia, opening the debate, denounced efforts by Canada and Italy to find a method of seating both Chinas.

Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath told the General Assembly that "the two-Chinas theory timidly advanced recently cannot for a moment be considered seriously because there can be only one China, just as there can be only one Canada and only one Italy."

The Cambodian delegate said Formosa, the present seat of the Nationalist Chinese government, is historically a province of China.

"It is simply a question of asking who really represents the 700,000,000 people of China, one-quarter of the world's population," he added.

SPONSOR IN UN

Cambodia and Albania, commonly regarded as Peking's UN spokesman, are co-sponsoring, together with eight other countries, a motion to "restore the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China" in the UN.

There also is a U.S. motion before the assembly asking that the admission of Communist China, to which the United States remains firmly opposed, be declared an important question. This would mean that a two-thirds majority in the 121-member assembly would be required for approval.

The Cambodian ambassador described the behind-the-scenes discussions by Canada and Italy as "an immoral manoeuvre designed to legalize the intervention by the United States in the affairs of the Chinese people."

He said U.S. policy towards China is one of threats and provocation.

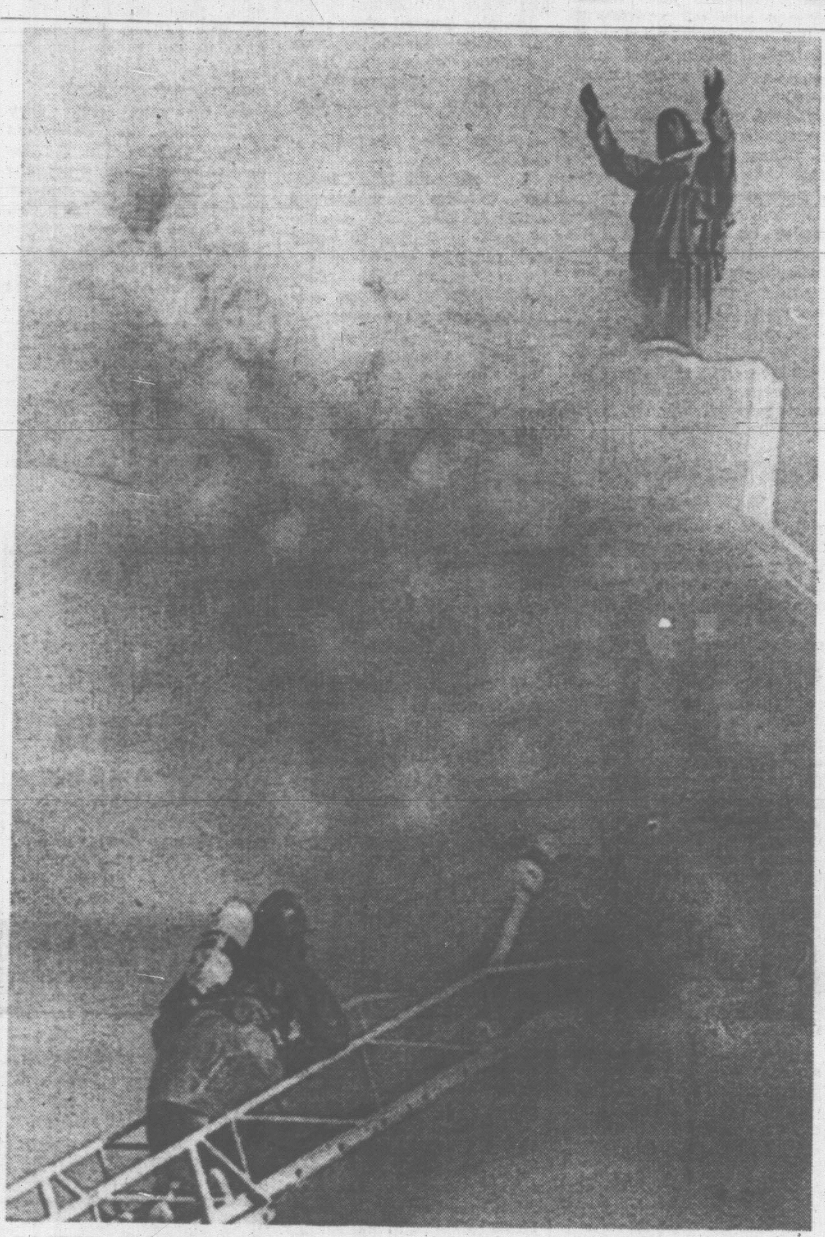
Meredith was wounded by shotgun blasts as he trudged along United States Highway 51 South on a freedom march from Memphis to Jackson, Miss.

Air Strike Break Seen as Talks Set



SACRED HEART CHURCH in Edmonton was destroyed by fire Thursday. Firemen battling the blaze used the statue atop the church to guide jets of water through the dense smoke in an attempt to save part of the building. Small boy is being questioned by police in regard to blaze.

Airline Accepts Offer of Union

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Canada today agreed to take advantage of an offer by the International Association of Machinists "to resume genuine bargaining" in an attempt to end the strike—in its sixth day today—which has grounded all 86 of the big airline's planes.

A telegram to Air Canada President Gordon McGregor asked the airline to advise union officials if it is willing "to resume genuine bargaining" in negotiations that have been stalemated since before the strike began Monday.

In Ottawa, Mike Rygus, Canadian head of the machinists, said the union's 12-man negotiating team has been ordered back to Montreal to be on hand for renewal of talks.

Mike Pitchford, co-chairman of the union negotiating team, said here the telegram had been sent to Mr. McGregor because "we thought something was needed to break the deadlock. We thought we would make a last try."

The offer from the striking machinists followed their rejection Thursday of an offer from Mr. McGregor to resume negotiations in a bid to end the walkout which has grounded all 86 of Air Canada's planes.

Mr. McGregor made it clear, however, that the airline could not go beyond its agreement to accept the proposals of mediator Richard Geddes. Mr. Geddes suggested a wage increase of 18 per cent over a two-year period. This was turned down by the union after Air Canada had accepted the proposal "with extreme reluctance."

Machinists earnings were between a basic $1.58 and a top wage of $3.17 an hour before the start of the strike, which threw another 4,000 Air Canada employees out of work.

COMMENTS ON STAND

Mr. Rygus, Canadian vice-president of the union, said in Ottawa after Mr. McGregor's new bid to end the strike that the union is not prepared to resume negotiations with the airline "on pre-determined terms."

Called by an Air Canada official who offered to resume contract negotiations on the basis of the company's last offer, Mr. Rygus said "a strike has never been settled by a bargaining session based solely on the management offer."

PM May Appoint Mediator

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of a government-appointed mediator to look into the strike tying up Air Canada is "under active consideration," Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons today.

He was replying to New Democratic Leader Douglas who asked whether the government felt it was time for this step in the dispute between the International Association of Machinists and the airline.

Mr. Douglas said the latest word from Air Canada was that it would not consider anything beyond the wage offer suggested by a private mediator in the dispute.

Michael Starr (PC—Ontario) said the government should consider some effort to get the parties back to the negotiating table because as long as they remained apart "nothing can be done."

Mr. Pearson said the government realized this and that was why consideration was being given to a mediator who might get the two parties together to discuss the wage dispute further.

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) asked whether non-scheduled carriers who might take up some of the passenger traffic grounded by the strike were holding off from any flights because of the possibility their aircraft might not be serviced.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said he would check with the air transport board on this situation.

Trigger-Happy Lens Spoils Moon Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lunar Orbiter II made its first try today at photographing lunar terrain where astronauts may land — but the pictures may have been double exposures.

The U.S. jet propulsion laboratory here said telemetry from the spacecraft indicates that the shutter clicked twice as many times as it should have in a 16-frame sequence.

The photographs, expected to show surface details as small as three feet across, would have been the first capable of pinpointing potential sites for a planned manned moon landing by U.S. space voyagers later in this decade.

A laboratory spokesman said it is possible that something is wrong with telemetry, and the shutter functioned properly. But if telemetry is correct, double exposures were likely.

What actually happened won't be known until picture transmissions to a tracking station at Madrid, Spain, are analysed.

Orbiter's camera run was over a dry plain called the Sea of Tranquility.

There were to be two pictures on each of the 16 frames, one each from a high resolution lens and a low resolution lens.

The U.S. space agency had planned to release prints of one or more photos at Madrid several hours after the transmissions, with more released here tonight.

Dock Strike Continues

VANCOUVER (CP) — Striking longshore foremen today rejected federal Labor Minister Nicholson's request that they remove pickets and return to work on the British Columbia waterfront.

The Ogden Point picket line established by the foremen's local, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union was 100 per cent effective Thursday.

Not a single longshoreman went through, ILWU local president Stan Ball said today.

The line was still in effect at press time but other men employed in the docks continue to be passed through.

The strike which began at all major B.C. ports Thursday morning has idled all longshoremen and tied up 53 deep-sea ships.

Mr. Ball explained that the current contract between the ILWU and the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association contains a clause which says the union shall not be required to cross any picket lines.

The question of whether the foremen's strike is legal does not concern the union, said Mr. Ball.

"Whether any picket line which is established is legal or illegal is not up to us to decide," said Mr. Ball.

The foremen are a local (514)

House Storm Erupts When Dief Walks In

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker returned to the Commons today and received as warm a welcome from members of other parties as from his own.

A few Liberal back-bench members didn't join in with Prime Minister Pearson and other ministers in loud desk-thumping.

But then neither did some Conservatives, including Davie Fulton (Kamloops), Douglas Harkness (Calgary North) and Richard A. Bell (Carleton).

Mr. Diefenbaker acknowledged the applause, made a pointed reference to those Conservatives who didn't join in and then within seconds was locked in a heated exchange with External Affairs Minister Martin.

It was the Opposition leader's first day back at his Commons seat since the Conservative annual meeting which voted to hold a leadership convention before the end of next year.

After the applause, the Opposition Leader with a smile looked at the government benches and termed the welcome an "indication of unification."

Then, looking directly at the three front-bench Conservatives who had sat silently, referred to "three or four who adopted the attitude of sitting on their hands."

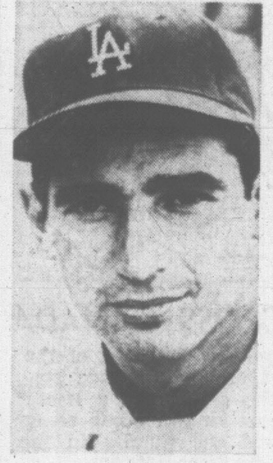
Mr. Diefenbaker then charged Mr. Martin with denying to Parliament information about a Canadian initiative aimed at seating Communist China at the United Nations.

The external affairs minister said news reports about the initiative were "speculative" and policy would be announced when decided.

At one point Mr. Martin's desk-mate, Prime Minister Pearson, touched his arm, apparently wanting him to sit down before he said any more. Then Mr. Martin, fumbling for words, put the Commons into laughter by referring to Mr. Diefenbaker as the prime minister.

Recovering, the external affairs minister said he had hoped Mr. Diefenbaker would have followed the "sporting qualities" shown by the Liberal applause.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the China issue involved the future of mankind and was not a matter of sport.



BASEBALL has lost its greatest pitcher. It was confirmed today by Buzzie Bavasi, vice-president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, that Sandy Koufax, three-time winner of the Cy Young award as the greatest pitcher in baseball, had confirmed in a telephone call on Thursday night he will retire. Koufax is leaving the game because of arthritis in his left arm.

Nazi Amnesty?

MUNICH (CP) — A general amnesty for all Nazi criminals was suggested today by a leader of the Bavarian branch of the Christian Democratic Party.

A district chairman of the Christian Social Union, Erwin Stein, told the ultra-rightist Munich weekly Deutsche National-Zeitung he will fight for such an amnesty if he is elected to the Bavarian state parliament in the state elections Sunday.

Mainland, City Flights Operating

Regular daily flights between Victoria International Airport and Vancouver were put into operation today by B.C. Airlines.

The flights replace those normally run by strike-bound Air Canada.

An 11-passenger Grumman Mallard amphibian will run six flights daily in each direction.

In announcing the schedule, an airlines spokesman said authority had been received from the Air Transport Board and a commitment from its employees that workers on strike, members of the International Association of Machinists, will not picket the operation.

Flight times are:

Leave Pat Bay: 9 a.m.; 10:45, 12:15, 2 p.m., 5 and 6:30.

Leave Vancouver: 8:15 a.m., 10, 11:30, 1:15, 3:15 and 5.45.

Extra flights can be laid on if necessary. Tickets are obtainable at both air terminals.

TIMES TO CARRY SERIES ON ADVENTURE

Early Voyages His Inspiration

JOHN, PAT MANNING

Inspired by the early voyages of captains Cook and Vancouver, a Victorian has set out on a Centennial Cruise from England to the Inner Harbor.

John Manning and his wife Pat, sailing the 30-foot ship — Powindah — have embarked on a 12,000-mile cruise which will take them through Europe's inland waterways to the Mediterranean, across the Atlantic to the West Indies, through the Panama Canal to the Galapagos Islands, Tahiti, Bora-Bora, Honolulu and then to Victoria.

A former Times reporter, John is no stranger to those who enjoy adventure articles. He hitch-hiked around the world eight years ago and wrote a column about it for the Times.

Upon his return he gave a series of lectures sponsored by this newspaper, on his travels and experiences.

John and Pat will be sharing their year-long adventure with Times readers and, starting Saturday, will tell of the dreams and travels leading up to the Centennial Cruise.

MISSILES BOOST ATOM FORCE

China Can Hit U.S. Bases

PEKING, (Reuters)—An English-language newssheet published here today said that China's nuclear missile was capable of hitting nearby United States forces and bases.

The first indication of the range of the missile used last month in China's fourth nuclear test came in a letter from China edited by American journalist Anna Louise Strong.

Miss Strong is generally believed to have closer contact with China's top leaders than any other foreigner.

In the latest issue of her newsletter she recalled that China's first test of a missile-borne nuclear bomb came during President Johnson's Asian tour and Manila conference "which were clearly designed to organize an Asian and Pacific alliance against China."

The article said "the bomb-missile notified Johnson that even if the Pentagon boasts that its stockpile can obliterate in minutes all that China has built in 17 years, it must now expect retaliation on its 7th Fleet and any nearby United States forces and bases."

Ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet patrol waters off the coasts of China and Southeast Asia.

STRIKE 'ILLEGAL'

Management says the foremen are not certified as a bargaining unit and therefore the strike is illegal.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister John Nicholson Thursday night asked the longshoremen's union to stop picketing.

In a wire to the ILW, the federal minister said:

"I would urge your earliest consideration of your position and your advice that picketing has ceased and work will be resumed at ports in B.C."

10,000 Flee Italy Flooding

ROME (UPI) — Pounding rains and howling gales sent the Adriatic surging over the Po River Delta today, submerging thousands of acres of village-studded farmland in the wake of the worst flood disaster in Italian history.

The storm was so fierce it halted work of emergency crews trying to plug shattered delta seawalls.

Thousands of army troops and civilians, who evacuated an estimated 10,000 delta residents from their homes in the past 24 hours, retreated from the threatened region themselves. They left behind only a skeleton force of watchmen to sound an alarm if worse breaks occurred.

City Considers Expropriation For Carpark Site

Victoria city council will consider expropriating land on Johnson Street to clear the way for another downtown parking building.

The decision was made Thursday by the city's finance committee after members were informed that negotiations to purchase the property are not going well.

A fourth city-owned parking building has been on the books for some time.

Johnson Home On Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got a go-ahead from his doctors today to check out of hospital Saturday and fly to his Texas ranch to recuperate.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the surgeons who operated on Johnson two days ago "are very satisfied with the president's recuperative progress."

Power Balance at Stake In Cariboo Byelection

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has more compelling reasons than the obvious ones for being anxious to see Attorney-General Robert Bonner keep the Cariboo seat among the government benches.

The byelection will decide more than one seat. It will determine the balance of power within the Socred caucus and even the internal equilibrium of the cabinet.

Mika

A defeat will have major consequences on government policy thorughout the life of the 28th legislature and even could—stretched to the utmost possibility—threaten Mr. Bennett with a forced phase-out perhaps less messy but just as telling as the one undergone this week by John Diefenbaker.

It was a poignant coincidence that the premier beamed a direct appeal to the rural Cariboo voters from the Socred convention platform in downtown Vancouver some days ago. It revealed the fundamental principle of Mr. Bennett's power in such simple geo-political terms that most persons did not even notice its significance.

Grit Machine

First, the premier claimed a Liberal machine defeated Mr. Bonner in Vancouver on the parochial grounds that he favored the interior over his own city.

Then, shouting into the microphones to stress his words, he wondered "if they are going to use that argument in the Cariboo?

"Because he did not go along with a narrow Vancouver point of view, but had the broad provincial view, I give thanks today that he's going to represent an interior riding."

That is precisely the message that brought him to power in 1952 when the Socreds barely defeated the old-line parties which finally had undermined themselves with the rural riding majority after years of following the traditional rule of B.C. politics.

Tht rule was: the rural ridings are so diverse in geography and needs that you can play one off against the other but never ignore Vancouver because it is a close-knit community with a solid block of seats foresightedly sent to the government side.

Mr. Bennett, a maverick who was distrusted and detested by the Vancouver power elite, realized that every government seat won in Vancouver was a hostage to that city from the administration—unless it could be easily balanced by government strength in the hinterland.

The cardinal factor in each of his election campaigns since then has been the effort to offset Vancouver's importance to his majority—using rural antipathy as his slingshot against this Goliath.

Sometimes he's been successful and sometimes not and a relationship can be traced between this factor and the premier's attitude to that city, which has run the gamut now through fawning patronage to arrogant disdain.

Premier Bennett came close to paying the price last September for his past three years' arrogance toward Vancouver when the Socreds only took six out of the 12 city seats in the redistributed House.

That returned some leverage to the Vancouverites within his own party because in the next session he would lose majority control of the House without them. They could make it a 28-27 vote against the government, an uncomfortable situation but not hopeless because surely he could buy the loyalty of at least one.

Power Block

But, if Mr. Bonner loses Nov. 28, then one of those precious "country counters" goes and the government's contingent of Vancouver MLAs becomes a resurgent power block, holding the alternatives of a 33-22 win or 26-29 defeat over Mr. Bennett's head in the legislature.

Worse still, one of the remaining Vancouver ministers is close to becoming heir apparent. He is Education Minister Leslie Peterson, whose star has risen rapidly in the past year.

He not only has taken over as the cabinet spokesman in Vancouver (and therefore distributor of government favors there) but is next in line for the attorney-general's post — one of the traditional springboards to power in B.C.'s political history.

If Mr. Bonner is defeated, the Vancouver Socreds' bargaining power automatically increases and Mr. Peterson's ability to exert tremendous pressure within the cabinet does so too.

Would he, with perhaps a premiership to lose, be content to let the premier ignore his Vancouver constituents again?

Or would he use his newfound pressure to squeeze Mr. Bennett into line or — and this is the ultimate stretch of logic — squeeze him out as the real power behind the cabinet?

(It would be less messy than the Diefenbacle only because it would be done behind closed caucus doors and not on a convention floor.)

Only Questions

But these are only questions, not inevitable developments, and it may be that the premier's surprise decision — announced eyer as he made his appeal for a Cariboo victory — to elevate all three women Socreds to the cabinet is a hedge to box Mr. Peterson in.

As ministers without portfolio, they could be fired instantly without difficulty so their loyalty to the premier would be certain in any hidden power struggle.

At the same time, they could dilute Mr. Peterson's relative influence in the executive council and — perhaps most important — one of them is his own running mate. Mrs. Grace McCarthy, who is popular and brilliant in her own right, could keep Mr. Peterson in check within his own constituency organization.

Anyway, it's a fascinating theory and it would explain the mystery that dumbfounded even insiders at the Socred convention — why did he decide to appoint all three women members to the cabinet without a department among them to keep them busy?

Peace Steps Outlined

MANILA (CP) — A South Vietnamese Buddhist leader, Thich Nhat Hanh, said in an interview published today an end to the bombing of Viet Nam and withdrawal of U.S. troops "to a positoin of self-defence" were necessary steps before a stabilized government could be formed in South Viet Nam.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — Cold Arctic air still dominates the central and northern regions of the province while mild Pacific air continues to flow up the coast and into the southern Interior. The major low-pressure area which has governed the weather over the past few days now lies west of the Oregon coast and will remain stationary in this area. As a result cloud and showers will occur along the coast and snowflurries in the central and northern Interior.

'NATO Stops Invasion By Soviet'

PARIS (Reuters) — Canadian parliamentarian Jean-Eudes Dube, unanimous choice as next president of the 15-country NATO parliamentarians conference, said today that if the Atlantic Alliance broke up, a military invasion by the Soviet Union would quickly follow.

Dube, Liberal MP for Restigouche - Madawaska, New Brunswick, said a Soviet threat still exists.

"It is no longer really military but takes the form of a relentless policy and a diplomatic fight backed up by the presence of a huge military force . . . ," he told a French luncheon club.

"It should be added that if the Atlantic Alliance were to break up, a military invasion would not be slow in following the diplomatic fight."

OFFICIAL SHOT FOR ACCIDENT

SEOUL (AP)—A North Korean stationmaster was executed by firing squad after 300 persons died in the country's worst-ever railway disaster, said reports reaching here today.

The disaster happened inside a tunnel on the electrified northeastern Korean railway line when a speeding train hit a high-voltage power cable.

The rail crash happened last March, but was only revealed when a North Korean railway worker defected recently, newspapers here said.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Losses Registered In New York Trading

Fairly sharp loss was registered on the New York market today with key stocks down from fractions to two or three points.

Glamor stocks had somewhat wider losses, but some recovered from the severe battering they took Thursday.

Industrials continued to lose support on the Toronto exchange.

AT TORONTO among issues to show the heaviest losses were those also listed at New York. They included Inco down ⅞ to 88⅝, Stelco ½ to 19⅞, Distillers ⅜ to 33⅛ and Massey-Ferguson ¼ to 22.

Other losses went to Admiral Corp. off 4⅞ to 34⅛ on only 300 shares and Falconbridge ¾ to 85¼.

Western oils backed off. Dome was down ⅜ to 50⅝, Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¾ and Banff ⅛ to 14⅞.

AT NEW YORK, Fairchild Camera and Motorola, both big losers Thursday, dropped about 4 points more while Texas Instruments rebounded more than a point from its loss of 15⅝ Thursday.

A three-point loss by Du Pont dragged at the averages as did losses of a point or so by Eastman Kodak and Kennecott.

A block of 143,000 shares of Tidewater Oil at 72⅞, up 4½, seemed to ensure it the rank of most active stock.

General Motors lost ⅞ at 70 on 14,800 shares.

AT MONTREAL stocks were lower today. Trading was light.

Dominion Textile lost 1⅜ points to 25 and Denison Mines was lower by 1¼ at 59. Interprovincial Pipe Line was off one point at 81 and Inco ex-dividend 1⅛ at 88¾. Brinco lost 15 cents at $4.20 and Imperial Tobacco ⅝ at 13⅛. Distillers-Seagrams, Loeb and Massey-Ferguson were all off ½. MacMillan-Bloedel and Steel of Canada each eased ⅝.

AT LONDON the market presented an uninspiring picture today with equities showing small price changes although gains were in the majority.

Gilts were dull, and dollar stocks also were easier in line with Wall Street trading.

International Nickel and Noranda shed 1½ points and most other Canadians were down about a point. Canadian Husky and Hollinger, however, were firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was dull after the nine-month figures from the operating companies were announced.

AT VANCOUVER there was scattered strength in the industrials in light trade before noon today.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 328,616 shares.

Western Broadcasting added .50 to a new high of $13, while A-1 Steel A was up .75 to $8.25.

MacKay Cormack B was up .10 to $1.60.

In other industrials trade Massey was off .37 to $21.75, and PC Terminals lost $1.75 to $22.25.

In the mines Cascade was up eight cents to $1.48 and Highland Bell was up .25 to $7.25. New Imperial put on a .05 to $1.70 and Silbak was up .10 to .29.

Among the losers Atlas lost .20 to $2.40 and Brenda was down .10 to $8.10. Highmont slipped .08 to $1.72.

Jump In Permits

New petroleum and natural gas permits issued by the mines and petroleum resources department last month totalled 375, a net increase of 20 over September.

There were three new leases for petroleum exploration acreage and none for natural gas.

One natural gas licence was issued, compared with two last month.
